Il a vecu jusqu'ici sans reproche, he has lived hitherto without blemish.

Proposer les Reproches contre un Temoins, to except against a Witness, to bring out his Exceptions (or his Charge) against him.

Je lui ai fait un reproche de son Ingratitude, I laid Ingratitude to his Charge.

Ce que je vous dis là ce n'est pas par reproche, what I tell you is not by way of upbraiding, I upbraid you with nothing.

Or thus. As 2 Tim. 2. 15. Ouvrier sans reproche, a Workman that needs not to be ashamed.

Afin que vous soyez sans reproche, (Phil. 2. 15.) that you may be blameless.

Reprocher, to upbraid, twist, or reproach, tax, charge, or lay to ones charge; to except against.

Reprocher à quécun son Ingratitude, to upbraid one with his Ingratitude, to tax him with it.

La Conscience vous reproche vos Crimes, your Conscience upbraids you with your Crimes.

Qu'y a-t-il de plus odieux qu'un Homme qui reproche ses Bienfaits? car en fin ce n'est pas à celui qui les a faits, mais à celui qui les a reçus, à s'en resouvenir, what is more odious than he that reproaches a Man for his Kindnesses? for it is not for him that gives, but him that receives, to remember them.

Que me pouvez vous reprocher? quels reproches pouvez vous me faire? what can you upbraid me with? what reproaches can you put upon me?

Elle lui reprochera ceci, & lui chantera cette Chanson toute sa Vie, she will twist him with this, and will be all her life-time harping upon that string.

Respirer un bon Air, to breathe a good Air.
 L'Air que nous respirons est pur, the Air we breathe is a pure Air.

Il respire, il n'est pas encore mort, he breaths, (he fetches his breath) there is life in him still. J'ai peine à respirer, I fetch my breath with much ado.

Il ne respire que la Cruauté, he breaths nothing but Cruelty. Ne respirer que le Luce, to gape only for Lucr.

Or thus. As, mes Occupations ne me laissent pas respirer, cd. ne me donnent point de relâche, my Business give me no respite, no breathing time.

Il ne commence à respirer que depuis qu'il n'est plus avec ces Garnemens, he came not to himself till he left that wretched Crew.

Difficulté de respirer, a difficulty of breathing, a stoppage of breath.

Que toute Chose qui respire loué l'Eternel, (Ps. 150. 6.) let every Thing that hath breath praise the Lord.

Respit. See Repit.

† Resplendeur, (f.) brightness.

As Heb. 1. 3. étant la resplendeur de sa Gloire, & la marque engravée de sa Personne, being the brightness of his Glory, and the express Image of his Person.

† Resplendir, to shine, to glister, or to glitter.

As 2 Cor. 4. 6. il dit, que la Lumiere resplendit des Tenebres, he commanded the Light to shine out of Darknes.

Now this Verb Resplendir grows out of date, and instead of it the French use commonly briller, reluire, or eclater.

Resplendissant, shining, glistering, or glittering.

As Luke 9. 29. Comme il prioit, la forme de sa Face devint toute autre, & son Vêtement devint blanc & resplendissant comme un Eclair, as he pray'd, the fashion of his Countenance was altered, and his Raiment was white and glistering.

As, revoquer un Arrêt, to revoke (or repeal) a Decree.

Or thus. Revoquer une Chose en doute, to question a Thing.

Revoquer un Commis, to turn away a Commissioner.

† Il revoqua souvent son Ire (Ps. 78. 38.) many time turned he his Anger away.

Reüssir, to succeed, to succeed well, to speed, or prosper.

Tout lui reüssit, il reüssit en tout ce qu'il entreprend, every Thing succeeds (or prospers) well with him.

Si cet Ouvrage me reüssit, je n'aurai pas perdu ma peine, if this Work succeed well with me, I shan't think my labour ill bestowed.

C'est une belle Entreprise, je prie Dieu qu'elle reüssisse, 'tis a noble Undertaking, I pray God it may speed well.

Si quëque Chose reüssit bien à quëcun, nous disons qu'il a eu beaucoup de sagesse & de prudence; & s'il arrive au contraire, nous l'accusons aussi tôt d'avoir manqué de conduite, if any Thing prosper well with one, we are apt to attribute it all to his wise Conduct; and if it falls out otherwise, we presently lay it to the want thereof.

Or thus. La Chasse reüssit à vous autres, mais non pas à moi, you are lucky in Hunting, but so am not I.

Reüssite, (f.) cd. succès, success.

Livre qui a de la reüssite, a Book that has good success, that takes (or that sells) well.

L'Etage de Rez de Chauffée, ou le plus bas Etage d'un Bâtiment, the lowest Story, the Story next to the Ground.

Le Mur est à rez de Chauffée, the foot of the Wall stands level with the Ground that's about it.

Rez Terre, cd. tout contre la Terre, level with the Ground.

† Rez (Adj.) cd. rasé, shaved.

Il est rez & tondu comme un Moine, he is shaved like a Monk.

The same is also used in this Sense Substantively.

As, il ne se soucie ni des Rez ni des Tondu, cd. il ne se soucie de personne, he cares for no body.

¶ The Words which begin with these two Letters are but few, and all of 'em derived from the Greek Tongue.

The h is mute in French, and the r only sounded. Which is the Reason why some of the new Spellers have expunged the h, as needless and superfluous. But they are not generally followed.

S.

S Is pronounced in French as in English. But it is used in the feminine Gender; As, une grande ou petite s, a great or a little s.

The same, betwixt two Vowels, is sounded like a z, in French as in English; as desir desire, raison reason. And so it is in these Words transfiger, transacteur, transaction, tranfition.

S is always mute, even where the next Word begins with a Vowel.

1. In all Words ending in as or is; as hypocritas, taffetas, tracas, embarras, brebis, chat-fis, tabis, tapis.

2. In these following Words, travers, obtus, merlus, talus, verjus, fois, à tâtons, à reculations.

3. In the 2. Person Plural of Verbs, ending in es; as vous me dites une chose qui me surprend, you tell me a Thing that surprises me.

Except that Person be followed by the Particle en, or y. As, dites en ce qu'il vous plaira, say what you will of it; faites y tout votre possible, do what you can in it.

4. At the end of a Word, before the Preposition à. As, voici des Chambres à louer, here be Rooms to let.

On the contrary, the s is always pronounced in these two Words, Sens and Univers, though the next Word begin with a Consonant.

One of the greatest Objections that ever was made against the French Tongue, and certainly the greatest Discouragement Strangers had from learning of it, was the infinite Number of mute and superfluous Letters, wherewith it swarmed every where, especially in Words of Latine Origine. Amongst which Letters, none was so frequent as S.

But now that Scruple is happily removed, by leaving out the s, where it is not to be sounded.

Except these three Words, Isle, Basse, Estienne; and the Verb est, where the s is kept, to distinguish it from the Conjunction et.

But, because there are still some Authors and Printers that keep more or less to the Old Way of Spelling, (so hard it is to leave off an ill Custom) therefore, as well as for the reading of Old Books, I made use here of both Ways of Spelling, referring the Old to the New.

Instead of the Termination és, for the Plural of Nouns, Verbs, and Participles, the best Writers use ez; as veritez, aimez, enseignez.

And because ez is not to be used but with a masculine Sound, therefore those are out who spell these Words with a z; viz. acciez, deciez, exciez, &c. instead of accés, excés, procès, succès, progrès, congrès.

Lastly, 'tis observable concerning this Letter; That, though all Derivatives do usually follow the Rule of their Primitives, yet there is a good Number of Derivatives and Compounds that resume the s left out in their Primitives, because it is there pronounced.

So from Apôtre, we have Apostolat, and Apostolique; from bâton, bastonnade, and bastonner; from bête, bestialité, bestiole; from répondre, responsable, correspondre, correspondant, and correspondance; from détruire, destructeur, destruction; from Epître, Epistolaire; from epiër, Espion, Espionne, espionner; from écrire, description, prescrire, and their Derivatives; from éponge, spongieux; and from Ecole, Scolastique.

On the contrary, though from Christ we say Christianisme, yet the s is left out in Chretien, Chretienité, and Chretienement.

S A

Sa, his, her.

This is a Pronoun Possessive, used instead of Son, before Nouns of the feminine Gender that begin with a Consonant.

As, la Fille, ed. la Fille de lui, his Daughter. Sa Fille, ed. la Fille d'elle, her Daughter.

Or thus, Il s'en est tiré Bagues sauvées, cd. il s'est tiré d'affaire heureusement, he came off with Bag and Baggage, that is, he got off very well.

Sauvé, saved.

As, ceux qui craignent Dieu seront sauvés, those that fear God shall be saved.

Sauvegarde, (f.) Protection, Shelter, Defence, Safeguard.

Se mettre sous la Sauvegarde du Roi, to put himself under the King's Protection.

Sauvegarde, Lettres avec les Armes du Roi, par lesquelles sa Majesté défend à ses Sujets de faire aucun Tort au Lieu ou à la Personne qu'il prend sous sa Protection, the King's Letters for the Protection of a Person, or Place.

La Sauvegarde est ordinairement sur une feuille de Fer blanc, que l'on affiche à la Porte de celui que le Roi veut conserver, ou à un Poteau dans une Place publique.

En Termes de Mer on appelle aussi Sauvegarde une Corde, qui sert pour marcher en sécurité sur le Mât de Beupré.

Sauvegarde, (m.) a Trooper, employ'd amongst the rest for the Security of a Place against the Invasion of disbanded Souldiers.

Ces Cavaliers sont distingués par un Hoqueton bleu, avec des Fleurs de lis en broderie, l'une d'un côté & l'une de l'autre, & cette Inscription au dessus, Sauvegarde du Roi.

Sauver, to save, keep, or deliver; to save, or spare.

As, sauver la Vie à quacun, to save ones Life.

Je lui ai sauvé la Vie, I saved his Life.

Sauvez moi, je vous prie, pray, save me.

Sauver sa Patrie, to save his Country. Sauver sa Gloire, cd. empêcher qu'elle ne soit ternie ou offensée, to save his Credit.

Sauver son Ame, to save his Soul.

Cela me sauvera des Peines & de la Depense, that will save me some Trouble and Charges.

Or thus, Ne pouvant sauver (cd. ne pouvant excuser) sa Conduite, je justifie ses Intentions, though I could not justify his Conduct, I justify'd his Intentions however.

Le Seigneur me sauvera en son Royaume celeste, (2 Tim. 4. 18.) the Lord will preserve me unto his heavenly Kingdom.

Se sauver, to save himself, to fly, or make his escape; to save himself, or work his Salvation.

Sauvez vous, tandis que vous le pouvez, save your self, whilst you may do it.

Je me sauvai de nuit, I made my escape in the night. Il s'est sauvé à la nage, he saved himself by swimming.

Où s'est-il sauvé? where is he fled? Il s'est sauvé en Angleterre, he is fled into England.

Or thus, Se sauver de Prison, to break Prison.

On ne songe guere à se sauver, Men little think of their Salvation.

† Sauveté, (f.) safety, security.

Or thus, As Ps. 119. 94. Je suis à toi, mets moi à sauveté, I am thine, save me.

And v. 117. Appuie moi, & je serai à sauveté, hold thou me up, and I shall be safe.

Etant donc venus à sauveté, (Acts 28. i.) and when they were escaped.

Sauveur, (m.) a Saviour.

As, Jesus Christ est le Sauveur du Monde, Christ is the Saviour of the World.

Un Esprit scabreux, a rugged (skittish, or dangerous) Man.

Scamonee, (f.) forte de Plante purgative, Scammony, purging Bindweed.

La Racine & les Fleurs de la Scamonee sont blanches, the Root and Flowers of Scammony are white.

Scamonee, Suc condensé de la Racine de la Scamonee, the Juice of Scammony.

La Scamonee purge les Humeurs bilieuses, mais elle est contraire à l'Estomac, the Juice of Scammony purges the bilious Humours, but it is bad for the Stomach.

Scandale, (m.) Scandal, Offence.

Un grand Scandale, a great Scandal.

Faire (exciter, causer) du Scandale, donner sujet de scandale, to raise a Scandal, to give an Offence.

Scandaleusement, scandalously, or in a scandalous manner.

Vivre scandaleusement, to live scandalously, to lead a scandalous Life.

Trahir scandaleusement la grandeur de sa Maison, to betray the greatness of his Family in a most scandalous manner.

Scandaleux, scandalous.

As, un Exemple scandaleux, a scandalous Example.

Une Vie scandaleuse, a scandalous Life.

Scandalisé, scandalized, offended.

J'en suis fort scandalisé, mais je ne saurois qu'y faire, I am very much scandalized at it, but I cannot help it.

Bienheureux est celui qui n'aura point été scandalisé en moi, (Luke 7. 23.) blessed is he who shall not be offended in me.

Or thus, On est fort scandalisé de son Procédé, his Proceeding is very much disliked, or found fault with.

Scandaliser, to scandalize, or to give Offence.

Cela me scandalise, that scandalizes me, or I am offended at it.

Or thus, As 1 Cor. 8. 13. afin que je ne scandalise point mon Frere, lest I make my Brother to offend.

Se scandaliser d'une Chose, to be offended at a Thing.

Il est bon de ne faire aucune Chose en laquelle ton Frere se scandalise, (Rom. 14. 21.) it is good to do nothing whereby thy Brother is offended.

Scapulaire, (m.) Terme de Religieux & de Religieuse, qui signifie une Bande d'Etoffe large d'environ un pié, laquelle pend par devant & par derriere jusques aux Talons, a Piece of Stuff about a foot broad, which Monks and Nuns wear uppermost over their Habit, and which hangs before and behind to the very Heels.

Il y a Scapulaire de Jour, & Scapulaire de Nuit. Celui ci ne passe pas ordinairement les Genoux, & ne va qu'équivoque guere au delà de la Ceinture.

Il y a encore Scapulaire blanc, & Scapulaire noir. Les Religieuses Novices portent dans quelques Ordres le Scapulaire blanc, & le quittent pour prendre le noir, lors qu'elles sont professes.

Plusieurs Personnes du Siecle de l'un & de l'autre Sexe portent au Cou un Scapulaire, en forme de petit Habit. Ce sont deux petits Morceaux d'Etoffe, de couleur fort brune, attachez l'un haut & l'autre bas, à quelque distance l'un de l'autre, avec deux galons. Mais auparavant ils font benir cela aux Carmes, à qui on donne quelque petite chose, & se font écrire sur le Livre de la Confratrie. Puis, en faisant la Semaine quelque Abstinence, & disant tous les Jours quelques Pater & quelques Ave, ils gagnent les Indulgences qui sont attachées à ce petit Habit.

As, Dieu est le Scrutateur des Cœurs, ed. c'est lui qui sonde (ou qui penetre dans) les Cœurs, God is the Searcher of Hearts.

This is that which the Greeks call in one Word επισκοπος.

Les Capucins appellent aussi Scrutateurs ceux qui dans les Elections & autres Choses de cette nature ramassent les Billets des Religieux, mettent ces Billets par ordre, & content les Voix. Dans les grands Chapitres generaux il y a ordinairement quatre Scrutateurs, mais dans les Chapitres Provinciaux il n'y en a le plus souvent que deux.

Les Augustins appellent aussi Scrutateurs les Religieux qui sont eleus, pour examiner les Voix qu'on a données dans un Chapitre Provincial.

Scrutin, (m.) Terme de certains Religieux, qui veut dire un Recueil (ou Examen) de Voix, Scrutiny.

Ce Mot, parmi les Augustins, signifie aussi le Lieu auquel le Provincial, ou les Visiteurs interrogent les Religieux sur le fait de leurs Visites.

Scrutin est encore en Usage, lors qu'il s'agit de l'Election des Papes.

S E

Se, himself, herself, themselves; one another.

This is a Pronoun Personal used, instead of Soit, or à soi, before Verbs, not only in the Singular, but also in the Plural Number. And, when the Verb begins with a Vowel, then se is turned into s, by way of Elation.

Se for soi. As, il se chatouille, he tickles himself. Elle se chatouille, she tickles herself. Ils (elles) se chatouillent, they tickle themselves; also, they tickle one another.

Ils s'entraiment, they love one another. Ils s'abandonnent, they give themselves over.

Se, for à soi. As, il s'est donné un grand coup sur l'estomac, he gave himself a great blow upon the Stomach.

Now Verbs thus used with this reciprocal Pronoun are called in French des Verbes Reciproques, that is Verbs Reciprocal; but especially such Verbs as are never used without this Pronoun, either in the Infinitive, or in the third person of each Tense. As, se repentir, to repent; s'abstenir, to forbear; se souvenir, to remember; s'enquerir, to inquire, &c.

This Pronoun you will find likewise with some Verbs Imperfonally used.

Tes Serviteurs sont prêts à faire tout ce que le Roi notre Sire trouvera bon, (2 Sam. 15. 15.) thy Servants are ready to do whatsoever my Lord the King shall appoint.

The proper Use of this Word is when we are to speak to Kings. Whereas in former Times this Title was commonly given to all Lords, whether of Territory or Jurisdiction, le Sire du Pais being often used to signify the Lord of the Country.

The same was also commonly prefixed to the Word Chevalier, as Sire Chevalier. And to this day it is used in some Places before the Christen-names of Merchants or Tradesmen, as Sire Pierre, Sire Jean. In a burlesk Sense, it is applied to other Men, and even to some Beasts.

As, vous êtes un beau Sire, you are a fine Gentleman.

Sire Loup l'eût fait volontiers, Master Wolf had willingly done it.

Sirene, (f.) a Mermaid, or Meermaid.

Les Meermoids (as the Fables tells us, and as we paint them now adays) are in their upper Parts like Women, and Fish below; or, according to Servius, part Virgins and part Birds; whence called volucres Puellæ by Claud. They were three of them, Daughters of Achelous and the Muse Calliope, and all of 'em rare Songsters. They ply'd upon the Coast of Sicily, and tempted Passengers on Shore, where they sung them asleep, and then killed and robbed them. The Truth is, they were tempting Harlots. However the Moral is, to shew the Peril of bodily Pleasures, which are likewise three, Meats, Drinks, and Veneries.

La Volupté est une Sirene qui perd la plupart des Jeunes gens, Voluptuousness is a fatal Mermaid to Young people.

Quèque soin qu'on prenne de couvrir ses Passions, elles paroissent toujours, whatever care one takes to cover his Passions, still they will betray him.

Abandonner le Soins d'une Affaire, to give over the Care of a Business.

Laissons ce Soins à nos Descendans, let us leave this Care to our Posterity.

Or thus. Le Lieutenant soulage le Capitaine dans tous les Soins de sa Charge, the Lieutenant helps the Captain in all the Duties of his Place.

Qu'est ce que de l'Homme, que tu prends soin de lui? (Ps. 144. 3.) what is Man, that thou takest knowledge of him?

Dechargeons tout votre Souci sur lui, car il a soin de vous, (1 Pet. 5. 7.) casting all your Care upon him, for he careth for you.

Soir, (m.) Evening, Night.

As, se promener sur le Soir, to walk in the Evening. Respirer la fraîcheur du Soir, to breath the cool of the Evening.

Il arriva sur le Soir, he came in the Evening, or in the dusk of the Evening.

L'Etoile du Soir, the Evening-Star.

Se promener soir & matin, to walk night and day.

A Paris on va presentement le Soir en toute assurance, now 'tis safe going in the Night through the Streets of Paris.

Bon Soir, good Night, good Night 'ye.

Je vous souhaite le bon Soir, I wish you good Night.

Se Soir. See le Soir.

Soirée, (f.) the Evening, or Evening-Tide, that part of the Night which reaches from Candle-light to Bed-time.

Je passe toutes les Soirées avec lui, I spend every Night with him.

Je Sois, tu Sois, il Soit. Tis a Tense belonging to the Subjunctive Mood of the Verb Être, to be.

Soit, (a kind of Conjunction) I grant it, let it be so.

Vous dites qu'il est honnête Homme, soit, mais il n'est au fond qu'un Ane, you say he is an honest Man, I grant it, but when all is done he is but an Ass.

Soit que, whether, or.

As, soit qu'il vienne, soit qu'il demeure, or soit qu'il vienne, ou qu'il demeure, whether he comes, or stays.

Soit que vous m'aimiez, soit que vous ne m'aimiez pas, whether you love me, or love me not.

Soldat de fortune, a Souldier of fortune.

Un simple Soldat, a common Soldier.

Soldat nouvellement levé, a raw (or an undisciplined) Souldier. Un vieux Soldat, an old Soldier.

Un bon Soldat craint plus son Capitaine, qu'il ne fait son Enemi, a good Souldier fears his Captain more, than he does his Enemy.

Il n'a rien de Soldat, que quand il void l'Enemi, cd. il n'a rien qui sente l'Homme de Guerre que lors qu'il est prêt à combattre, he never looks Soldier-like, but when he is about to fight.

Être né Soldat, to be born a Souldier. Il est Soldat autant qu'Homme du Monde, he is as much a Souldier as any Man.

Quoi que le Mot de Soldat signifie généralement un Homme de Guerre, néanmoins il s'attribue particulièrement à l'Homme de pié. La plupart des Reglemens & des Ordonnances que le Roi a faites pour la Guerre sont pleines de cette Distinction.

Après avoir nommé le Soldat, elles ajoutent le Mot de Cavalier, pour établir leur Difference.

Soldatesque, (f.) cd. Soldats, Troupes, Souldiers.

Ils se retirèrent, pour éviter les Insultes de la Soldatesque, they went away, to avoid the Souldiers Insults.

† Soldatesque, (Adj.) qui sent le Soldat, Cavalier, Souldier-like.

Sonde, (f.) Probe, a Surgeons (or a Farriers) Probe; Plummet, a sounding Plummet.

La Sonde est un Instrument long & rond, dont le Chirurgien & le Marechal ferrant se servent pour sonder les Plaies, a Probe is a long and round Instrument, which the Surgeon and Farrier make use of to search a Wound.

Appliquer la Sonde à une Plaie, to search a Wound with the Probe.

La Sonde de Mer est une petite Masse de plomb, faite en Pyramide ou en façon de Quille, ordinairement du poids de 18 Livres, the sounding Plummet is a piece of Lead, shaped Pyramid-like or in the fashion of Nine-pins, weighing commonly 18 Pounds.

Jeter la Sonde, to throw the Plummet.

Naviguer la Sonde à la main, to sail with the Plummet in hand; (and figuratively,) to proceed advisedly, or to go warily to work.

Or thus. As, être à la Sonde, cd. être venu jusqu'à un Parage où l'on trouve fond, to find Ground with the Plummet.

Venir jusqu'à la Sonde, cd. quitter le Large de la Mer, & venir jusqu'à un Endroit où l'on trouve fond avec la Sonde, to leave the main Sea, and to come where one may find ground with the sounding Plummet.

Voici de quelle maniere, & à quelle fin, on se sert de la Sonde sur Mer. On l'attache à un long Cordeau, qu'on appelle la Ligne de la Sonde, & la baie (ou le dessous) de la sonde étant frotée de Suif, on fait descendre la Sonde dans la Mer. Ce qui se fait, tant pour savoir la Profondeur du Parage où l'on se trouve, & par ce moyen éviter les Bancs & les Basses, que pour reconnoître la nature & la qualité du Fond, qui s'attache au bas de la Sonde. Lequel étant froté de Suif, & venant à porter sur le Sol ou fond de la Mer, en enleve du Sable, ou de la Vaze, en cas qu'il y en ait. Et, si elle ne rapporte rien, il faut que le fond soit de Cailloux, ou de Roche.

Sondé, sounded, searched, or tried; sounded, pumped, or sifted.

Sonder, to sound, try, or search; to sound, pump, or sift.

As, sonder la Mer, ou une Riviere, to sound the depth of the Sea, or of a River.

Sonder une Plaie, to search a Wound. Sonder la Pierre dans la Vessie, to search the Stone in the Bladder.

C'est Dieu qui fonde les Cœurs, 'tis God who tries the Hearts.

Un plaisant Songe, a pleasant Dream. Faire des Songes agreables, to dream pleasant Dreams. Un mechant Songe, a bad (or scurrilous) Dream.

Par la Confusion des Fantômes & des Especes laissées dans notre Esprit des Choses que nous avons faites ou pensées durant le Jour, nous faisons en dormant de merveilleux Songes, by the confused Phantasms and Notions left in our Brains of Things we have done or thought of in the Day-time, we dream in our Sleep strange Dreams.

Il lui sembloit que c'étoit un Songe, he lookt upon it as a Dream.

Les Songes sont trompeurs, & ce ne sont la plupart que des Mensonges, Dreams are deceitfull, and most of 'em but meer Delusions.

Puis que je n'ai pas de solides Plaisirs, laissez moi vivre de mes Songes, being I have no solid Pleasures, let me live upon my Fancies.

La Gloire & la Renommée ne sont que Songe & que Fumée, Glory and Fame are but a Dream and an empty Vapour.

†Songe-creux, (m.) cd. un Rêveur, un Melancolique, a dreaming Man, one that is in a brown study.

C'est un Songe-creux, he is a dreaming Man.

†Songe-malice, (m.) a continual Plotter of Mischief, a mischievous (or unlucky) person, a Man of wicked Devices.

Songer, to dream, or be in a dream; to think, mind, or consider.

As, songer en dormant, to dream in his Sleep. En dormant il songe toujours quelque Chose, qui le fait rire à gorge deployée, in his Sleep he ever dreams of something that makes him break out into laughter.

J'ai songé, que je marchois sur les Eaux, I dreamt, that I walked on the Water.

Un Homme songea qu'il alloit accoucher, & éveilla toute la Maison, criant de toute sa force qu'on allât querir la Sage femme, a Man dreamt he was in labour, and awaked all the House, crying out in great haste for a Midwife.

Ceux qui en songeant se levent la Nuit, & font des actions de gens éveillez, sont des Melancoliques, dont l'Imagination troublée par des Vapeurs d'une Melancolie grossiere agite les Sens, & fait mouvoir le Corps, those who in their Dreams rise in the Night, and do Things as if they were really awake, are a sort of Melancholy people, whose Fancy being disturbed by gross melancholy Vapours works upon the Senses, and sets the Body on work.

Songez à ce que vous faites, mind what you do.

Songez y bien, avant que de l'entreprendre, think well (consider) of it, before you undertake it.

Vous vous trompez, c'est à quoi l'on ne songe pas, you are mistaken, 'tis not so much as thought on.

Or thus. As, Songer à soi, cd. prendre garde à soi, to look to himself.

Croyez moi, songez à vous, believe me, look to your self.

Sans y songer, unawares.

Songeur (m) a Dreamer, one that is apt to dream in his Sleep.

†Un Songeur, cd. un Homme sombre, ou pensif, a thoughtful, or melancholy Man.

Sonner (from Son) to strike; to ring; to blow; to sound, both in an active and a neutral Sense.

Contez les Heures, l'Horloge sonne, tell the Clock, the Clock strikes. L'Horloge a sonné une heure, the Clock has struck one.

Sorte, (f.) sort, or kind; manner.

As, diverses sortes d'Animaux, several sorts of living Creatures. Ces sortes de Chapeaux ne sont plus à la mode, these sorts of Hats are out of fashion.

Des Fruits de cette sorte, Fruits of this kind.

Je vous souhaite toute sorte de bonheur, I wish you all manner of happiness. Dieu vous preserve de toutes sortes de Maux, God preserve ye from all mischances.

Remarquez ici, touchant les deux precedentes Phrases, que toute sorte veut un Singulier après soi, & toutes sortes un Pluriel. C'est pourquoi il faut dire toute sorte de bonheur, le dernier Mot au Singulier; & toutes sortes de Maux, non pas de Mal.

De la sorte, cd. de cette maniere là, thus, in that manner. De cette sorte, thus, in this manner.

Sur ces deux Expressions il y a cette Remarque à faire. C'est que de la sorte ne se met qu'après qu'une Chose vient d'être dite ou faite; & qu'on dit de cette sorte, avant qu'une Chose soit dite ou faite.

Par exemple, ayant parlé de la sorte, having thus spoken. Il commença à parler de cette sorte, he began to speak in this manner.

De bonne sorte, Gal. 4. 17, well.

Suite, (f.) Retinue, Train, Attendance, or Attendants; order, or succession; consequence, that which follows; sequel; coherency.

Un Prince avec toute sa Suite, a Prince with his whole Retinue. Notre Ambassadeur a une Suite magnifique, our Ambassador hath a noble Retinue.

Vous renversez la Suite des Temps & des Choses, you overthrow the Order of Times and Things. Une longue Suite d'Années, a long Succession of Years.

Tirer une Conclusion par une Suite nécessaire, to draw a Conclusion by a necessary Consequence.

J'en apprehende les Suites, I fear the Consequence.

Vous le trouverez dans la Suite du Discours, you will find it in the Sequel of the Discourse.

Il n'y a point de suite dans ce Discours, there is no coherency at all in that Discourse.

Il y a entre ces Choses une si merveilleuse Suite, que l'une semble être attachée à l'autre, ou qu'elles semblent toutes se tenir, there is such an admirable Coherency betwixt those Things, that the one seems tied to the other, or that they all seem to hang one upon another.

Or thus. Dans la suite du Temps, in time, in process of Time, or in succeeding Times.

De suite, (Adv.) together, one after another.

As, j'ai veillé trois Nuits de suite, I sat up three Nights together.

Il a dormi dix heures de suite, he slept ten hours together.

Tout d'une suite, cd. dans un même tems, sans discontinuation, all together, or without making any Stop.

T.

T Is generally pronounced in French as in English. But it is used in the Masculine Gender; as un grand, ou un petit t, a great or a little t.

The same takes the sound of a c, where it is followed by the Vowel i. As, martial, partial, ambitieux, feditieux, ambition, sedition.

Except 1. where the t has an s or x just before it; such as question, mixtion, and their Derivatives, where the t retains its proper Pronunciation.

2. In Verbal Tenses, such as nous etions, nous bations, nous fortions.

3. In Nouns ending in tie and tié, as partie, rotie, fortie, amitié, pitié, moitié.

4. In these Words, tien, maintien, soutien, and the like.

It is not sounded before a Consonant in the middle of compound Words, such as avant-coureur, postposer.

And it is always mute in these Words, viz. affut, forêt, landit, Zenith, exact, tort, respect.

Now, to avoid an Interlapping of Vowels, this Letter is always pronounced, and in Writing ought to be thus inserted by itself, betwixt the third person Singular of a Verb being used with an Interrogation, and any of these three Particles, il, elle, on. As, parle-t-il? do's he speak? va-t-elle? doth she go? que dira-t-on? what will the World say?

So s'en aller, s'en venir, s'en retourner, and s'en revenir make in the Imperative Mood va-t-en, vien-t-en, retourne-t-en, revien-t-en.

t is now left out, as mute and superfluous, in the Word néanmoins, formerly spelt neantmoins.

And so it is in the Plural Termination of Nouns ending in ant, or ent in the Singular; as Enfants, commencemens, which heretofore were spelt with a t, thus, Enfants, commencemens.

The same is turned into c at the end of these Words, which formerly were spelt with a t; viz. prophécie, necromancie, chiromancie, Dalmacie, Croacie, and the like.

To which add all such Adjectives as these, to wit vicieux from Vice, avaricieux from avarice, and spacieux from espace; which formerly were spelt vitieux, spatieux, avaritieux.

T A

Ta, thy.

This is a Pronoun Possessive used, instead of ton, before Nouns of the feminine Gender that begin with a Consonant.

As, ta Fille, thy Daughter.

Le Conseil du Roi resout premierement la Somme d'argent qu'il faut lever sur les Sujets de Sa Majesté. Cela fait, il envoie des Commissions aux Tresoriers generaux établis aux Bureaux des Generalitez du Royaume, pour lever dans leurs Elections la Somme qui leur est ordonnée. Les Tresoriers font aussi tot sur chaque Election le Departement de la Somme qu'ils peuvent lever, & envoient ce Departement au Conseil du Roi. Là dessus le Conseil envoie aux Tresoriers generaux pour chaque Election des Commissions portant ordre aux Eleus des diverses Elections de lever dans l'Etendue de chaque Election la Somme qui leur est prescrite par la Commission. Les Eleus sur cela s'assemblent, & font les Roles des Tailles; où ils cotisent à une certaine Somme chaque Bourg & chaque Village de leur Election. Ils envoient le Role de Cotisation à chaque Paroisse, qui elit un ou plusieurs Collecteurs pour lever la Taille imposée.

Tant, so much; as much; so many; as long, so long; so; as well, both.

Il est tant aimé, & tant estimé, he is so much beloved, and esteemed. Je ne l'admire pas tant pour ses Richesses que pour sa Vertu, I don't admire him so much for his Riches as for his Virtue.

Tant mieux, so much the better. Tant pis, so much the worse. Tant par tête, so much a head.

Tant que je puis, as much as I can.

Tant qu'il sera possible, as much as may be.

Tant qu'il vous plaira, as much as you will. Qu'ils rient tant qu'ils voudront, let them laugh as much as they please.

Il y a tant de Mecontents, there are so many discontented people. Il y a tant de Trompeurs dans le Monde, there are so many Cheats in the World.

Tant que je vivrai, as long as I live. Tant que je ferai mon Devoir, as long as I shall do my Duty.

Tant il est savant, so learned he is.

Tant il est vrai que, so true it is that.

Tant il est important de s'y accoutumer des sa Jeunesse, so material it is to be used to it from his Youth. Tant il est mal aisé d'y parvenir, so hard it is to come to it.

Tant pour Homme que pour Femme, as well for Men as for Women.

Tant petits que grands, both great and small.

Or thus. En ces soixante tant d'Années qu'il a vécu, for about threescore years more or less that he lived.

† Si tant est que, ed. s'il est vrai que, if so be that.

† Tant plus, pour d'autant plus, the more.

As Phil. 2. 28. Je l'ai envoyé tant plus soigneusement, I sent him the more carefully.

And John 5. 18. Pour cette cause les Juifs tâchoient tant plus de le mettre à mort, therefore the Jews sought the more to kill him.

† Tant plus, pour dire plus, the more.

As, tant plus il boit, tant plus il a soif, the more he drinks, the drier he is. Say plus il boit, plus il a soif.

† Tant & plus, throughly; very much; earnestly; the more; to spare.

As Ps. 51. 2. Lave moi tant & plus de mon Iniquité, & me nettoie de mon Peché, wash me throughly from mine Iniquity, and cleanse me from my Sin.

Je suis affligé tant & plus (Ps. 119. 107.) I am afflicted very much.

Desirans tant & plus d'être revêtus de notre Domicile, qui est du Ciel (2. Cor. 5. 2.) earnestly desiring to be clothed upon with our House, which is from Heaven.

De sorte que je m'en suis tant & plus ejoui (2. Cor. 7. 7.) so that I rejoiced the more.

Combien y a-t-il de Mercenaires en la Maison de mon Pere, qui ont du Pain tant & plus, & moi je meurs de faim? (Luke 15. 17.) how many hired Servants of my Father's have Bread to spare, and I perish with hunger?

Tant à tant, ed. nous voila egaux en matiere de Jeu. En Anglois, on nomme le Nombre de Jeux; & si l'on est par exemple deux à deux, il faut dire two all.

Tant y a que, ed. quoi qu'il en soit, however.

As, tant y a qu'en fin je l'ai obtenu, however I obtained it at last.

Or thus. As 1. Sam. 2. 16. Tant y a que tu en donneras maintenant, Nay, but thou shalt give it me now.

Tant s'en faut que, ed. bien loin que, so far.

As, tant s'en faut que la Mort soit un Mal, qu'au contraire elle nous delivre d'une infinité de Maux, Death is so far from being an Evil, that on the contrary it delivers us from an infinite Number of Evils.

Tant soit peu, a little, but a little, never so little.

Il étoit tant soit peu plus grand, he was a little taller.

Qu'il attende tant soit peu, let him stay a little.

Donnez m'en tant soit peu, give me but a little.

Je n'en veux que tant soit peu, I'll have but a little.

S'il m'en donne tant soit peu, je serai content, if he gives me never so little, I shall be satisfied.

Tantarare. 'Tis a made Word, to express the Sound of a Trumpet.

Tante, (f.) Aunt.

character; witness, evidence, or deposition;

testimony, in a Scriptural Sense; Record, in the same sense; testimony, evidence, proof, argument, mark, or token; a Certificate, or Testimonial.

Je ne veux pas m'en rapporter à votre

Temoignage, I won't rely upon your Testimony.

Il m'a rendu de fort bons Temoignages de vous, he has given me a very good Charafter of you.

Un Temoignage vrai, ou faux, a true, or false Evidence, or Deposition. Porter te- moignage de quelque Chose, to bring in his Evidence about a Thing. Rendre un faux Temoignage, to give in a false Evidence.

Si je ren temoignage touchant moi même, mon Temoignage n'est point digne de foi (John 5. 31.) if I bear witness of my self, my witness is not true.

Puis tu mettras en l'Arche le Temoigna- ge que je te donnerai (Ex. 25. 16.) and thou shalt put into the Ark the Testimony which I shall give thee.

Je me suis rendu attentif à tes Temoi- gnages (Ps. 119. 95.) I have considered thy Testimonies.

Alors les Pharisiens lui dirent, Tu rens te- moignage de toi même, ton Temoignage n'est point digne de foi (John 8. 13.) the Pharisees therefore said unto him, thou bear- est record of thy self, thy Record is not true.

And Gal. 4. 15. Je vous ren temoignage, que, s'il eût été possible, vous eussiez ar- raché vos Yeux, & me les eussiez donnez, I bear you record, that, if it had been pos- sible, you would have plucked out your own Eyes, and have given them to me.

Donner à quécun des Temoignages de son Souvenir, to give one some Testimonies (or Proofs) of his Remembrance.

Donner d'eclatans Temoignages de sa Re- conoissance, to give singular Proofs (Evi- dences, or Tokens) of his Gratitude.

Un Temoignage d'Affecton, a Token of Love.

Or thus. As John 4. 44. Jesus avoit rendu temoignage, qu'un Prophete n'est point honoré en son Pais, Jesus himself testified, that a Prophet hath no honour in his own Country.

Afin d'être en temoignage (1. Tim. 2. 6.) to be testified.

Ayant temoignage d'avoir fait de bonnes œuvres (1 Tim. 5. 10.) well reported of for good Works.

Temoigner, to testify, shew, demonstrate, ex- press, make appear, or make known; to de- pose, or give evidence; to bear record, Rev. 1. 2.

Il m'a temoigné beaucoup d'amitié, he has expressed a great deal of friendship to me.

Il m'a temoigné d'abord bien de la Joie, & peu après bien de la Froideur, he pre- sently expressed a great Joy, which soon af- ter relenied and cooled again.

Je lui en ai temoigné mon Ressentiment, I have testified (or made known) my Resent- ment to him.

Le peu d'affection qu'il m'a temoigné, the little affection he shewed me.

J'aime les gens qui temoignent toujours de l'esprit sans choquer personne, I love a Man that can shew his Wit without abu- sing others.

Il a temoigné cela, cd. il a déposé cela, he has given that Evidence, he has deposed that.

Or thus. Je vous temoignerai en toute rencontre, que je suis votre tres humble Serviteur, you shall find by me upon all Oc- casions, that I am your most humble Ser- vant.

Cela me fâche un peu, mais je n'ai pas voulu le lui temoigner, that troubles me a little, but I would not take notice of it to him.

Temoin, (m.) a Witness, an Evidence, or a Deponent.

Un Temoin oculaire, an Eye-Witness. Un seul Temoin oculaire vaut plus que dix Te- moins qui ne savent les Choses que par ouïr dire, one Eye-witness is more to be valued than ten Witnesses that know the Thing no better than by hear-say.

Un Temoin irreprochable, an undisprovable Witness, a Witness not to be disproved, or ex- cepted against, a credible Witness.

Un Temoin reprochable, a Witness that maybe excepted against.

Un faux Temoin, a false Witness. Un Te- moin suborné, a suborned Witness.

Les faux Temoins sont pendus, ou ils ont la Tête coupée, false Witnesses are hanged, or beheaded.

Servir de Temoin contre quécun, to come in as a Witness against one. Il est témoin de ce qui s'est passé, he is a Witness of what passed.

Oùir les Temoins, to hear the Witnesses. Les recoler, to hear 'em again.

En la bouche de deux ou de trois Temoins toute Parole sera confirmée, (2 Cor. 13.1.) in the mouth of two or three Witnesses shall every Word be established.

Or thus. As, ce Camp sera Témoin de ma Valeur, this Field shall testify my Valour.

Ce Temple est Témoin de la Magnificence, this Temple is a Testimony of his Magnificence.

En Témoin, pour dire en Temoignage, in Witness, or Testimony.

As, en Témoin de quoi j'ai signé la presente, in Witness whereof I have set my hand to this Writing.

A Témoin. As, je vous pren tous à témoin, pray, bear Witness as many as you are.

Je pren Dieu à Témoin, Dieu m'est Témoin, I take God to Witness, God is my Witness, or my Record, as Phil. 1. 8.

Je pren à Témoin le Ciel & la Terre, I call Heaven and Earth to Witness.

Témoin, (Adv.) As, Témoin un tel, Witness such a one.

Témoin les anciens Philosophes, Witness the ancient Philosophers. Témoin tous les Peres de l'Antiquité, Witness all the ancient Fathers.

Au reste, les Ingenieurs appellent Temoins (au Nombre Pluriel) de certaines Hauteurs faites de la même Terre qu'on transporte, auxquelles on ne touche point, & qu'on laisse dans les Lieux vuides, afin de savoir au juste combien on a tiré de Terre.

Les Cordeurs de Bois & les Marchands de Bois de Paris appellent aussi de ce Nom les deux Buches qu'on met de côté & d'autre de la Membrane, lors qu'on corde le Bois aux Chantiers.

Temperament, (m.) Temper, or Constitution; a Medium, Means, or Way to bring Things to an Accommodation, a Modification.

Tout, all; every; any.

As, tout le Monde l'aime, all the World loves him. Je suis tout à vous, I am all yours.

Tout le Jour, all the Day long. Toute la Nuit, all the Night long.

Ceci est tout d'Or, this is all of Gold. C'est tout un, 'tis all one.

Tout Homme est sujet à faillir, every Man is apt to fail. Tout honnête Homme est mon Rival, every honest Man is my Rival.

Citer un Auteur à toute heure, to quote an Author every foot.

Toute Eau peut servir à cela, any Water will serve for that.

Tout autre que Vous m'en auroit fait douter, any body but You would have made me doubt it.

Tout ce que vous jugerez à propos, any thing that (whatever) you shall think fit.

Or thus. As, tout ce qu'il y a d'honnêtes gens dans le Monde, whatever honest people there are in the World.

Obligé tout ce qu'on peut l'être à quëcun, obliged to one as much as may be.

Now Tout makes in the Plural Tous.

As, ils font tous ensemble, they are all together.

Ils font tous de braves gens, they are all honest men.

† A tous Venans, to all Comers.

Sa Maison est ouverte à tous Venans, his House is open to all Comers.

Toutes les fois que, every time that, as often as.

Or thus. As, tous tant qu'ils font, as many as they are, every one of them.

Tout, (a masc. Subst.) Whole; every thing, any thing; all things, all.

As, diviser le Tout en ses Parties, to divide the Whole into its Parts.

Le Tout est plus grand que la Partie, the Whole is bigger than the Part.

C'est là le Tout de l'Homme, that is the Whole Duty of Man.

Il fait tout avec esprit, he does every Thing wisely, or ingeniously.

Si vous m'aimez, tout me semblera doux, if you love me, every thing will be sweet to me.

Un Homme propre à tout, a Man fit for any Thing.

Tout bien considéré, all Things being well considered.

Antoine faisoit tout selon les Regles de l'Art, Anthony did all Things according to the Rules of Art.

Ce n'est pas tout, this is not all. Je lui ai tout donné, I gave him all.

Tout se plaint, tout murmure contre la Fortune, all complain, all grumble against Fortune.

Or thus. As, c'est son Tout, that's all he has, that is all his substance.

Lors que j'étois riche, j'étois son Tout, when I was rich, I was all in all with him.

Pouvoir tout sur quécun, to be omnipotent with one.

Tout, (Adv.) as; altogether; all over; quite.

Tout pauvre qu'il est, il vit content, as poor as he is, he lives contentedly.

Tout fin qu'il est, je l'ai attrapé, as cunning as he is, I was too hard for him.

Tout malade qu'il étoit, il ne laissa pas d'y aller, as sick as he was, he went thither.

Ils font tout étonnez, they are altogether in a maze. Elle est toute semblable, 'tis altogether like it.

Ils étoient tout couverts de Pierrieres, they were covered all over with precious Stones.

As, dire quèque Chose tout bas, to speak a Thing softly.

Tout beau, softly, not so fast, forbear.

Tout beau, tout beau, qu'on n'aille pas si vite dans cette Affaire, softly, softly, let us not hurry that Business at this rate.

Or thus. As, faire faire tout beau à un Chien, to make a Dog quiet.

Tout à coup, cd. aussi tôt, incontinent, suddenly, all of a sudden.

Tout à coup le Ciel étant serein se trouble, the serene Sky was overcast all of a sudden.

Tout à l'heure, tout maintenant, tout incontinent, tout presentement, just now, by and by, presently, forthwith; just now, or e'en now.

Tout à point, in good time, seasonably.

Tout au plus, at the most.

Or thus. C'est tout au plus, si elle a tant de Mariage, if her Portion be so much, 'tis the Outside.

out de bon, seriously, indeed, in earnest, in good earnest.

Parlez vous tout de bon? do you speak seriously?

Tout de bon serez vous fidelle? will you be true indeed?

Ils se batent tout de bon, they fight in good earnest.

Tout de même, the same, the very same, the same Thing, the very same Thing.

Vous voyez celui là, l'autre est tout de même, you see that, the other is the very same.

The same, being followed by que, is looked upon as fit only for familiar Discourses.

As, celui là est tout de même que l'autre, that is the very same as the other.

Tout du long, all at length. As, mettre son Nom tout du long, to write his Name all at length.

Or thus. As, † tout du long de la Nuit, pour dire tout le long de la Nuit, all the Night long.

Tout ensemble, all together.

As, cela étant tout ensemble fait un assez joli effet, all that being put together shews pretty.

Or thus. C'est peu de chose que d'être Cocu, mais il est fâcheux d'être Pauvre & Cocu tout ensemble, to be a Cuckold is nothing, but to be poor and a Cuckold too is a most grievous Thing.

Remarquez, que les Peintres font de cet Adverbe quécquefois un Substantif. Comme quand ils disent, ce Tableau est beau partie à partie, mais le Tout ensemble y est mal entendu.

† A tout jamais, for ever and ever.

Par tout, every where, in every corner.

Je l'ai cherché par tout, I look for him every where.

Or thus. As, par tout où je vai il me suit, wherever I go he follows me.

Un Homme qui tranche par tout, a Man that assumes in all Companies.

Il aime l'Eau de Vie, sur tout quand il fait froid, he loves Brandy, especially in cold Weather.

Prenez garde sur tout à cela, mind that above all Things.

En tout, in all. Ils ne font que trois en tout, they are but three in all.

En tout & par tout, every way, on every side.

Du tout, at all. Point du tout, not at all.

Or thus. As Ps. 86. 11. † Range du tout mon Cœur à craindre ton Nom, unite my Heart to fear thy Name.

Toutefois, yet, however, nevertheless.

Il a peu de Bien, & toutefois il est content, he has but a slender Estate, and yet he is contented.

† Toutefois & quantes, (toutes & quantes fois) que, as oft as, as often as.

Toute-puissance, (f.) almighty Power, Omnipotence; the almighty (or omnipotent) Being.

Il ne faut point tyranniser ses Amis, cd. il ne faut point les gêner, ni contraindre, one ought not to constrain his Friends.

U and V.

U Vowel, by it self, is pronounced in French according to the Sound it has in the Word Abuse in English.

The same is used in the masculine Gender; as un grand u a great u, un petit u a little u.

And, as in English, so in French there are two sorts of u; the one called u Vowel, and the other v Consonant, to be distinguished by these two different Characters, u, v.

The Use of V Consonant is only before a Vowel, as va, ve, vi, vo, vu; and before r in a few Words, as ouvrage, livre, ouvrir, ouvrons. In which case v Consonant comes near the Sound of an f, both in French and English.

U Vowel, in conjunction with other Letters, is sounded several Ways.

It keeps its proper and alphabetical Sound, 1. where it is used instead of a Syllable, as in the Words user, usage, utile, &c.

2. Where it ends a Syllable, as in nature, sujet, volume, rancune.

3. Before r and s, in the same Syllable; as Turc, Saumur, suspens, jusques.

Before an i Vowel; as lui, nuit, ennui, conduire, cuisine, &c.

Except after g, or q, in the same Syllable, as you may see under gu, & qu.

Before m and n in the same Syllable, it takes the Sound of the Diphthong eu; as humble, lundi.

û, for eu, is an odd Way of Spelling, hardly used at all but in the French Gazettes lately printed in Holland.

V A

Va, the second Person Singular of the Imperative Mood of the Verb Aller, go, go thou.

As, va-t-en à l'Eglise, go (or go thou) to Church.

Il va (the third Person Sing. of the Present Tense Ind. Mood) he goes.

Or thus. As Judg. 6. 23. Il va bien pour toi, peace be unto thee.

Je lui ai donné vingt Tableaux valant cent pistoles la piece, I gave him twenty Pictures worth each of 'em an hundred pistols.

Valée. See Vallée.

Valerienne de Jardin, Fleur qui est blanche ou rouge, Garden-Valerian.

Valet, (m.) a Man, or Servant, a Man Servant; a Knave, at Cards.

Où est mon Valet? appelez le, where's my Man? call him. Un Valet de pié, a Foot-man.

Jouer le Valet, to play the Knave. Avoir quatorze de Valets, (au Jeu de Piquet) to have fourteen of Knaves.

Or thus. Un Valet de Chambre, a Valet de Chamber, a Gentleman that waits on his Lord or Master in his Chamber.

Some Ladies also have their Valets de Chambre, who wait upon them in their Chamber.

Valet de Chambre du Roi, a Groom of the King's Bed-Chamber. Valet de la Garderobe, a Groom of the Wardrobe.

Valet d'Etable, Celui qui a soin d'étriller les Chevaux & de leur donner à manger, a Groom of the Stables.

Ce Mot de Valet s'emploie aussi à divers autres egards.

On appelle Valet de Chien celui qui a le soin des Chiens. Et l'on dit en Proverbe, C'est un beau Valet de Chien, pour dire un mechant Valet, un Coquin qui ne sert pas bien, a scurvy Servant.

Valet de Levriers est celui qui a soin des Levriers, qui les tient, & les lâche à la Course. Et l'on appelle Valet de Limiers celui qui va au Bois pour détourner les Bêtes avec les Limiers, & qui les doit dresser, & en avoir soin.

Un Ami dira aussi fort bien à son Ami, ou une Personne familière avec une autre lui dira, Je suis vôtre Valet, I am your Servant. Mais, quand on prononce ces Mots d'un ton fier, ils veulent dire toute autre Chose que ce que les Termes portent, & marquent de l'Indignation, ou de la Contradiction.

Les Menuisiers appellent Valet (en Anglois, Hold-fast) le Crochet de fer, dont ils se servent pour tenir le bois sur l'Etabli. Et parmi eux un Valet de Porte veut dire un Morceau de bois, &c. attaché à une Corde derrière une Porte, & qui sert à la fermer si tôt qu'on l'a ouverte.

Valet de Chaise à Cremillère. C'est un morceau de fer carré, qu'on met dans les bras de la Chaise, & qu'on tire pour mettre une petite Table dessus.

Valet de Miroir (Desk). C'est le morceau de bois qui est attaché derrière le fond d'un Miroir de Toilette, & qui soutient le Miroir quand on le pose sur la Table.

Sur Mer on appelle Valet (en Anglois, Spunge) un Peloton fait de fil tiré de l'un des Cordons de quèque vieux Cable, qu'on a coupé par pieces. Ce Peloton se met sur le Calibre des Canons, pour boucher la Poudre, quand on les charge. Il sert aussi à raccommoder les Manœuvres rompues, & à larder la Bonnette, qui est une sorte de Voile.

En fin, dans le Manege, on donne le Nom de Valet à un Bâton, ayant à l'un de ses bouts une Pointe de fer emoussée, dont on se sert pour aider & pincer un Cheval fauteur.

† Valetaille, (f.) cd. les Valets, the inferior sort of Men-Servants.

La Chose est valide, the Thing is good in Law.

Validé, (from Valider) ratified, confirmed, or authorized.

Validement, Terme de Pratique, cd. avec validité, legally, lawfully.

On ne peut contracter validement que dans un certain Âge prescrit par les Loix & par les Coutumes, a lawfull Contract cannot be made but at a certain Age agreeable to the Laws and Customs of the Nation.

Valider, (Terme de Pratique) rendre valide, to ratify, confirm, or authorize.

As, valider les Procédures, to authorize the Proceedings.

Validité, (f.) Validity.

As, la Validité d'un Contract, the Validity of a Contract.

Or thus. La Cour a confirmé la Validité du du Mariage, ed. a déclaré le Mariage bon & valide, the Court has declared the Match to be legal.

Valise, (f.) a Port-manteau, a Cloak-bag.

Une grosse ou petite Valise, a great or a little Portmanteau.

Ouvrir, ou fermer sa Valise, to open, or to shut his Portmanteau.

Il a perdu sa Valise, he has lost his Portmanteau.

Or thus, in a comical Sense. As, † Adieu la Valise, ed. c'en est fait, il n'y a plus de ressource, all is lost, the Thing is past recovery.

Vallée, (f.) a Valley, Vale, Dale, or Bottom.

Une belle & fertile Vallée, a fine and fruitful Valley.

Ce Monde n'est qu'une Vallée de Misères, this World is but a Vale of Miseries.

Vallon, (m.) ed. petite Vallée, a little Valley, a Dale.

Un beau, un charmant, un agreable Vallon, a fine, or pleasant Dale.

Valoir, to be worth.

As, que vaut ce Livre ? what is this Book worth ?

Les Choses ne se vendent pas toujours ce qu'elles valent, Things are not always sold what they are worth, or to their full worth.

Cela n'en vaut pas la peine, it is not worth ones while.

Ne valoir rien, to be worth nothing, to be good for nothing, to be naught.

Cela ne vaut rien, that's good for nothing.

Votre Louis ne vaut rien, your Lewis is naught, it is good for nothing.

Vous ne valez rien, you are good for nothing. Il n'a jamais rien valu, he never was good for any thing.

Or thus. As, c'est un Homme qui ne vaut rien, ed. un Fripon, he is a Rogue, or a Man of no good principles.

Ne te vauds je pas mieux que dix Fils ? (1 Sam. 1. 8.) am not I better to thee than ten Sons ?

And Luke 12. 7. Vous valez mieux que beaucoup de Passereaux, ye are of more value than many Sparrows.

Faire valoir, to improve, or make the best of; to encourage.

As, faire valoir ses Terres, to improve his Land. Faire valoir (relever) une Pensée, to improve a Notion, to make the best of it.

Il fait bien valoir ce qu'il fait, he makes the best of his knowledge.

Faire valoir les gens de merite, to encourage deserving persons.

Se faire valoir, ed. faire conoitre ce que l'on vaut & ce que l'on est, to put himself forth, or forward, to make the World sensible of our Worth.

Il faut un peu se faire valoir dans le Monde, autrement le Monde ne nous estime pas, we must put our selves forward in this World, or else the World will slight us.

Il vaut (a Verb Impersonal) 'tis, it is.

Il vaut mieux se taire que parler trop, 'tis better for a man to hold his peace than to talk too much.

Or thus. C'est un mechant Payeur, il vaut autant lui donner que lui prêter, he is a bad Paymaster, one had as good give him as lend him.

Valon. See Vallon.

Valvules, (f.) les Valvules du Cœur, ed. des Peaux qui servent comme de Portes pour ouvrir & pour fermer les Ouvertures du Cœur, eleven small Entries in the Heart, whereby Passage is given to the Blood and Spirits that come unto it from the Veins and Arteries.

Il y a aussi des Valvules de Veines, qui sont de petits Corps membraneux, emmises en la Cavité des Veines, & faits d'une portion de leur Tunique, L'endroit de la Veine où est la Valvule paroît plus gros que les autres Endroits. Le principal Usage des Valvules est d'empêcher le cours & l'impetuosité du Sang courant dans les Veines.

Van, (m.) a Fan, a winnowing Fan, or Van.

As, vaner du blé avec un Van, to winnow Corn with a Fan.

Il a son Van en sa main, & il nettoiera son Aire (Luke 3. 17.) whose Fan is in his hand, and he will thoroughly purge his Floor.

Vanté, commended, praised, extolled.

Vanter, to commend, praise, or extol.

Vous aurez beau le vanter, il passera toujours pour un mal-honnête Homme, commend him as much as you will, 'twill signifie nothing, his Name is up for a dishonest Man.

Tout son Merite est dans ses Ayeux, & il lui faut pardonner s'il les vante par tout, all his Worth lies in his Ancestors, and 'tis no wonder that he should so praise 'em every where.

C'est un Sot qui vante une Sotise, & qui se tairoit d'une Action sage & vertueuse, he is a Fool that will extol a piece of Folly, and say nothing of a wise Action.

Se vanter, to commend (praise, or extol) himself; to boast, glory, brag, or vapour.

Un honnête Homme ne se vante, ni ne se blâme jamais, a well-bred Man never praises, nor discommends himself.

Se vanter de ses Richesses, to boast of his Riches.

Je puis me vanter d'avoir sauvé ma Patrie, I can boast that I saved my Country.

Tel est dans l'Indigence qui ne s'en vante pas (Prov.) Necessity does pinch 'em most, who of their Wants do shame to boast.

Puis que plusieurs se vantent selon la Chair, je me vanterai aussi (2. Cor. 11. 18.) seeing that many glory after the Flesh, I will glory also.

Or thus. As Jam. 4. 16. Vous vous vantez en vos fiertez, you rejoyce in your boastings.

Vanterie, (f.) a boasting, glorying, bragging, or vapouring.

As, 1. Cor. 5. 6. Votre Vanterie n'est pas bonne, your Glorying is not good.

Or thus. As Judg. 9. 38. Où est maintenant ta Vanterie, quand tu disois, Qui est Abimelec, que nous lui servions ? where is now thy Mouth, wherewith thou saidst, Who is Abimelech, that we should serve him ?

Des Alimens vaporeux, vaporous Meat.

Vaquance } See { Vacance.

Vaquant } Vacant.

Vaquier, être vacant, n'être pas rempli, to be vacant.

As, un Benefice vaque par Mort, si la Resignation n'est faite vingt Jours avant la Mort du Resignant; & un Office vaque par Mort, si la Resignation n'est faite quarante Jours avant la Mort du Resignant, a Benefice is vacant by Death, if the Resignation be not made twenty Daies before the Death of the Resigner; and an Office is vacant by Death, if the Resignation be not ben't made forty Day's before the Refigner's Death.

Ce Benefice là vaque depuis trois mois, that Benefice has been vacant these three months.

† Vaquer, pour dire travailler à quelque chose, to attend (or mind) a Business.

Or thus. Je vaquerai soigneusement à ma Charge, I will be mindfull of my Duty.

Ne savez vous pas, que ceux qui vaquent aux Choses sacrées mangent de ce qui est sacré? (1. Cor. 9. 13.) do you not know, that they which minister about holy Things live of the Things of the Temple?

Varangues, (f.) the Ribs, or Floor-timbers of a Ship.

Les Varangues sont des Chevrons, ou Pièces de Charpenterie, qui se mettent entre la Quille & la Carlingue de distance en distance, pour former le Fond du Vaisseau.

Le Terme Anglois, Rib, signifie proprement une Côte, & il est très bien employé pour exprimer une Varangue. Car les Varangues s'élèvent de la Quille d'un Vaisseau, tout de même que dans le Corps de l'Homme toutes les Côtes se viennent terminer dans l'Épine du Dos.

Varengues. See Varangues.

Varenne, (f.) a Plain.

Ce Mot ne se dit proprement qu'en parlant de Chasse. Ainsi la Varenne du Louvre est une Capitainerie des Chasses en laquelle sont comprises toutes les Plaines qui sont fixées à la ronde autour de Paris.

incensed Sicilians on Easter-day Anno 1282, and about five, of the Clock in the Afternoon.

Ver, (m.) a Worm; a Magget.

Les Vers fuient les Choses ameres, & ils aiment les douces, the Worms shun bitter Things, and love that which is sweet.

Un Ver de Terre, un malheureux Mortel, a Worm, a wretched Creature.

Jusques à quand, pauvres Mortels, oublierez vous que vous n'êtes que des Vers de Terre? how long, wretched Mortals, will you forget that you are but silly Worms of Earth?

Les Vers commencent à nous ronger les Entrailles des nôtre bas Age, & les Princes les plus ambitieux leur servent en fin de pâture dans le Tombeau, the Worms begin from our Infancy to gnaw our Entrails, and the most lofty Princes come at last to be their food in the Grave.

Ver-coquin. See Vercoquin.

Ver à soie, a Silk-worm.

Le Ver à soie est si diligent, qu'il ne repose jamais depuis sa naissance jusqu'à sa mort, non pas mêmes quand il mange, puis que sa Nourriture ne sert qu'à faire la matiere de son Ouvrage, the Silk-worm is so diligent, that it never rests from the time of its birth even to its death, nay not even when it eats, its Nourishment serving but to make the matter of its Work.

Le Ver à soie a trois differentes sortes de Vie, qui representent admirablement bien les trois Ages de l'Homme diligent, the Silk-Worm has three different sorts of Life, which represent admirably well the three Ages of the diligent Man.

Sa premiere Vie en Ver est rampante, & occupée au Travail, its first Life as a Worm is creeping, and employ'd in Labour.

La seconde Vie du Ver à soie est en Papillon volant, & c'est alors qu'il ne vit que des Caresses & des Plaisirs qu'il a avec ses femmes, the second Life of a Silk-Worm is when it is transformed into a Butterfly, living then altogether in the Caresses and Pleasures it enjoys with its females.

La troisieme Vie du Ver à Soie est dans la beauté de ses Ouvrages de Soie, the third Life of the Silk-worm is in the beauty of its Works of Silk.

Ver qui s'engendre dans les Fruits, dans la Viande, & dans le Fromage, a Magget, such a Worm as breeds in Fruits, Meat, and Cheese.

Vos, (pl.) the Plural of Vôte.

Voter, Terme en Usage parmi quelques Moines, pour dire donner la Voix, to vote, to give his Vote.

Il n'a pas droit de voter, he has no right to vote.

Vôte, and in the Plural Vos, your.

As, comment se porte votre Pere? how does your Father do? Il se porte bien à votre Service, he is well at your Service.

Monsieur, je suis votre Serviteur, Sir, I am your Servant.

Voici votre Femme, here's your Wife.

But sometimes Vôte is used absolutely, or without a Substantive, at the end of a Sentence; and then it makes Vôtres in the Plural, which is expressed in English, both in the Singular and Plural, by the Word Yours.

As, voici le mien, & voila le vôtre, here is mine, and there is yours.

Les miens sont plus beaux que les vôtres, mine are better than yours.

Je Voudrai, je Voudrois. These are the two Future Tenses Indic. Mood of the Verb Vouloir. See Vouloir.

Voué, (m.) devoted, consecrated.

As, une Chose vouée à Dieu, a Thing devoted (or consecrated) to God.

As, ne voulant pas le faire, not being willing to do it.

This Word you will find used Substantively, Rom. 9. 16, where it is said,

Ce n'est point donc ni du Voulant, ni du Courant, mais de Dieu qui fait misericorde, so then it is not of him that willeth, nor of him that runneth, but of God that sheweth mercy.

Vouloir, (v.) (from Volonté) to will, or be willing.

Je le veux bien, I will. Si vous le voulez ainsi, if you will have it so.

Ce que vous voudrez, tout comme vous voudrez, as you please, e'en as you please.

Les Femmes sont d'humeur à vouloir ce qu'on ne veut pas, & à ne vouloir pas ce qu'on veut, Women are of that Temper commonly, that they will have what others will not, and will not have what another is for.

Je voudrois bien savoir, si cela est vrai ou non, I would fain know, whether that be true or no.

Dieu le veuille, would to God it were so.

Or thus. En vouloir à quécun, lui vouloir mal, to bear a grudge against one, to bear him an ill will, to hate him.

Il m'en veut, il me veut mal, il a une Dent de lait contre moi, he hates me, he can't abide me, he bears me an ill will.

Je veux que cela soit, cd. je pose le cas que cela soit, I grant it.

Que veut dire cela ? what means that ?

what is the meaning of that ?

Cela veut dire telle Chose, that signifies such a Thing.

Cela veut dire, qu'on ne doit pas se fier à vous, the Meaning is, that you are not to be trusted.

Vouloir, (a masc. Subst.) Terme Poétique, pour dire Volonté, Will, or Pleasure.

As, c'est le Vouloir des Dieux, 'tis the Will (or Pleasure) of the Gods.

This Substantive is also used in diverse Places of the Bible.

As Jam. 1. 18. Il nous a de son propre Vouloir engendrez par la Parole de Verité, of his own Will he has begot us by the Word of Truth.

Le Vouloir est bien attaché à moi, mais je ne trouve point le Moyen de parfaire le bien, (Rom. 7. 18.) to will is present with me, but how to perform that which is good I find not.

La promptitude du Vouloir, (2 Cor. 8. 11.) a readiness to will.

And Ps. 110. 3. Ton Peuple fera un Peuple de franc Vouloir, thy People shall be willing.

Voulte } See } Voute.
Voulte } } Vouté.
Voulter } } Vouter.

Voulu. As, j'ai voulu, I would.

Il n'a pas voulu le faire, he would not do it.

Un Voyant, ou Prophete, (as 1 Sam. 9. 9.) a Seer.

Voyci } See } Voici.

Voye } } Voie.

Voyelle, (f.) a Vowel.

Les Lettres sont divisées en Voyelles & Consonnes, the Letters are divided into Vowels and Consonants.

Une Consonne sans Voyelle ne fait aucun Son, & c'est comme un Corps sans Ame, a Consonant without a Vowel yields no Sound, and is in a manner a Body without Soul.

Voyer, (m.) from Voie, Celui qui a soin de la Police des Chemins, a Surveyor (or Overseer) of high Ways.

Le grand Voyer de France, the great Surveyor of France.

C'est l'Officier qui a la Surintendance de la Police des grands Chemins par tout le Royaume, pour obliger les Juges d'avoir Soins des Chemins, chacun dans sa Jurisdiction.

But, besides this Voyer, they call Voyer in France a Gentleman that has some Jurisdiction within his Territory.

Thus un gros Voyer is a Gentleman that hath a mean Jurisdiction ; and un petit Voyer is he that hath a low Jurisdiction.

At Paris they also call Voyer an Officer, to whom all Shop-keepers and those that have Signes pay a certain Duty.

Voyerie, (f.) la Police des Chemins, the Jurisdiction, or Office of the Voyer.

Voyla. See Voila.

Vulnérable, qui guerit les Plaies, vulnerable, that heals Wounds.

Vulve, l'Orifice extérieur des Parties naturelles de la Femme, Orifice the Orifice of the Womb.

X. Y. Z.

I Make but one Head of these three Letters, because there is so little to be said to 'em all.

X by it self is pronounced ix in French, and is used in the feminine Gender.

As, faire une x, to make an x.

With other Letters, it is commonly sounded in French as in English. As for example, exalter to exalt, exil exile, exercice exercise.

But it has the Sound of a Z, 1. in these Words, dixsept, dixhuit, dixneuf, deuxième, fixième, dixième.

2. At the end of a Word, when the next Word begins with a Vowel; as des Eaux infipides, insipid Waters; des Loix inhumaines, inhumane Laws.

Except these following Words, where x is always mute; viz. chaux, choux, creux, crucifix, Meaux, Gueux, flux, Portefaix, poux, toux.

In these five Words, x is sounded like ff, viz. foixante, foixantième, Bruxelles, Auxerre, and Luxembourg.

As to the New Way of Spelling, many write now Brusselles, Saintes, Saintonge, deuxième, fixième, dixième. Which Words, according to the Old Way of Spelling, are thus written, Bruxelles, Xaintes, Xaintonge, deuxième, fixième, dixième.

Y is a Greek Vowel which by it self is pronounced i grec by the French, and is used in the masculine Gender; as faire un y, to make an y.

The same, in conjunction with other Letters, hath two kinds of Sound. The one Simple, like that of i Vowel; as in these Words, y, yvoire, yvre, syllabe, symmetrie, sympathie, &c. The other Double, like that of these English Words, Yarmouth, Young, You, and Your. But then y is always betwixt two Vowels; as Payen, moyen, payer, neyer, effayer, ayons, ayez.

This is the Vowel that ran the hazard of being quite banished from the French Tongue, in the Reforming of it. Inasmuch that many eminent Writers, who did what they could to rout it, did almost constantly use i, instead of it. A very unkind Project of a Nation naturally so courteous to Strangers, to banish an innocent Vowel come out of Greece to serve 'em, and which had been so long in their Service. Besides that i would have lookt but simply, instead of the Particle y; which was no mean Argument for this Vowel.

For my part, I am (as many others) for keeping this Vowel, for Distinctions sake; 1. in the foresaid Particle; 2. in Words of Greek Origine, such as syllabe, sympathie; 3. where it stands for the first Syllable of a Word, as in yvre, yvoire, &c; and 4. where it has a double Sound, as in moyen, neyer, netteyer.

Z, by it self, is pronounced Zed, and is used in the masculine Gender; as faire un z, to make a z.

With other Letters, it is sounded in French as in English.

Only it is mute in these two Words, assez enough, Nez a Nose. Therefore most Writers spell this, as it is pronounced, Né.

And, as scarce any Word begins with an x but what is a proper Name, so there are but few Words that begin with this Consonant.

In French it is properly used, instead of s, 1. in the second Person Plural of some Tenses of Verbs, such as vous aimez, vous aimez, vous aimerez, vous aimeriez, and vous aimassiez, where ez is pronounced but like an e acute.

2. In the Plural Number of such Nouns and Participles as verité, aimé, which make in the Plural veritez, aimez.

And, as a t is sometimes inserted betwixt a Verb and a Pronoun, to avoid an Interpunging of Vowels; so is z used in the same manner, and upon the same account, betwixt an Imperative of the first Conjugation, and either of these two Particles en or y. As, parlez-en à tes Amis, mention it to thy Friends; va-z-y voir, go see.

There being no right Word in French that begins with an x, but what is a proper Name, I proceed to the next Letter, and first I begin with

Y (a Pronominal and Adverbial Particle) it, of it, of them, to it, to them, in it, in them; here, hither, there, thither.

As, prenez y garde, mind it, look to it.

J'y penserai, I shall think of it, or of them.

J'y ai remarqué quèques Fautes, I spied some Faults in it, or in them.

J'y ai ajouté plusieurs Choses, I have added many Things to it, or to them.

Je m'y trouve bien, I find my self well here.

J'y suis pour cinq ou six Mois, here am I for five or six Months.

Si vous y venez, vous serez le bien venu, if you come hither, you will be welcome.

Allez y au plus tôt, go thither with all speed.

L'envie me prend d'y retourner, I have a mind to go thither again.

Mind also these following Phrases. Passez y, go that Way.

Vous y êtes, you are in the right, you hit it right. Vous n'y êtes pas, you don't hit it right.

Vous vous y prenez mal, you go the wrong way to work, you don't take a right course in it.

Accompagner, (Tit. 3. 13.) to bring on his Journey.

Accompli, full ; finished ; perfected ; perfect ; compleat.

Afin que votre Joie soit accomplie, (John 16. 24.) that your Joy may be full.

Tout est accompli, (John 19. 30.) It is finished.

L'Amour de Dieu est vraiment accompli en lui, (1 John 2. 5.) in him verily is the Love of God perfected.

Non que je sois déjà rendu accompli, (Phil. 3. 12.) not as though I were already perfect.

Vous êtes rendus accomplis en lui, (Col. 2. 10.) ye are compleat in him.

Accomplir, to finish, John 4. 34. to continue, Rev. 13. 5 ; to fill, Eph. 1. 23 ; to fill up, Col. 1. 24 ; to work, Jam. 1. 20.

S'accomplir, to be made perfect.

As 2 Cor. 12. 9. ma Vertu s'accomplit en l'Infirmite, my Strength is made perfect in Weakness.

Accomplissement, performance, Luke 1. 45 ; fulness, Gal. 4. 4.

Accord, concord.

As 2 Cor. 6. 15. quel accord y a-t-il de Christ avec Belial ? what concord hath Christ with Belial ?

Accoucher avant le tems, to miscarry.

Dans l'état où elle est, si elle accouche, elle est morte, in the condition she is in, if she miscarries, she is a dead Woman.

s'Accoupler, to be yoked together.

As 2 Cor. 6. 14. Ne vous accouplez point avec les Infidèles, be ye not unequally yoked together with Unbelievers.

As Rev. 17. 4. la Femme étoit accoutrée de pourpre & d'écarlate, the Woman was array'd in purple and scarlet colour.

Or thus. As 1 Cor. 12. 23. les Membres que nous estimons être les moins honorables au Corps sont accoutrez par nous plus soigneusement, those Members of the Body which we think to be less honourable, upon these we bestow more abundant honour.

†Accoutrement, apparel, as 1 Pet. 3. 3.

Accreu, enlarged, 2 Cor. 10. 15.

Accusé, (Subst.) Prisoner.

As, confronter les Temoins à l'Accusé, to confront the Witnesses with the Prisoner.

Elle se distingue en Cale ordinaire, & en Cale seche. Pour donner la Cale, on conduit le Criminel vers le Plat-bord au dessus de la grand' Vergue, & on le fait asseoir sur un Bâton qui est passé entre ses Jambes. Ce Bâton est attaché à un Cordage, qui va repondre à une Poulie suspendue à un des bouts de la Vergue. Le Criminel empoigne le Cordage, pour se soulager autant qu'il est possible; tan-dis que trois ou quatre Matelots vien-nent isser cette Corde de toute leur force, jusqu'à ce que le Patient soit guindé à la hauteur de la Vergue. Alors ils lâchent tout à coup le Cordage, & precipitent le Coupable dans la Mer. Le plus souvent, pour rendre la Chute plus rapide, on lui attache un Boulet de Canon à ses piez. Les Matelots le guident encore, & le lais-sent tomber autant de fois que la Sen-tence le porte; ce qui ne passe guere cinq fois.

La Cale seche est ainsi nommée, à cause que le Patient ne plonge pas dans la Mer; parce qu'il est suspendu à une Corde ra-courcie, & qui ne descend qu'à cinq ou six piez de la Surface de l'Eau.

Salade, Corn-salles.
Magnifique, mighty.
As Luke 9. 43. tous furent etonnez de la magnifique Vertu de Dieu, and they were all amazed at the mighty Power of God.
Main. As, un Cheval de main, a led Horse.
Maître, Lord, Luke 12. 42; Ruler, Luke 13. 4.
Maître d'Hôtel, Governor of the Feast, John 2. 8.
Maîtreffe. As Luke 20. 17. La Pierre que les Edificans ont rejetée est devenue la maîtresse Pierre du Coin, the Stone which the Builders rejected is become the Head of the Corner.
Malade, diseased, as John 6. 2.
Maleficié, under an ill Tongue.
Malheureux. As, malheureux les Pupilles qui tombent entre les mains d'un Tuteur avare, Wo be to those Pupils that fall into the hands of a covetous Gardian.
Malin, evil.
As, ne nous indui point en Tentation, mais delivre nous du Malin, lead us not into Temptation, but deliver us from Evil.
Mal-vivant, a finful Man, Luke 24. 7.
Mamelle, paps.
Bienheureux est le Ventre qui t'a porté, &c les Mamelles que tu as tectées (Luke 11. 27.) blessed is the Womb that bare thee, and the Paps which thou hast sucked.
Dans le Corps du Dictionnaire, vous trouverez sous ce Mot une Faute d'Impression, females, au lieu de female.
Mander, to send for; to send word.
As, l'Empereur les manda à Vienne; the Emperour sent for them to Vienna.
Mandez moi, si cela est vrai ou non, send me word, whether it is true or no.
Manger, to devour.
As, Luke 15. 30. quand celui ci, qui a mangé ton Bien avec les Paillardes est venu, tu lui as tué le Veau gras, assoon as this thy Son was come, which has devoured thy Living with Harlots, thou hast killed for him the fatted Calf.
Mangeur, a gluttonous Man, Luke 7. 34.
se Manifester, to shew himself, John 21. 1.
Marc, a pound, Luke 19. 13.
Marché, Merchandise.
As John 2. 16. ôtez ces Choses d'ici, & ne faites point de la Maison de mon Pere un Lieu de Marché, take these Things hence, make not my Father's House a House of Merchandise.
Dans le Corps du Dictionnaire, vous trouverez sous ce Mot une Faute d'Impression, another's pour another.
Marchepié. In the Body of the Book, under this Word, read Foot-board, instead of Coach-box.
Marcher, to walk.
Leve toi, charge ton petit Lit, & marche (John 5. 8.) rise, take up thy Bed, and Walk.
Mariage. As, prendre en mariage, to marry.

Marrube, ou Marrubion, forte d'Herbe, Horbund.

Maturité, perfection.

As Luke 8. 14. ils ne rapportent point de fruit à maturité, they bring no fruit to perfection.

Mechant, evil.

Cette Generation est mechante (Luke 11. 29) this is an evil Generation.

Mechant (Subst.) Sinner.

Dieu n'exauce point les Mechans (Jobn 9. 31.) God heareth not Sinners.

Melodie, Musick, Luke 15. 25.

Mêmes, also, Jobn 1. 17.

Menaces. As Luke 9. 21. Alors usant de menaces, il leur commanda qu'ils ne le dissent à personne, and he straitly charged them, and commanded them to tell no man the Thing.

Ménage, Stuff, Luke 17. 31.

Mer. As, † c'est la Mer à boire, Expression Proverbiale qui se dit d'une Chose qui n'a point de fin, is an endless Business.

Mercenaire (Subst.) a hired Servant, as Luke 15. 17.

Merite. As, faire un grand merite à quécun d'une Chose, to extol one for something.

Mesure. For this general Word, you will find Firkin, the Name of a particular Measure, Jobn 2. 6.

Metier. As Luke 13. 27. Departez vous de moi, vous tous qui faites le metier d'Iniquité, depart from me, all ye Workers of Iniquity.

Mettre. As, Luke 12. 45. mon Maître met long tems à venir, my Lord delayeth his Coming.

Mettre peine, to give diligence, Luke 12. 58; to strive, Luke 13. 24.

Mettez donc en vos Coeurs (Luke 21. 14.) settle it therefore in your Hearts.

Mettre à mort, to put to death, to kill, as Jobn 5. 18.

Le bon Berger met sa Vie pour ses Brebis (Jobn 10. 11.) the good Shepherd giveth his Life for the Sheep.

Je mettrai ma Vie pour toi (Jobn 13. 37.) I will lay down my Life for thy sake.

Mets ton Doigt ici, & regarde mes Mains (Jobn 20. 27.) reach hither thy Finger, and behold my Hands.

Mettre en effet, See Effet. Mettre en Lumiere, See Lumiere.

Se mettre à Table, to sit down to Meat, Luke 11. 37.

Se mettre en devoir, to prepare himself.

† Meu. As, Jobn 3. 25. Orily eut une Question mûe des Disciples de Jean avec les Juifs, touchant la Purification, then there arose a Question between some of Johns Disciples and the Jews, about Purifying.

Meurement, seriously, deliberately.

Le Mariage est une Chose à laquelle on doit penser meurement, Marriage is a Thing to be seriously thought of.

Mis. As Luke 22. 37. Il a été mis au Rang des Iniques, he was reckoned among the Transgressors.

Il vid les Linges mis à côté (Jobn 20. 6.) he seeth the linen Clothes lie.

Moissonner, to harvest, Jobn 4. 35.

Mol, base.

As, une molle Complaisance, a base Complaisance.

Moment. As, à tout moment, every moment, every foot.

Monter, to mount, or to make up.

se Moquer, to deride.

As Luke 16. 14. les Pharisiens se moquoient de lui, the Pharisees derided him.

Morceau trempé, a Sop, Jobn 13. 26.

Mordre. As, mordre à la grappe, to bite, or to bite at the book.

Mot. As Luke 14. 4. ils ne dirent mot, they held their peace.

Moucheté, flea-bitten.

As, un Cheval moucheté, a flea-bitten Horse.

Mouchetures, Spots.

Le Lynx a des Mouchetures sur tout le Corps, the Lynx has Spots all over his Body.

Mourir, to perish, Luke 13. 33.

Il s'en alloit mourir, he was at the point of death.

Faire mourir, to slay, Jobn 5. 16; to destroy, Luke 19. 47.

Mouffe, dull, blunt.

As, le Sentiment de l'Ame est mouffe, à cause de la Chair, qui est entre-deux, the Sensibility of the Soul is but dull, by reason of the Flesh, which is between.

Mouvement, moving.

As, Jobn 5. 3. attendans le mouvement de l'Eau, waiting for the moving of the Water.

Dans le Corps du Dictionnaire, vous trouverez sous ce Mot une Transposition qui n'est presque pas pardonnable. C'est dans le second Paragraphe, où sont ces Mots, Com-motion, Troubles, a Movement, to make up into a Watch, qui devoient être mis en suite d'Inclination, dans le premier Paragraphe.

Moyen. As, il n'y a pas moyen de le tromper, there is no deluding of him.

Il demande les Moyens de Paix, he desireth the Conditions of Peace.

N.

Neuf. As, un Cheval qui a fait pié neuf; c'est à dire, à qui une nouvelle Corne est revenue, quand le Sabot s'est détaché par quelque Infirmité; comme par des Javars encornez, ou des bleimes qui lui ont fait tomber le pié. Un Cheval qui a fait pié neuf ne vaut plus rien que pour le Labeur.

Nud, unshod.

As, un Cheval pié nud, cd. qui n'est point ferré, an unshod Horse.

O.

Oeil. Under this Word, in the Body of the Book, there have been some Proverbs omitted; for want of which the Title there prefixed over-reaches the Matter.

Oeuf. Under this Word, in the Body of the Book, you will find prendre un Oeuf, instead of pondre un Oeuf, to lay an Egg.

Office. As, employer les bons Offices auprès de quécun, to make use of his Credit with one.

Oreille. Il y a sous ce Mot une Faute à corriger. C'est vers la fin de la Colonne du Milieu, où il faut dire, to whisper the Thing in his Ear, au lieu de ces Mots, to whisper him the Thing in the Ear.

Outré, rank. Un Papiste outré, a rank Papist.

P.

Palanque, (f.) Piece de Fortification, Palanque, a Piece of Fortification.

Panicot, forte d'Herbe, Eringo, a sort of Herb.

Papistique, Popish.

As, le Service Papistique, the Popish Service.

Paradis. As, Graine de Paradis, the Grain of Paradise, a sort of Fruit.

Parler. As, je n'aime point entendre parler de cela, I don't love to hear of that.

Passe-droit, (m.) a Resignation, or Grant of Right.

Comme il n'a point d'Enfant legitime, il a fait un Passe-droit en faveur de son Bâtard, having no lawfull Issue, he has made all over to his Bastard.

Pâté. As, † une Femme qui crie les petits Pâtez, Expression triviale pour dire une Femme qui est en Travail d'Enfant, a Woman that cry's out.

† Pipette, a Pipe.

As, fumer pipette, to smoke a Pipe.

Pis. In the second Line belonging to this Word you will find an n omitted, Aimaux for Animaux.

Pistole. See Louis, in these Additions.

Plaque, la partie de la Garde de l'Epee qui couvre la Main, Shell, the Shell of a Sword-hilt.

Poignée, grasp. As, avoir une bonne poignée d'une Chose, to have a large grasp of a Thing.

Pointe, gore. As, pointe de Chemise de Femme, a Gore of a Womans Smock.

Poulain, forte de Mal Venerien. On l'appelle communément a Swelling, a Swelling in the Groin.

Rouëlle. As, Rouëlle de Veau, a Fille of Veal.

Revetu. As, un Fort revetu de bonnes Murailles, a Fort surrounded (or fenced) with good Walls.

S.

Sabre, a Sabre, or Simstar.

Il vint le Sabre à la main, he came with his Sabre in his hand.

Sac à Terre. J'ai oublié de mettre sous ce Mot le Terme Anglois, Sack of Earth.

Scripturaires, (Terme de Controverse) Ceux qui s'attachent purement à l'Ecriture S. pour l'establissement de la Foi Chretienne, Scripturists, that ground their Faith upon Scripture only.

se Serrer, to ly (to sit, or to stand) close.

T.

Terebentine. Lisez sous ce Mot, Venice Turpentine, au lieu de Venetian.

Torche-pinceau de Peintre, a Pencil-cloth, or Pencil-rag.

Toupie, a Gig.

Je me suis trompé dans la Definition que j'ai faite de la Toupie. C'est ce qui a un fer au bout, & qu'on fait tourner avec une Corde; au lieu qu'on fait tourner le Sabot avec un fouet. Celui ci s'appelle Tip en Anglois; & la Toupie, Gig.

Toux. Under this Word you will find a Fault of the Printers, Timetiere for Cimetiere.

Traditionaires, (Terme de Controverse) Ceux qui etablissent leur Foi sur la Tradition, & qui la croient aussi neccessaire pour cela que l'Ecriture, Traditionists, those that ground their Faith upon Tradition as well as the Holy Writ.

Les Catholiques Romains sont des Traditionnaires, & les Protestans des Scripturaires, the Roman Catholics are Traditionists, and the Protestants Scripturists.

Triage. Quécun Soin que l'on prenne de prevenir les Fautes d'Impression, il s'y en glisse toujours. En voici une insupportable, sous le Mot de Triage, laquelle consistoit dans une Transposition. Au lieu de chuse lisez choise; & au lieu de choise, lisez chuse, dans la seconde Ligne.

LORS que l'Empire Romain tomboit en decadence, & que l'Italie étoit inondée de Peuples barbares, l'Empereur Honorius fut contraint d'abandonner l'Isle de la Grande Bretagne, & d'en rappeler ses Legions, pour secourir le Cœur de l'Empire. Dans ce Tems là les Noms d'Angleterre & d'Anglois étoient inconnus. On appelloit les Natifs Bretons, & leur Langue la Langue Bretonne; qui se parle encore aujourd'hui dans le País de Galles, & dans la Bretagne François. Ces pauvres Bretons, qui vivoient tranquillement sous l'Empire Romain, se virent bien tôt accablés d'Enemis après le Départ des Legions, & devinrent dans peu de tems la Proie des Saxons; un Peuple qui étoit proprement du Holstein, dans la basse Saxe, Partie de l'Allemagne. Ils avoient déjà entrepris diverses fois la Conquête des Bretons. Mais ils furent toujours repoussés, jusqu'au Tems de Vortiger, qui s'empara du Gouvernement.

Les Saxons dans ce Tems là s'étoient rendus formidables sur Mer. Vortiger les appela à son Secours, & profita de leur Assistance. Il eut des egards pour eux, & leur fit présent d'abord de l'Isle de Thanet, & qu'éque tems après de la Province de Kent. Ainsi ils se virent Maîtres d'une des meilleures, & des plus belles Provinces de cette Isle. Mais ce n'étoit pas assez pour des avides Conquerans, & ils voulurent à toute force elargir leurs Limites. Leur Entreprise ne manqua pas de Succès. Ils firent si bien, qu'avec le tems ils chasserent les Bretons jusques au País de Galles. Et s'étant ainsi rendu Maîtres de la plus belle Partie de l'Isle, ils y etablirent leur Langue, leurs Coutumes, leurs Loix, & leur Religion. Là dessus ils partagerent ce País en sept Royaumes; & c'est ce que les Historiens appellent l'Heptarchie, qui dura près de deux cents ans. Egbert, Roi des Saxons Occidentaux, fut Celui qui par ses Conquêtes eut la gloire de reduire en Monarchie un Etat si divisé. Ce fut Egbert, qui lui donna là dessus le Nom d'Engel-lond, dans une Assemblée des Etats qui se tint à Winchester l'An 819. Mais ce Nom a été depuis changé en England; & c'est ce que nous appellons en François, l'Angleterre.

C'est là proprement l'Origine des Anglois, & de leur Langue. Il est vrai que ce País fut dans la suite Conquis par les Danois, qui ont dominé bien long tems sur l'Angleterre. Mais, leur Langue n'étant qu'une Dialecte de l'Alleman, & par conséquent ayant beaucoup de rapport à celle qui se parloit en Angleterre; il est aisé de conclure, que le Danois n'y fit pas grand Changement. Après les Danois, l'Angleterre fut conquise par les Normans, l'An 1067. sous la Conduite de Guillaume, Duc de Normandie, surnommé le Conquerant. Qui ne se contenta pas d'y etablir les Loix de Normandie, mais voulut aussi y enraciner sa Langue. Pour cet effet, il etablit par tout des Ecoles, afin qu'on apprît le Normand. Mais tout cela ne servit qu'à introduire quelques Mots de ce País là; & il arriva, qu'au lieu d'apprendre le Normand aux Anglois, ceux ci apprirent l'Anglois aux Normands.

Tout le Changement qui s'est fait depuis ce Tems là est arrivé par le Commerce, par les Gens de Lettres, & par les Voyageurs. Qui, ne se contentant pas de puiser dans leur Source, ont introduit dans cette Langue une infinité de Mots étrangers, que l'Usage a adoptés. Ces Mots là sont pour la plupart, ou François, ou Latins. Ainsi la Langue Angloise, comme on la parle à présent, est un Composé sur tout de ces trois sortes de Langues, l'Alleman, le François, & le Latin. La premiere de ces trois l'emporte sur tout le reste; & il est à remarquer, que les Monosyllabes sont presque tous Allemands.

Deux Choses principalement contribuent à la Beauté d'une Langue; c'est d'être Copieuse, & Energique. A ces deux egards l'Anglois a sans contredit l'avantage sur la plupart des Langues de l'Europe. Il est infiniment

infiniment copieux. Et cela vient de la Liberté que les Anglois se donnent, non seulement d'adopter des Mots étrangers, mais aussi de former des Derivatifs & des Composez, quand l'Occasion s'en presente. L'Anglois est encore une Langue tout à fait Energique, & qui dit beaucoup de Choses en peu de Mots. C'est une Langue riche en ses Expressions, & qui n'est pas sujette, comme la nôtre, à de grandes Circonlocutions. De là vient en partie, que les Auteurs Anglois écrivent généralement en leur Langue. Ils la trouvent si énergique, qu'ils ne sauroient si bien exprimer leurs Conceptions dans une Langue étrangère. Leur Poësie sur tout est admirable, quand elle sort d'une belle Veine. Vous n'y voyez rien que de grand; tout y est noble, mâle, vif, & de la dernière force. Il est vrai que la Langue Angloise, quelque raffinée qu'elle soit présentement, n'a pas toute la Douceur du François. Cependant il est certain, qu'elle ne paroît pas rude dans la bouche des Anglois; & encore moins dans celle des Angloises, qui la parlent avec tant de délicatesse, que les Oreilles les plus fines n'y trouvent rien qui les choque.

Au reste, je ne pense pas, qu'il soit fort nécessaire de faire voir l'Usage de cette Langue aux Etrangers qui résident en Angleterre, dans leurs différentes Veues. Ceux qui ne la parlent pas savent assez l'inconvenient qu'il y a; & la figure qu'on y fait, quand on bignore. De l'autre côté de la Mer, l'Anglois est d'un grand Usage, principalement pour entendre ces Auteurs savans d'Angleterre, qui se sont rendus si célèbres par leur profonde Erudition, par leur Solidité, & par leur grande Penetration d'esprit.

Pour entendre l'Anglois simplement dans les Livres, il n'y a pas grand mystere. Un bon Dictionnaire, avec quelques Regles generales de Grammaire, suffisent pour cet effet. Au regard des Noms, la Difficulté n'est pas grande, comme dans la Langue Latine. Ils ne sont point embarrassés d'une multitude de Genres, de Cas, ni de Declinaisons. La Formation des Verbes n'est pas non plus fort difficile. Ils ont leurs Signes, qui distinguent les Temps, sans varier les Terminaisons. A l'Infinitif le François se sert de trois Prepositions, de, à, & pour, dont l'Usage different n'est point du tout commode aux Etrangers. L'Anglois exprime tout cela par le seul Mot de to. Le François est encore incommode avec ses Verbes Reciproques; sur tout quand on s'en sert avec une Interrogation, & avec ces épineuses Particules, en, y, & ne, qui font une peine incroyable aux Etrangers. L'Anglois n'a rien de tout cela. Il y a des Verbes Neutres, qui expriment aisément, & en moins de Mots, le Sens de tous ces Verbes là. Les autres Parties d'Oraison ont aussi très peu de Difficultez.

Pour apprendre à parler Anglois, j'avoue qu'il y en a trois qui paroissent d'abord insurmontables aux François, mais qui le ne sont pas pourtant. La première de ces Difficultez consiste dans certaines Prononciations, qui sont particulieres à cette Langue; savoir celles du ch, du th, du g, & de l'j Consonne devant certaines Voyelles. La seconde est à l'égard de ceux qui apprennent à parler Anglois, par la Lecture des Livres. Elle consiste principalement dans l'Usage des Voyelles, & des Diphthongues, qui nous paroît un peu bizarre dans cette Langue. La Troisième Difficulté consiste à bien placer l'Accent, sur tout dans les Mots composez de plusieurs Syllabes. C'est en quoi manquent la plupart des Etrangers les plus habiles dans la Langue Angloise; parce que cela ne s'apprend qu'avec bien de l'Attention, & une grande Routine. Ils ne prennent pas garde, que dans les grands Mots Anglois l'Accent se met souvent aux premières Syllabes; comme en ces Mots, Tabernacle, Apoplexy, Apothecary, Methodically.

A ces Trois Difficultez on pourroit encore ajouter une quatrième; savoir les Idioms de la Langue, ou ses propres Façons de parler, qui ne sont pas du Genie de la Langue Française. Mais, avec le secours de ce Dictionnaire, on peut se tirer facilement de ces mauvais Pas.

METHODE

METHODE ABBREGEE, Pour Apprendre L'ANGLAIS.

De la Prononciation, & de l'Orthographe Angloise, en general.

POUR favoir bien parler, & bien écrire une Langue, quatre Choses principalement sont requises.

Premierement, il faut favoir les Termes de cette Langue avec leurs veritables Significations, & c'est ce que les Grammairiens appellent Etymologie. Il faut les favoir bien lier, & c'est ce qui s'appelle Construction, ou Syntaxe. Et, comme nous avons deux Manieres de nous exprimer, l'une de vive Voix, & l'autre par Ecrit; il est necessaire, pour s'exprimer de vive Voix, d'avoir la veritable Prononciation; & pour le faire par écrit, d'entendre bien l'Orthographe.

La veritable Prononciation d'une Langue consiste à donner à chaque Syllabe, par un seul mouvement de Langue, un Son qui soit conforme au Genie de cette Langue.

Mais il faut remarquer, que les Anglois ont, comme nous, plusieurs Sortes de Prononciation. Ils ont la Prononciation Universelle & Particuliere, la Familiere & la Grave.

Par l'Universelle j'enten la veritable Prononciation du Pais; & par la Particuliere, celle des Provinces. La Prononciation Familiere est celle dont on se sert ordinairement dans les Discours familiers; & par la Grave, je veux dire celle qui est propre pour les Discours graves & serieux.

Celle-ci, étant plus posée que l'autre, est aussi la moins éloignée de l'Orthographe. Au lieu que la Prononciation familiere, étant d'ordinaire rapide, fait d'étranges écarts, & donne souvent aux Voyelles des Sons tout autres que leurs Sons naturels.

L'Orthographe est l'Art d'écrire les Mots correctement, c'est à dire d'exprimer chaque Mouvement de Voix par un certain Assemblage de Lettres établi par l'Usage.

Par les Lettres il faut entendre ces Figures qu'on a si heureusement inventées pour suppléer au défaut de la Parole; & par le moyen desquelles on parle aux Yeux, comme l'on fait de vive Voix aux Oreilles.

De ces Lettres se font les Syllabes, les Syllabes font les Mots, & les Mots font les Sentences. Et de fait les Syllabes ne font la plupart que des Liaisons de Lettres, les Mots des Liaisons de Syllabes, & les Sentences des Liaisons de Mots.

De l'Orthographe Angloise, en particulier.

ON ne trouvera pas étrange, que je ne traite pas ici de la Prononciation des Lettres, puis que je l'ai fait Alphabetiquement, dans le Corps du Dictionnaire. Ainsi je me contenterai de faire ici quelques Reflexions utiles & curieuses, sur l'Orthographe Angloise.

On accuse l'Anglois de Bizarrerie. Il est vrai qu'il y en a, mais elle ne consiste proprement que dans l'Orthographe. Où il y a ceci d'incommode, que, pour exprimer seulement neuf ou dix Sons, on s'y sert de plus de soixante Manieres différentes; comme je l'ai fait voir dans ma Nouvelle Methode. Tantôt vous y trouvez un même Son, qui s'écrit diversément; tantôt divers Sons qui s'écrivent de même. Deux grands Defauts je l'avoue, dans la Maniere d'écrire une Langue; & dont le François mêmes, tout raffiné qu'il est, n'est pas exempt.

Si vous voulez favoir la Source de ces Defauts, la voici. C'est qu'en plusieurs Mots on a retenu l'ancienne Orthographe, en changeant la Prononciation; en d'autres Mots tout au contraire on a changé l'Orthographe, & retenu la Prononciation. Il y a encore une autre Raison, qu'il ne faut pas oublier. C'est qu'on n'a pas inventé assez de Figures ou de Lettres, pour exprimer tous les Sons distinctement.

Il seroit à souhaiter qu'on remediât à ces Inconveniens, & que Messieurs les Anglois purgeassent leur Orthographe, & la reformassent du moins comme nous avons fait la nôtre. C'est le Souhait de bien des Gens d'esprit parmi eux. Mais on y trouve tant d'Obstacle, & l'on y fait si peu de progrès, que je ne saurois me promettre aucune grande Reformation de ce côté là. Tant on a de peine à se depouiller de ses vieilles Costumes, & à se defaire d'une mauvaise Habitude.

Ce qu'on a fait de plus important dans ce Siecle, c'est d'avoir réduit la Terminaison ie à un y. Et de fait on n'écrit plus guere aujourd'hui jealousie, courtesie, ease, purse, to deny, to reply, mais presque toujours jealousy, courtesy, easy, purse, to deny, to reply, &c.

On a aussi retranché l'e final & muet d'une infinité d'autres Mots; comme de go, no, so, child, mind, blindness, kingdom, whoredom, ow, bow, now, & autres semblables; qui s'écrivoient autrefois ainsi avec un e à la fin, goe, noe, soe, childe, minde, blindness, &c.

On a changé l'y en i en ces Mots mine, rhine, & quantité d'autres, qui s'écrivoient autrefois avec un y.

On n'écrit presque plus burthen, ni murder; mais burden, murder.

On commence à rejeter la Diphtongue ea en certains Mots dérivés du Latin, comme complete, extream, & supream; qui s'écrivent de meilleure grace, & avec plus de raison, complete, extreme, supreme.

La Diphtongue oa se plaint aussi qu'on l'abandonne en plusieurs Endroits. Comme en ces Mots Smoke, cloke, sopa, fole, grone, monesful, roft; qui ont en effet meilleure grace que Smoke, cloak, soap, foal, groan, moanful, roast.

Pour ne pas multiplier les Choses sans necessité, il vaut mieux écrire mony, bony, cony, peny, chance, gard, month, sum, son, brutish, country, que money, honey, coney, penny, chaunce, guard, moneth, sunme, sonne, brutish, countrey.

C'est par cette raison qu'on ne repete plus guere à la fin d'un Mot une même Consonne, comme on faisoit autrefois. Car, au lieu que l'on écrivoit par exemple, Warr, starr, firr, stirr, hott, fitt, bigg, on écrit maintenant War, star, fir, stir, hot, fit, big.

Tho pour though, altho pour although s'établissent, mais avec assez de peine. Spire pour spighr, spiteful pour spighful, font beaucoup mieux reçus.

On écrit plutôt piece, field, yield, thief, bloud, flood, losh, forty, que peece, feild, yeild, theef, blood, flood, loash, fourty.

Les uns écrivent medow, Curtezan, Cozen, dozen, choese, onely, gudgeon, ancient, feign, reign, Sovereign, Borough, Munday, Straights, Tunnage, Attorney; les autres meadow, Courtesan, Cousen, douzen, chuse, only, gougeon, anient, faign, raign, Sovereign, Burrough, Monday, Streights, Tonnage, Attorney.

On écrit College & Colledge, gray & grey, Embassadour & Ambassadour.

Pour ce qui est des Noms en able, j'écrirois plutôt blamable, que blameable avec un e, comme font encore quelques uns. Cependant il est nécessaire de retenir l'e en ces Mots serviceable, chargeable, & autres semblables, parce que sans l'e le c & le g changeroient de Son. Ce qui ne doit pas être.

Il y a quantité de Mots composés, qui s'écrivent indifferemment par em ou im, en ou in. Comme Employment ou Imployment, Encrease ou Increase.

D'autres avec i ou y; comme Aid ou Ayd, boil ou boyl, loin ou loyn, bias ou byas, boisterous ou boysterous.

Avec u, ou w. Ex. to persuade ou perswade, Pouder ou Powder, Baud ou Bawd, bawl ou bawl, Laurel ou Lauwel, renum ou renown.

Je laisse à part plusieurs autres Mots, qui s'écrivent de deux manieres. Faisons maintenant trois Remarques, qui résultent de l'Orthographe, & de la Prononciation.

La Première est, qu'il y a quantité de Mots qui se prononcent de même, & qui cependant varient dans l'Orthographe & dans leur Signification. Tels sont entr'autres ball une paume, & bawl crier; bread du pain, & bred élevé; caul une coiffe, & call appeler; dew rosée, due deu; flea une puce, flea écorcher; in dedans, inn un Logis; pray je vous prie, prey une proie; rain une pluie, Reign un Regne; some quelque, sum une somme; time tems, thyme du thim; vein une veine, vain en vain; to wait attendre, a weight un poids.

La Seconde Remarque est, qu'il y a des Mots qui s'écrivent de même varient néanmoins dans leur Prononciation & dans leur Signification. Comme form forme, and form un banc; I read je lis, I read j'ai lu; bow un arc, bow reverence d'homme; qu'il faut prononcer dans l'Ordre auquel ils sont, farm & form; rede, red; bô, baou.

La Troisième Remarque est, qu'il y a des Mots qui sans varier ni dans l'Orthographe ni dans la Prononciation, varient néanmoins dans leur Signification. Tels sont use usage, to use se servir; abuse abus, to abuse abuser; close serré, to close conclure; dose une dose, to dose assoupir; excuse excuse, to excuse excuser; refuse rebut, to refuse refuser; refuser ; loose détaché, to loose détacher ; moufe une fouri, to moufe attraper des fouris ; well bien, well un puis.

METHODE ABBREGEE

Je pourrais encore ajouter une autre Remarque touchant ces Mots qui, ayant à peu près la même Prononciation, différent plus ou moins au regard de l'Orthographe & de la Signification. Comme Alley une Allée ; Ally une Alliée ; bable caqueter, bawble une bagatelle ; decem decem, descent une descente.

En fin remarquez, qu'on dit skimer pour scummer, sottle pour subtil, formité pour frumenty, flème pour phlegm, Sordgin pour Chirurgion, vittles pour vituals, ousted pour worsted, Listénant pour Lieutenant, hozzif pour huswife, henketcher pour handkerchief, senit pour severnigh.

Il y en a qui prononcent ces Mots Bishop, herb, earth, use, Bo-shop, verb, yerth, yuse. Mais cette Prononciation n'est pas du bel Usage.

Entre les Abbreviations, remarquez

Des SYLLABES.

PAR une Syllabe on entend ordinairement un Son qui se forme par un seul mouvement de Voix. Ce Son s'exprime quelquefois par une Voyelle ou deux, sans Consonne. Ex. a, e, i, o, u, aw, ee, oo, ow, &c. Mais le plus souvent il est composé d'une Voyelle ou deux, avec plus ou moins de Consonnes. Ex. shop, house, part, strength.

Remarquez, que les Anglois bien souvent ne font qu'une Syllabe de ce qui sert en François pour deux Syllabes. Cela arrive le plus souvent dans les Mots qui finissent par un e féminin ; comme love, house, prudence, confidence ; qui se prononcent lof, haous, prûdens, cônffidens ; les deux premiers par un seul mouvement de Voix, le troisième par deux, & le quatrième par trois mouvements. Et de fait ce à la fin d'un Mot n'a proprement en Anglois que le Son d'une s bien prononcée.

Ce seroit ici le Lieu d'éclaircir deux Difficultez. La première, en faisant voir comment on doit distinguer les Syllabes dans un Mot qui en a plusieurs. La seconde, en donnant des Regles pour la Quantité des Syllabes, c'est à dire, pour savoir distinguer les longues d'avec les breves.

A l'égard de la première, il faut savoir que les Composez & les Derivatifs retiennent les Syllabes des Simples & des Primitifs entières & indivisibles. Suivant cette Regle il faut ainsi diviser household hou-bold, householder hou-bol-der, dishearten dis-bear-ten, dishonest dis-honest, dishonour dis-ho-nour. Ainsi en est il de shepherd, qu'il faut diviser en ces deux Syllabes shep-herd, shepherdess en shep-herd-ess, uphold up-bold, up-held up-beld.

Cette Regle s'étend encore aux Terminaisons, qu'on ajoute à des Mots entiers, si bien que ces Terminaisons font une Syllabe à part. Ex. I deliver, thou deliver-est, he deliver-eth, deliver-er, deliver-ing, deliver-ance. Ainsi du Mot confine, qui n'est que de deux Syllabes en Anglois, vous avez con-fin-ed, con-fin-er, con-fin-ing, con-fine-ment.

Dans les Mots Composez il arrive quelquefois, que la Particule dont le Mot est composé finit par la Lettre qui commence le Mot simple. En ce Cas l'Anglois suit la Regle du Latin & du François, en rejetant la Lettre finale de la Particule, & retenant celle qui commence le Mot simple. Exemple, to transpire transpirer, vient du Latin transpiro, qui est un Verbe composé de trans & piro. Cependant on ne retient dans le Composé qu'une s, que l'on attribue au Verbe par deference. Si bien que transpire se doit ainsi diviser en ces deux Syllabes trans-pi-re.

Mais, pour abreger ce Sujet, j'ajouterai seulement une autre Remarque, qui n'est pas peu nécessaire à l'égard mêmes de la Prononciation. C'est, qu'il faut savoir distinguer les Voyelles qui ne sont pas Diphtongues d'avec celles qui le sont. Car il y a plusieurs Mots, où deux Voyelles se suivent, qui néanmoins appartiennent à deux diverses Syllabes.

Tels sont au es Noms propres qui finissent en au ; comme Imau, Archelaus, Agésilas, qui se divisent en ces Syllabes I-ma-us, Ar-che-la-us, A-gé-si-la-us. De même en est il d'ao en Chaos, d'es en pre-existence, ci en preingage, eo en phraseology, oe en coeternal, oo en co-operate.

En n'est point Diphtongue en Aeneas, pancreas, genealogy, Theater, Ocean, beatifical, to create, & ses Derivés ; hormis Creature, où l'a est muet. Ua n'est pas une Diphtongue en spiritual, perpetual, continual, & autres Mots semblables.

Pour ce qui regarde la Quantité des Syllabes, les Regles que nous avons données touchant la Prononciation vont fort loin dans cette Veuë. Les grand Mots sont ceux où git la Difficulté ; & pour s'y rendre parfait, il faut la Routine & l'Usage. Je veux bien pourtant faire ici quelques Remarques, qui ne seront pas inutiles.

L'une, c'est qu'il y a des Mots qui servent de Noms & de Verbes, & qui varient leur Accent, selon l'Usage qu'on en fait. Ainsi absent aient a son Accent à la première Syllabe ; mais dans le Verbe to absent himself s'absenter, l'Accent se met sur la dernière Syllabe.

De même en prend il de ceux ci, où je met l'Accent, afin que la Différence paroisse à veuë d'œil. Savoir.

Collect collecte,	to collect lever, faire levée de.
Confines Confins,	he confines il confine.
Conflict combat,	to conflict combattre.
Confort concert,	to confort s'affocier.
Converse conversation,	to converse converser.
Incense encens,	to incense irriter.
An outcast un rebut,	to outcast rebuter.
Premises choses susdites,	he premises il met devant.
Project un Projet,	to project projeter.
Refuse rebut,	to refuse refuser.
Ferment fermentation,	to ferment fermenter.
Convert un-Converti,	to convert convertir.
A toward Boy un Enfant de bon naturel,	toward ou towards vers.
Présent présent,	to present presenter.
Object objet,	to object objecter.
Subject sujet,	to subject assujettir.
Contest contestation,	to contest contester.

A quoi ajoutons ces Mots

decent decem,	descent descente.
Minute une minute,	minute en abrégé.
To conjure exorciser,	to conjure conjurer.

Une autre Remarque est, que l'Anglois a des Mots à double Accent, suivant la Prononciation grave. Comme

academy Academie.	antiquated hors d'usage.
acrimony acrimonie.	apoplexy apoplexie.
alimony entretien.	hierarchy hierarchie.
antimony antimoine.	Necromancy Necromancie.

A quoi ajoutez les grands Mots finissant en able, ary, & ory. Comme

admirable admirable.	auxiliary auxiliaire.
amiable aimable.	necessary nécessaire.
amicable amiable.	sedentary sédentaire.
habitable habitable.	accessory complice.
adversary adversaire.	ambulatory ambulatoire.
anniversary anniversaire.	auditory auditoire.
arbitrary arbitraire.	refractory revêche, &c.

Des Huit Parties d'Oraison, en general.

TOUT ce qui entre dans la Composition d'une Langue se réduit à ces huit Sortes de Mots, que les Grammairiens appellent les huit Parties d'Oraison. Savoir

NOM, PRONOM, VERBE,
PARTICIPE, } ADVERBE, CONJUNCTION,
PREPOSITION,
INTERJECTION.

Quand un de ces Mots n'a qu'une Syllabe, comme Dieu God, on l'appelle un Monosyllabe; & s'il en a plusieurs, comme devot Godly, Devotion Godliness, on le nomme un Polysyllabe.

Si c'est un Mot qui ne tire point son Origine d'un autre, c'est un Primitif, comme forme form; mais, s'il derive d'un autre, comme formel formal, on l'appelle un Derivatif.

En fin, si le Mot n'est point mêlé de quelque autre, il porte le Nom de Simple, comme juste just; s'il l'est, c'est un Composé, ex. injuste unjust.

Le NOM est ce qui nomme une Chose. Ex. un Homme a Man, Bête a Beast, Ville a Town, Maison a House. Ou qui exprime quelque Qualité; comme bon good, mauvais bad, blanc white, noir black, grand great, petit small.

De ces deux Sortes de Nom, le premier s'appelle Substantif, l'autre Adjectif.

Entré les Substantifs, il y en a que l'on appelle Noms Propres. Comme Jean John, Marie Mary, Angleterre England, Londres London, la Tamise the Thames.

Le PRONOM est une Partie d'Oraison, dont on se sert en la place du Nom.

Il y en a que l'on appelle Personnels. Savoir, Je, ou Moi, I; Tu, ou Toi, Thou; Il, Lui, He; Elle, She. D'autres Demonstratifs; comme Ce, Celui ci, Ceci, This; Ce, Celui là, Cela, That.

Les Relatifs sont Qui, Que, Quoi, Lequel, Which, Who, What. Les Possessifs, Mon ou ma my, Ton ou ta thy, Son ou Sa his, her, its, Notre our, Votre your, Leur their.

D'où se forment ceux ci, dont on se sert proprement à la fin d'une Sentence. Savoir le Mien mine, le Tien thine, le Sien his, hers, le Notre ours, le Votre yours, le Leur theirs.

Le VERBE est un Mot qui exprime Action, Possession, ou l'état d'une Chose. Ex. aimer to love, courir to run; avoir, to have; être to be, exister to exist.

Quand un Verbe reçoit immédiatement après soi un Substantif, on appelle ce Verbe là Actif; autrement, c'est un Verbe Neutre. Ainsi manger to eat, avoir to have, sont des Verbes Actifs; parce qu'on dit par exemple, manger du fruit to eat fruit, avoir du fruit to have fruit. Au lieu que Courir est Neutre, parce qu'on ne dit pas Courir une Chose. Il est vrai, qu'il y a des Verbes Actifs dont on se sert quelquefois en Verbes Neutres; & réciproquement des Verbes Neutres, que l'on emploie dans un Sens actif.

Comme les Verbes se conjuguent par Modes, Temps, Nombres, & Personnes, & que la plus grande partie de ces Temps sont composés, le Verbe qui entre dans cette Composition est appelé Auxiliaire. La Langue Française n'a que deux Verbes Auxiliaires, qui sont Avoir to have, & Être to be; mais l'Anglois en a davantage, comme il paroît dans la Suite.

On appelle Verbes Impersonnels ceux qui ne se conjuguent qu'avec une Personne dans chaque Temps; comme Il pleut It rains, Il pleuvoit It rained. Les Irreguliers sont ceux qui se conjuguent Irrégulièrement, ou qui s'écartent plus ou moins de la Manière générale de conjuguer les Verbes. Les Defectifs sont des Verbes, qui n'ont que quelques Temps en usage.

Le PARTICIPE est une Partie d'Oraison, qui tient de la nature du Nom & du Verbe. De là vient qu'il est appelé Participe.

Il y en a de deux sortes, le Présent & le Prétérit. Le Participe Présent en Anglois se termine toujours en ing. Ainsi to love aimer, fait loving aimant. Le Prétérit finit en d, n, ou t, mais le plus souvent en d. Exemple, du Verbe to love se forme le Participe loved aimé; de finite, smitten frappé; de think, thought pensé.

L'ADVERBE est un Mot, qui exprime quelque Circonstance d'une Action, ou d'un Etat signifié par le Verbe.

Il y a des Adverbes, qu'on appelle de Qualité, dont le Nombre surpasse tous les autres. En Anglois ils finissent généralement en ly. Comme prudemment prudently, résolument resolutely, sagement wisely, infiniment infinitely.

Il y a aussi des Adverbes de Quantité. Comme, peu little, beaucoup much, davantage more, moins less, assez enough, trop too much. D'Affirmation, Oui yes, en vérité truly, en effet indeed, assurément surely.

De Negation, non no, point du tout not at all. De Comparaison, ainsi so, pareillement likewise, comme as, even as, que than.

De Temps, maintenant now, quand when, alors then, souvent often, quelquefois sometimes, rarement seldom, toujours always, jamais never.

ver, tout à l'heure presently, by and by, cependant mean while. De Lieu, où where, ici here, là there, ailleurs elsewhere.

D'Ordre, premièrement first, secondement secondly, troisièmement thirdly, peu à peu by degrees.

La CONJUNCTION est une Partie d'Oraison, qui sert à lier les Mots & les Sentences.

Les Copulatives sont & and, aussi also. Les Disjonctives, ou or, either; ni, nor, neither. Causales, afin que that, so the end that, de peur que lest, car for, parce que because, donc then, c'est pourquoi therefore.

Conditionnelles, si if, pourveu que provided, à moins que unless. Adversatives, mais but, néanmoins; toutefois, yet, however; quoi que, bien que, though, although.

La PREPOSITION est une Partie d'Oraison, qui exprime quelque Circonstance du Nom.

Comme, avec with, sans without, par by, pour for, contre against. A at, to, in, into; de of, out of, from; vers near, nigh; loin, far, far off; dans in, within; hors out, without. Devant before, après after, sur upon, sous under, entre between, parmi amongst.

On appelle INTERJECTIONS certains Mots, qui représentent les Passions qui agitent l'Âme.

Comme, ha, ha, ha, qui marquent la Joie; O! le Desir; hélas! la Compassion.

Pour Conclusion, il faut remarquer, que, de ces huit Parties d'Oraison, le Nom & le Verbe sont sans contredit les plus considérables. Car les Pronoms & les Participes ne sont que des Sortes de Nom; & les Adverbes, Conjunctions, Prepositions, & Interjections ne sont que des Particules, qui servent à exprimer quelque Circonstance, ou à lier le Discours.

De la Derivation des Mots.

POUR entendre une Langue à fond, il n'y a rien de tel que de bien concevoir la Manière dont les Mots Derivent se forment de leurs Primitifs, & les Composez de leurs Simples. C'est ce que nous allons voir à l'égard de l'Anglois.

Entre les Derivatifs qui ont beaucoup de Rapport aux nôtres, nous pouvons conter 1. ceux qui finissent en ance ou ence, & qui sont Latins d'Origine. Exemple,

Constance Constancy .	Vigilance Vigilance .
Prudence Prudence .	Temperance Temperance .

2. Ceux qui finissent en té, & qui derivent des Noms Latins en tas. Comme

Piété Piety .	Chasteté Chastity .
Charité Charity .	Libéralité Liberality .

3. Quelques Noms Grecs finissant en ie, à quoi répond l'y en Anglois. Comme

Amnistie Amnistry .	Philosophie Philosophy .
Anatomie Anatomy .	Polygamie Polygamy .

Entre ceux qui marquent de certaines Professions, les uns finissent en er. Comme de

Fish Poisson,	Fisher Pêcheur.
Game Jeu,	Gamester Joueur.
Garden Jardin,	Gardener Jardinier.
Glove Gand,	Glover Gantier.
Gun Canon,	Gunner Canonnier.
Hat Chapeau,	Hatter Chapelier.
Pot Pot,	Potter Potier.
Law Loi,	Lawyer Avocat.
Astronomy Astronomie,	Astronomer Astronome.
Astrology Astrologie,	Astrologer Astrologue.
Cosmography Cosmographie,	Cosmographer Cosmographe.
Geography Géographie,	Geographer Géographe.

D'autres en ian; comme de

Grammar Grammaire,	Grammarian Grammairien.
Mathematicks Mathématiques,	Mathematician Mathématicien.
Physick Médecine,	Physician Médecin.
Musick Musique,	Musician Musicien.
Arithmetick Arithmétique,	Arithmetician Arithméticien.

Quelques uns en ist; comme de

Drug Drogue,	Druggist Droguiste.
Latine Latin,	Latinist Latiniste.
Calvin Calvin,	Calvinist Calviniste.
Jansenius Jansenius,	Jansenist Jansenist.

METHODE ABBREGE'E

Il y a des Noms de Dignité, qui se forment de certains Substantifs personnels, en y ajoutant cette Particule ship. Ainsi de

Lord Seigneur,	Se forme	Lordship Seigneurie.
Master Maître,		Masterhip Maîtrise.
Doctor Docteur,		Doctorship Doctorat.
Cardinal Cardinal,		Cardinalship Cardinalat.
Apostle Apôtre,		Apostleship Apostolat.
Admiral Amiral,		Admiralship Charge d'Amiral.

Mais hardship dureté, ou fatigue, vient du Nom Adjectif hard; & sa Terminaison ne marque rien de grand, dans le Sens des Noms precedens.

Ajoutons à ces Noms ceux qui finissent en head & hood, deux autres Particules à peu près de la même force que ship. C'est ainsi que de

God Dieu,	Se forme	Godhead Divinité.
Maiden Vierge,		Maidenhead Virginité.
Father Pere,		Fatherhood Paternité.
Brother Frere,		Brotherhood Fraternité.
Child Enfant,		Childhood Enfance.
Man Homme,		Manhood Virilité.
Knight Chevalier,		Knighthood Chevalerie.
Widow Veuve,		Widowhood Veuve.
False Faux,		Falseness Fausseté.

Il y a encore certains Noms finissans en dom, qui derivent d'autres Substantifs. Comme de

King Roi,	Kingdom Royaume.
Duke Duc,	Dukedom Duché.
Earl Comte,	Earldom Comté.
Christian Chretien,	Christendom Chretienté.
Wise Sage,	Wisdom Sageffe.
Martyr Martyr,	Martyrdom Martyre.

Il y en a deux autres de cette Nature, qui se terminent en rick. Comme de

Bishop Evêque,	Bishoprick Evêché.
Archbishop Archevêque,	Archbishoprick Archevêché.

Les Anglois ont tres peu de Diminutifs, qui repondent aux nôtres finissans en et. Ils en ont quelques uns qui finissent en kin; comme Napkin Serviette, Pipkin Pot de terre, Lambkin petit Agneau. D'autres qui se terminent en ing; comme Kittling petit Chat, Gosling Oison.

Quelques uns en el; Ex. Cockrel jeune Coc, Pickrel petit brochet, Parcel Paquet. D'autres en et; comme Pocket Poche, snapper trencher de pain trempée dans la graisse du pot, casket petite caisse. Hill Montagne, ou Colline, fait hillock une petite Colline.

Mais ils ont, comme nous, quantité de ces Derivés que l'on appelle Verbaux, comme sont en François la plupart des Noms finissans en eur, ion, & ment. Les premiers se terminent generalement en er dans la Langue Angloise. C'est ainsi que des Verbes,

To love aimer,	Se forment	Lover amateur.
To make faire,		Maker faiseur.
To prattle causer,		Pratler, causeur.
To dance danser,		Dancer danseur.

Il y en a pourtant que l'Anglois termine en or, ou our. Ex. Corrector Correcteur, Saviour Sauveur.

Pour ce qui est des Verbaux en ion, il y en a tres grand Nombre, qui ne varient point, & où l'Anglois ne differe du François que dans la Prononciation. Exemple

Union Union.	Satisfaction Satisfaction.
Opinion Opinion.	Institution Institution.
Question Question.	Constitution Constitution.
Creation Creation.	Conclusion Conclusion.

Ceux que nous finissons en ment se terminent d'ordinaire en ing. Ainsi des Verbes

To begin commen-	Se forment	Beginning commencecer,		ment.
To understand en-		Understanding entende-
tendre,		ment.

Remarquez, qu'il y a peu de Verbes Anglois, d'où il ne se forme un de ces Substantifs en ing; au lieu que nos Verbaux en ment sont assez rares. Ce n'est pas que les Anglois n'aient aussi des Verbaux finissans en ment. En voici des Verbes

To command commander,	Commandment commandment.
To govern gouverner,	Government Gouvernement.
To judge juger,	Judgement Jugement.
To manage conduire,	Management Conduite.
To punish punir,	Punishment Punition.
To settle etablis,	Settlement Etablissement.

En François nous avons quantité de Derivatis feminins, qui se forment des Noms Masculins; dont voici les principaux. Savoir ceux qui se forment des Masculins, en y ajoutant un e; comme d'Ami Amie, & de Cousin Cousine: & les Noms en euse, qui se forment des Verbaux en eur; comme de faiseur faiseuse, & de vendeur vendeuse.

Il n'en est pas de même en Anglois, où la plupart des Noms sont de tout Genre, & servent également à l'un & à l'autre Sexe. Mais, lors que l'on veut distinguer, il faut emprunter le mot de she ou de Woman, pour suppleer à ce Defaut. Exemple a She-friend une Amie, a Woman-servant une Servante. Et c'est pour cela que, pour exprimer le Mot d'Angloise, il faut dire an Englifo-woman, une Françoisie a French-woman, &c. En quoi il faut avouer, que le François a beaucoup meilleure grace.

Il y en a pourtant quelques uns qui se forment de cette maniere. Comme de

God Dieu,	Goddeff Deesse.
Emperour Empereur,	Empress Imperatrice.
Electer Electeur,	Electress Electrice.
Prince Prince,	Princess Princesse.
Duke Duc,	Duchess Duchesse.
Marquess Marquis,	Marchioness Marquise.
Baron Baron,	Baroness Baronne.
Embassadour Ambassadeur,	Embassadress Ambassadrice.
Master Maître,	Mistress Maîtresse.
Abbot Abbé,	Abbess Abbess.
Priest Prêtre,	Priestess Prêtresse.
Wizard Sorcier,	Witch Sorciere.
Gouverneur Gouverneur,	Governess Gouvernante.

Outre tous ces Derivatis, il y en a un grand Nombre d'autres, qui finissent les uns en ness, les autres en th, ou ty, & qui tirent la plupart leur Origine de Noms Adjectifs.

En ness; comme de

White blanc,	Whiteness blancheur.
Hard dur,	Hardness dureté.
Great grand,	Greatness grandeur.
Small petit,	Smallness petitesse.
Wifful opiniâtre,	Wiffulness opiniâtré.
Careless negligent,	Carelessness negligence.
Foolish fou,	Foolishness folie.
Timorous craintif,	Timorousness crainte.
Crafty fin,	Craftiness finesse.

Parmi ces Substantifs, il s'en trouve d'une force admirable, pour exprimer la nature ou la qualité d'une Chose. Ex. de credibleness, expressive expressiveness, unreasonable unreasonable, unwarrantable unwarrantableness; qui sont des Termes qu'on ne sauroit rendre en François, ni même en Latin, que par une Circonlocution.

En th, ou ty. C'est ainsi que de

Broad large,	Se forme	Breadth largeur.
Deep profond,		Depth profondeur.
High haut,		Height hauteur.
Long long,		Length longueur.
Merry joyeux,		Mirth Joie.
Slow tardif,		Sloth paresse.
Dear cher,		Dearth cherté.
Dry sec,		Drought secheresse.
True vrai,		Truth vérité.
Young Jeune,		Youth Jeunesse.
To grow croître,		Growth accroissement.
To see voir,		Sight vue.
To fly fuir,		Flight fuite.
To die mourir,		Death mort.
To draw tirer,		Draught trait.

Je passe maintenant des Substantifs aux Adjectifs. En François nous avons quantité d'Adjectifs finissans en el & en eux, à quoi l'Anglois a bien du rapport. Comme

Temporel temporal.	Courageux courageux.
Eternel eternal.	Malicieux malicieux.
Corporel corporal.	Vertueux vertueux.
Spirituel spiritual.	Vicieux vicieux.

Il y en a d'autres finissans en able & ible, qui sont de même, ou à peu près, en l'une & en l'autre Langue. Exemple

Desirable desirable.	Visible visible.
Abominable abominable.	Invisible invisible.
Aimable amable.	Horrible horrible.
Insatiable insatiable.	Terrible terrible.

Quelques uns finissans en ique, se terminent en ical. Comme

Allegorique allegorical.	Canonique canonical.
Angelique angelical.	Methodique methodical.

D'autres,

POUR APPRENDRE L'ANGLAIS.

D'autres que nous finissons en ish, se terminent en ive.
Comme

Substantif Substantive .	Imperatif Imperative .
Adjectif Adjective .	Optatif Optative .
Positif Positive .	Subjonctif Subjunctive .
Comparatif Comparative .	Infinitif Infinitive .
Superlatif Superlative .	Lenitif Lenitive .
Indicatif Indicative .	Obstrucif Obstructive .

Nous avons de certains Adjectifs en âtre, qui diminuent la Signification de ceux dont ils derivent. En Anglois ils se terminent en ish. Exemple,

Blanchâtre whitish .	Rougeâtre reddish .
Noirâtre blackish .	Douceâtre sweetish .

On se sert aussi en Anglois de ces Adjectifs, pour exprimer quelque Inclination. Comme whorish, qui a du panchant à faire la Putain, brutish brutal, childish enfantin, Devilish Diabolique.

Outre toutes ces Sortes d'Adjectifs qui passent dans le Nombre des Derivatifs, il y a des Adjectifs Anglois finissans en full, qui selon la force de ce Mot marquent de l'abondance. Comme de

Foy Joie,	Foyfull Joyeux.
Plenty abondance,	Plentyfull abondant.
Fruit fruit,	Fruitfull fertile.
Care soin,	Carefull soigneux.
Will volonté,	Willfull opiniâtre.
Bounty bonté,	Bountyfull bon, ou plein de bonté.

Tout au contraire de ceux là vous en allez voir qui finissent en less, Particule qui exprime une Privation de ce que le Substantif signifie. Exemple, de

Supper Soupé,	Supperless qui n'a point soupé.
Use usage,	Useless inutile.
Beard barbe,	Beardless qui n'a point de barbe.
Blame blâme,	Blameless sans blâme.
Father Pere,	Fatherless sans Pere.
Mother Mere,	Motherless sans Mere.
Friend Ami,	Friendless sans Amis.
Name Nom,	Nameless sans Nom.
Doubt doute,	Doubtless sans doute.
Sense sens,	Senseless qui n'a point de sens.

D'ailleurs, les Anglois ont quantité d'Adjectifs, qui se forment des Substantifs, en ajoutant y, ou ly. Comme de

Bloud sang,	Bloudy ensanglanté.
Dirt ordure,	Dirty sale.
Guile faute,	Guilty coupable.
Louse pou,	Lousy pousseux.
Sand sable,	Sandy sablonneux.
Stone pierre,	Stony pierreux.
Wind vent,	Windy venteux.

Body corps,	Bodily corporel.
Brother frere,	Brotherly fraternel.
Earth terre,	Earthly terrestre.
God Dieu,	Godly pieux.
Heaven Ciel,	Heavenly celeste.
Love amitié,	Lovely aimable.
Order ordre,	Orderly bien ordonné.

Il y en a d'autres qui se forment de certains Substantifs en er, en changeant er en ry. Ainsi de

Anger colere,	Angry fâché.
Hunger faim,	Hungry qui a faim.

D'autres qui se forment de certains Substantifs, en y ajoutant la Particule som. Comme de

Trouble incommodité,	Troublesom incommode.
Cumber embarras,	Cumber-som embarrasant.
Humour fantaisie,	Humour-som fantaisque.

Ou en y ajoutant en; comme sont certains Adjectifs, qui expriment la Matière dont une Chose est faite. Ainsi du Mot

Earth terre,	Earthen de terre.
Hemp chanvre,	Hempen de chanvre.
Lead plomb,	Leaden de plomb.
Wood bois,	Wooden de bois.
Wool laine,	Woollen de laine.

Reste à parler des Noms Nationaux, dont on se sert en Adjectifs & en Substantifs. Les Anglois terminent en ish, & ch, ceux que nous finissons en ois. Comme

Anglois English .	Ecoffois Scotch .
François French .	Irlandois Irish .

Hollandois Dutch.
Polonois Polish.
Danois Danish.

Suedois Swedish.
Gallois Welsh.

Et, pour les rendre Substantifs au masculin, il n'y a qu'à ajouter man. Comme un Anglois an Englishman, un François a Frenchman, un Ecoffois a Scotchman, un Irlandois an Irishman, un Hollandois a Dutchman, un Gallois a Welshman. Mais, pour dire un Polonois, dites seulement a Pole, ou a Polander; un Danois a Dane, un Suedois a Swede. On dit aussi simplement, pour un Hollandois a Hollander.

Quand on veut parler d'une Femme, au lieu de man, il faut ajouter Woman à l'Adjectif. Comme, une Angloise an Englishwoman, une François a Frenchwoman, & ainsi du reste.

Remarquez que Hongrois s'écarte de la Regle. Car on dit en Anglois Hungarian, dans le Sens Adjectif & Substantif. Mais, quand on veut dire un Hongrois, on n'a qu'à dire an Hungarian; & si on veut specifier le Genre dans le féminin, il faut dire an Hungarian woman.

Outre les Noms finissans en ois, nous en avons aussi qui finissent en ien, & que l'Anglois termine en ian. Comme

Italien Italian .	Parisien Parisian .
Venicien Venetian .	Egyptien Egyptian .
Armenien Armenian .	Indien Indian .

Et l'on se sert de ces Noms, de même que de Hungarian, sans qu'il soit nécessaire d'y ajouter le Mot de man, pour en faire un Substantif masculin; ni de Woman, à moins qu'on ne veuille bien specifier le Sexe.

En fin il y a de ces Sortes de Noms, qui sont Irreguliers dans leur Terminaison. Comme

Africain African .	Mede Mede .
Americain American .	Scythe Scythian .
Alleman German , high Dutch .	Tartare Tartar .
Espagnol Spaniard .	Lapon Laplander .
Portugais Portuguese .	Lorrain Lorrainer .
Turc Turk .	Bourguignon Burgundian .
Grec Greek , ou Grecian .	Gascon Gascon .
Juif Jew .	Saxon Saxon .
Moscovite Moscovite .	Suisse Swiss .
Perlan, Perse, Persian .	Natif de Londres, Londoner .
Parthe Parthian .

Remarquez, qu'entre ces Noms si vous vous servez d'Espagnol en Adjectif, il faut dire Spanish, de More Moorish, de Turc Turkish, de Juif Jewish, de Moscovite Moscovian, de Mede Median, de Tartare Tartarian, de Flamand Flemish, & de Suisse Swiss, ou Helvetian. Les autres servent d'Adjectif & de Substantif.

Quant aux Verbes Anglois, les Derivez sont pour la plupart de même que leurs Primitifs. Comme to chance, to diet, to fear, to honour, to milk, to pull, to quiet, to sin, to trust, to whip; qui derivent de ces Substantifs, chance, diet, fear, honour, milk, pull, quiet, sin, trust, whip.

Il y en a pourtant qui varient, & qui se forment d'un Nom Substantif ou Adjectif, en y ajoutant en. Ainsi de

Black noir,	to Blacken noircir.
Hard dur,	to Harden durcir.
Haste hâte,	to Hasten se hâter.
Length longueur,	to Lengthen allonger.
Moist humide,	to Moisten humecter.
Soft mou,	to Soften amollir.
Sharp pointu,	to Sharpen rendre pointu.
Short court,	to Shorten abbreger.
White blanc,	to Whiten blanchir.

Entre les Adverbes, il faut prendre conoissance de ceux qui se forment des Adjectifs, & finissent en ly. C'est ainsi que

Humble humble,	Humbly humblement.
Learned savant,	Learnedly savamment.
Prudent prudent,	Prudently prudemment.
Loving aimable,	Lovingly avec amitié.
Plentiful abondant,	Plentifully abondamment.
Brisk vigoureux,	Briskly vigoureusement.
Abominable abominable,	Abominably d'une manière abominable.
Virtuous vertueux,	Virtuously vertueusement.
Wise sage,	Wisely sagement.

De la Composition des Mots.

LES Composez dans la Langue Angloise sont de diverses Sortes. Ceux qui se forment d'une Preposition, avec quelque autre Partie d'Oraison, l'emportent au regard du Nombre.

Les Prepositions dont on se sert en ce Cas sont

A; Exemple afoot à pié, abed au lit, abroad dehors, to avert détourner.
Ab; to abjure abjurer.
Abst; to abstain s'abstenir.
Ad; to admire admirer.
Amphi; amphibious, amphibie.
Anti; antichristian, anticrétien.
Be; because parce que, to bestink empuantir.
Con; concourse, concours.
Contra; contradiction, contradiction.
Counter; counter-poison, contre-poison.
De; to deter détourner par la crainte, to degenerate dégénérer, to despair désespérer, to descend descendre, to demonstrate démontrer.
Dis; disgrace, disgrâce; discolour, deshonorer.
E; Emotion, émotion.
En; to enquire, s'enquérir.
Enter; enterprise, entreprise.
Ex; to exalt, exalter.
Extra; extraordinary, extraordinaire.
Fore; fore-told, prédit; to forego, céder.
In; to inhabit, habiter; invisible, invisible.
Inter; intercession, intercession; to intermeddle, s'entremêler.

Intro; to introduce, introduire.
Mis; mistake, erreur, beveuë.
Ob; to obtain, obtenir.
Off; Offspring, Postérité.
Over; Over-see, Inspecteur; to overtake, attraper; to overpower, être le plus fort.
Out; Outlandish, étranger; to out-do, surpasser.
Para; as Paraphrase, paraphrase.
Per; to peruse, revoir, examiner.
Peri; periphrase, periphrase.
Post; Postscript, apostille.
Pre; to presume, presumer.
Preter; to pretermis, omettre.
Pro; to prolong, prolonger.
Re; to renew, renouveler.
Sub; Subdivision, Subdivision.
Super; to supervise, avoir l'Inspection d'une chose.
Sur; surface, surface; to surprise, surprendre.
Syn; Syndick Syndic, Synod Synode.
Trans; transformed, transformé.
Un; unlawful, illicite; to unty, détacher.
Under; to undergo, souffrir; to understand, entendre.
Up; to uphold, soutenir; upward, en haut.
With; to withstand, résister; to withdraw, se retirer.

Entre toutes ces Prepositions, il faut savoir que les unes sont Separables (pour parler en Grammaire) & les autres Inseparables. C'est à dire, qu'il y en a dont on se sert séparément, aussi bien qu'en Composition; & d'autres qui ne sont du tout en Usage que dans les Mots qui en sont Composés.

Les Separables sont a, counter, in, off, over, out, under, up, & with; qui sont amplement expliquées dans le Dictionnaire.

Les autres, qui sont Inseparables, tirent la plupart leur Origine, ou du Grec ou du Latin.

Parmi celles ci, il y en a six, ad, con, dis, ob, sub, & syn, qui changent leur Lettre finale en Anglois & en François, à l'imitation du Latin & du Grec.

Ad change son d en la Lettre qui suit, si c'est une de ces neuf, savoir c, f, g, h, n, p, r, s, & t. Comme en ces Mots to accommodate accommoder, affectionate affectionné, to aggrandise aggrandir, to allude faire allusion, to annul annuler, to appease apaiser, arrogancy arrogance, assurance assurance, attempt effort, attentat.

Con perd son n, devant une b & un o; comme en coheir coheritier, to cooperate cooperer. Au lieu de con, il faut dire col devant l; com, devant b, m, p; & cor, devant r. Comme colloquy, colloque; combination conspiration, commiseration compassion, to compose composer; to corrupt, corrompre. On dit aussi Cognition & Recognition, où vous voyez que l'n est convertie en g devant n.

Dis perd son s, en certains Mots qui sont purement Latins; Ex. to dilate dilater, to dilacerate déchirer, to diminish diminuer, to divulge divulguer. En d'autres Mots, l's se change en f; comme difference différence, difficult difficile, diffidence défiance, to diffuse repandre.

Ob change son b en c, devant un c; en f, devant f; & en p, devant p. Ex. occurrence occurrence, to offer offrir, to oppress opprimer.

Sub. Au lieu de Sub, on dit suc, devant c; suf, devant f; sug, devant g; & sup, devant p. Comme succour secours, suffering souffrance, to suggest suggérer, to suppress supprimer.

Syn n'est en usage qu'en certains Mots qui sont tout à fait Grecs d'origine. Cette Preposition perd son n devant s, comme system système; & elle la change en m, devant b & p, comme symbol symbole, sympathy sympathie.

Après cette Remarque touchant ces Prepositions changeantes, je trancherai court sur le reste.

Il y en a quatre qui sont purement Grecques, savoir Amphi, Anti, Para, & Peri, dont il se fait très peu de Composés.

Les Latines sont de, ex, extra, inter, intro, per, post, pre, preter, pro, re, super, trans.

De a les mêmes Sens en Anglois qu'en François. Tantôt elle exprime un Changement, ou une Privation; comme en ces Mots to deter détourner par la crainte, to degenerate dégénérer, to despair désespérer. Tantôt un Mouvement en bas; comme to descend descendre. En fin il y a des Mots, où elle exagère la Signification du Simple; comme to demonstrate démontrer.

E, extra, inter, intro, post, preter, super, & trans sont très peu de Composés, & ont la même Signification dans l'une & l'autre Langue.

Re signifie d'ordinaire, comme en François, un Redoublement d'Action; Ex. to renew renouveler, to reform reformer.

Les Prepositions Angloises Inseparables sont be, en, enter, fore, mis, sur, un.

Il semble que la première ne soit autre chose que la Preposition separable by, convertie ici en be. Comme en ces Mots because parce que, before devant, behind derrière, below ou beneath en bas, between entre, to bestink empuantir, to besprinkle arroser, to bestir himself agir, se mettre en action, to bespawl cracher tout autour.

Mais elle semble aussi s'éloigner de ce Sens en ces Mots to bespeak, to bereave, to behead, to bely, &c.

En & Enter se disent en Anglois, au lieu du Latin In & Iner. La première change son n en m, devant b & p; comme to emboss relever en bosse, an Employment un Emploi.

Fore se dit par Contraction pour afore, ou before; Ex. to foretell prédire, to forewarn avertir par avance.

Mais il y a des Mots, approchant de ceux ci, qui semblent être plutôt composés de notre ancienne Preposition Fors, que de l'Angloise Fore. Comme to forget oublier, to forswear se parjurer, & leurs Derivatifs. Ainsi to forget, dans mon Sens, signifieroit to get out of his memory; to forswear, to swear out of the way.

Mis marque de l'Erreur, ou de la Faute; comme misunderstanding méintelligence, mistake méprise, erreur, beveuë.

Sur se dit, en quelques Mots, au lieu du Latin Super; comme surface surface.

Un. De toutes ces Prepositions, il n'y en a point qui soit de si grande étendue, en fait de Composition. Et de fait les Anglois s'en servent à cet égard, avec tant de liberté, que leur Langue en est devenue extrêmement commode & emphatique.

Elle sert admirablement bien à exprimer trois choses, Negation, Privation, & Dissolution. Comme untrue qui n'est pas véritable, unchast impudique; to unlearn desapprendre, unpeopled dépeuplé; to unty détacher, to unlace délacer.

Le Nombre de ces Composés est grand, & l'Usage en est admirable. Il seroit à souhaiter, que notre Langue eût cet Avantage, laquelle est devenue stérile par un Excès de délicatesse. Elle ne seroit pas réduite, comme elle est, à un long circuit de Paroles, pour exprimer le Sens d'un Mot Anglois. Tels sont unanswerable à quoi l'on ne sauroit répondre, unattainable à quoi l'on ne peut pas parvenir, an unbloody Victory une Victoire obtenue sans effusion de sang; unextinguished, sans être éteint, qui n'est pas éteint; unprepared, sans être préparé, qui n'est pas préparé, unpreparedness l'état d'une personne qui n'est pas préparée, unconcernedly sans être aucunement ému, undeservedly sans l'avoir mérité; & quantité d'autres Mots de cette Nature.

Voilà de quelle manière se forment la plupart des Mots Composés, dans la Langue Angloise. Avant que d'aller plus loin, il faut remarquer deux choses.

L'une, qu'une grande partie des Composés qui tirent leur Origine du Latin n'ont pas leurs Simples en Usage. Ainsi on dit bien to permit, promise, intercept, introduce, suggest, suppress, transfer, differ, obtain, intertain, diffuse, &c. Otez en la Preposition, le reste n'est qu'un Corps sans Ame.

Il y a encore ceci à Remarquer dans ces Composés; c'est que la plupart s'écartent plus ou moins du Sens naturel de leurs Simples.

Mais, outre cette manière de composer les Mots avec des Prepositions, la Langue Angloise en fournit bien d'autres. Ex.

Almighty tout puissant.
All-seeing qui voit tout.
All-viewing à qui rien n'est caché.

All-knowing qui sait tout.
Everlasting éternel.
Everliving immortel.

Plump-faced qui a le visage replet.
Brazen-faced effronté.
Fair-complexioned qui a le teint beau.
Wry-necked qui a le Cou de travers.
Crook-back, ou crump-shoulder'd

High-spirited fier.
Flat-bottomed à plat fond.
Self-conceited qui a trop bonne opinion de soi même.
Self-willed têtue, opiniâtre.
Far-fetch'd qui vient de loin.
Home-bred du Pais.

Ajoutons à ceux là les Composés de deux Substantifs. Ex.

Alderman un Sénateur de la Ville.
Horseman un Cavalier.
Footman un Valet de pié.
Coach-man un Cocher.
Dust-man un Bouëur.

Coal-man un Crieur de Charbon.
Cane-man un Vendeur de Canes.
Fruit-woman Fruitière.
Herb-woman Herbière.
Oyster-woman Vendeuse d'huîtres.

Belt-maker faiseur de Baudriers.
Fringe-maker faiseur de Franges.
Shoemaker Cordonnier.

Orange-seller Vendeur (ou Vendeuse) d'Oranges.
Cheese-monger Fromager.
Fish-monger Poissonnier.
Woodmonger Vendeur de Bois.

On dit aussi

a Mutton-monger pour dire un grand mangeur de Mouton.
a Whoremonger un Homme adonné à la Debauche des Femmes.

a News-monger un Homme qui se pique de savoir toutes les Nouvelles, ou qui en fait un Trafic.

POUR APPRENDRE L'ANGLAIS.

Il y en a d'autres qui sont composez de house. Comme a Town-house Maison de Ville.

Brew-house Brasserie.
Country-house Maison champêtre.
Ale-house Cabaret à biere.
Cider-house Cabaret à Cidre.
Coffee-house Cabaret à Caphé.
Bawdy-house Bordel.

De Cafe. Comme

Comb-case étui à Peignes. Hat-case étui de Chapeau.

Ainsi on dit

a Butter-pot un Pot à beurre.
a Wind-mill un Moulin à vent.
a Wine-press un Pressoir.
a Water-trough un Auge.
a Weather-glass un Thermomètre.
Weather-cock Gironette.
Rain-bow Arc en Ciel.
Sheep-fold Parc de Brebis.
Pocket-book Livre de poche.
Sea-fish Poisson de Mer.
Shell-fish Poisson à coquille.

Self-conceit bonne opinion qu'on a de soi même.
Self-love l'Amour propre.
Draw-bridge Pont levé.
Cut-purse Coupeur de bourse.
Cut-throat Coupe-gorge.
Man-slaughter homicide.
Hell-torment les Peines de l'Enfer.
Head-ake mal de tête.
Tooth-ake mal de dents.
Belly-ake mal de ventre.

Je n'aurois jamais fait, si je voulois rapporter ici tant d'autres Composez qu'il y a de deux Substantifs. Il ne faut pas pourtant oublier les Noms des Arbres Fruitiers, composez du Mot Tree, qui signifie un Arbre. Comme

Apple-tree Pommier.
Pear-tree Poirier.
Plum-tree Prunier.
Walnut-tree Noyer.
Chestnut-tree Chataigner.
Quince-tree Cognassier, &c.

Si bien que, dans le Sens Anglois, on appelle un Pommier Arbre à Pommes, un Poirier Arbre à Poires, &c.

Du NOM, en particulier.

DANS le Nom Substantif, il y a principalement Trois Choses à considérer; savoir les Nombres, les Genres, & les Articles.

Il y a deux Nombres, le Singulier & le Plurier. Le Singulier ne parle que d'un; comme un Roi a King, une Reine a Queen. Le Plurier parle de plusieurs; comme des Rois Kings, des Reines Queens. D'où il paroît, que le Plurier se forme en Anglois comme en François; savoir du Nombre Singulier, en y ajoutant une s.

Mais, comme on a déchargé certains Noms de l'e final au Nombre Singulier, il faut savoir qu'au Plurier on le retient, parce qu'il sert à la Prononciation de l's. Ces Noms là se terminent en ch, dg, sh, ss, &c.

Ainsi
Church Eglise, fait Churches Eglises.
Hedge haie, fait Hedges haies.
Fish poisson, fait Fishes poissons.
Witness Témoin, fait Witnesses Témoins.
Box Boîte, fait Boxes Boîtes.

Les Singuliers qui se terminent en y changent cette Voyelle en ies au Plurier, ou bien reçoivent une s Apostrophée. Comme Cherry cerise, fait Cherries.

Inquiry recherche, fait Inquiries.
Heresy hérésie, fait Heresies.
Cherry's, cerises.
Inquiry's, recherches.
Heresy's, hérésies.

Ceux qui se terminent en f, ou fe, changent l'un & l'autre en ves, au Nombre Plurier. Exemple, Loaf un Pain, fait Loaves.

Thief un Voleur, fait Thieves.
Knife un couteau, fait Knives.
Wife une Femme, fait Wives.
Pains.
Voleurs.
couteaux.
Femmes.

Il en faut excepter ceux qui finissent en oof, comme proof, roof, &c. qui suivent la Règle.

Mais voici ceux qui sont Irreguliers. Dont les uns finissent en en au Plurier; Comme Man, Men.

Child, Children.
Chick, Chicken.
Ox, Oxen.

A quoi il faut ajouter les Composez de Man; comme

Countryman, Gentleman,
Woman,
Gentlewoman,
Countrymen.
Gentlemen.
Women.
Gentlewomen, &c.

Les autres, de diverses manieres; comme

Moose, Mice.
Louse, Lice.
Dice, Dice.
Foot, Feet.
Goose, Geese.
Sow, Swine.
Penny, Pence.

Remarquez que Brother a deux Pluriers; savoir Brothers & Brethren. Mais Brethren ne se dit guere qu'en Chaire, ou bien dans un Sens burlesque.

Swine, Deer, Hose, & Sheep, se disent également au Plurier & au Singulier; & il faut bien prendre garde de n'y point admettre l's. Kine, Shoon, Eyen, Housen, sont des Pluriers à la vieille mode de Cow, Shoo, Eye, & House.

Les Noms des Metaux & des Mineraux, ni ceux des Vertus & des Vices, n'ont point de Nombre Plurier en Anglois, non plus qu'en François.

LES Genres des Noms Anglois ne se distinguent pas, comme les nôtres, par la Terminaison des Noms, mais par la Difference des Sexes. Il n'y a donc proprement que deux Genres, le Masculin & le Feminin. Ainsi les Mots qui signifient un Mâle sont du Genre Masculin; & ceux qui signifient une Femelle, du Feminin.

Si vous voulez admettre un Genre Neutre, vous y pouvez comprendre les Choses inanimées. Et, si vous prétendez qu'on vous parle d'un Genre Commun, on peut y reduire les Noms qui sont communs à l'un & à l'autre Sexe.

L'Anglois abonde en ces sortes de Noms. Comme

Cousin qui signifie Cousin & Cousine.
Neighbour Voisin & Voisine.
Servant Serviteur & Servante.
Thief Larron & Larronneffe.

Ajoutons y les Noms des Animaux, communs aux deux Sexes; comme a Deer, a Rabbit, a Sparrow, &c. qui se disent également du mâle & de la femelle.

Il est vrai que, quand il s'agit de distinguer les Sexes, on le fait en Anglois avec ces Mots, Man } & Woman.

He } She.
Cock } Hen.
Buck } & Doe.
Male } Female.

Ainsi pour

Serviteur }
 Servante } un Cousin } une Cousine } un Bouc } une Chevre } un Chat } une Chate } un Moineau mâle } un Moineau femelle } un Lapin } une Lapine } on dit
a Man Servant.
a Woman Servant.
a He-Cousin.
a She-Cousin.
a He-goat.
a She-goat.
a He-Cat, ou male-Cat.
a She-Cat, ou female-Cat. a Cock-Sparrow.
a Hen-Sparrow.
a Buck-Rabbit.
a Doe-Rabbit.

Il n'est pas nécessaire de vous déclarer, que Man & Woman ne se doivent dire que du Genre humain. La Chose parle d'elle même. He & She se disent de toutes Sortes d'Animaux; Male & Female, se disent plus particulièrement des Irraisonables, & même de certaines Plantes que l'on distingue en deux Sexes. Cock & Hen ne se disent proprement que des Oiseaux; Buck & Doe, de certaines Bêtes, comme Daims, Lapins, &c.

Remarquez en fin, que les Anglois, parlant des Navires & des Oiseaux, en general & en particulier, les mettent souvent au Genre féminin. Exemple, She is a good Ship, c'est un bon Vaisseau; She makes her Nest by the Sea-shore, elle fait son Nid sur le Bord de la Mer.

LES Articles sont des Particules dont on se sert avec les Noms dans nos Langues Vulgaires, à l'imitation de la Grecque. L'Anglois en a deux, a & the, qui répondent aux nôtres, un & le. Mais, au lieu que ceux ci sont sujets à plusieurs Metamorphoses, les Articles Anglois sont commodes en ceci, qu'ils sont Invariables. Excepté l'Article a, devant un Nom qui commence par une Voyelle. Alors on y met une n, pour éviter l'entrebaillement des Voyelles; comme an Empire, un Empire.

Cet Article est nommé Indefini, & n'est en usage qu'au Nombre Singulier. L'autre est nommé Defini, parce qu'il determine la Chose dont on parle. Celui ci est en usage devant toutes sortes de Noms, masculins ou féminins, au Plurier comme au Singulier. Exemple,

Sing.	Plur.
Le Roi the King ,	Les Rois the Kings .
La Reine the Queen ,	Les Reines the Queens .
L'Empereur the Emperour ,	Les Empereurs the Emperours .
L'Imperatrice the Empress ,	Les Imperatrices the Empresses .
Un Homme a Man ,	Des Hommes Men .
Une Femme a Woman ,	Des Femmes Women .

Les

METHODE ABBREGE'E

Les Grammairiens à la vieille Mode, qui prennent toutes leurs Mesures de la Langue Latine, & qui se croiroient perdus s'ils s'en écartoient tant soit peu, déclinent nos Noms (à la manière des Latins) avec six Cas en chaque Nombre. Ils y font venir à toute force

Le { Nominatif, } } l'Accusatif, Genitif, } } le Vocatif,
Datif, } } l'Ablatif,

Qui sont tout autant de Fantômes dans nos Langues Vulgaires. Ils ne considèrent pas, que ce qui fait tous ces Cas, comme on les appelle dans la Langue Latine, c'est le Changement de la Terminaison auquel les Noms Latins sont sujets. Et, puis qu'il n'y a rien de tel dans l'Anglois ni dans le François, à quoi bon multiplier les Choses sans nécessité, & remplir les Grammaires d'un Fatras inutile ?

Au lieu du Genitif, on se sert en Anglois de la Préposition of ; & au lieu du Datif, de to, devant l'Article. Comme,

Sing.	Plur.
Du Roi, of the King.	Rois, of the Kings.
De la Reine, of the Queen.	Reines, of the Queens.
De l'Empereur, of the Emperor.	Empereurs, of the Emperours.
De l'Impératrice, of the Empress.	Imperatrices, of the Empresses.
D'un Homme, of a Man.	Hommes, of Men.
D'une Femme, of a Woman.	Femmes, of Women.

Sing.	Plur.
Au Roi, to the King.	Rois, to the Kings.
A la Reine, to the Queen.	Reines, to the Queens.
A l'Empereur, to the Emperor.	Empereurs, to the Emperours.
A l'Impératrice, to the Empress.	Imperatrices, to the Empresses.
A un Homme, to a Man.	Hommes, to Men.
A une Femme, to a Woman.	Femmes, to Women.

Pour ce qui est des Noms Adjectifs Anglois, il y en a quantité qui se comparent à la manière des Noms Grecs & Latins ; ce qui est une des Beautés de la Langue.

Or il y a trois Degrez de Comparaison, que l'on appelle Positif, Comparatif, & Superlatif. Le Positif signifie simplement la qualité d'une Chose, sans aucun rapport ; Le Comparatif eleve cette qualité, par rapport à une autre ; Et le Superlatif l'exalte au suprême degré.

Le Comparatif se forme du Positif, en y ajoutant er ; & le Superlatif, en y ajoutant est. Exemple,

Pos.	Comp.	Sup.
Rich-riche.	Richer-riche.	Richest-riche.
Hard-dur.	Harder-dur.	Hardest-dur.
Great-grand.	Greater-grand.	Greatest-grand.

Il en faut excepter, 1. Les Adjectifs finissans en e, qui ne reçoivent qu'une r au Comparatif, & st au Superlatif. Comme wise sage, wisest plus sage, wisest le plus sage.

2. Ceux qui repetoient autrefois leurs Consonnes finales, comme big, hot, fit, qui s'écrivoient bigg, hott, fitt, retiennent les deux Consonnes au Comparatif, & au Superlatif. Voici donc comment il les faut comparer, big, bigger, biggest ; hot, hotter, hottest ; fit, fitter, fittest.

3. Ceux-ci, qui sont tout à fait Irreguliers. Savoir good, better, best ; bad, worse, worst ; many, more, most ; little, less, least ; qui répondent aux nôtres, bon, meilleur, le meilleur ; mauvais, plus mauvais (ou pire) le plus mauvais ; beaucoup, plus, le plus ; petit, moindre (ou plus petit) le moindre, ou le plus petit.

Les Adjectifs qui ne se comparent pas sont ceux qui se terminent en al, ate, est, ing, isk, ous, som, able, ant, ent, ed, id, & quelques autres ; qui n'ont d'autre Comparaison, que celle dont nous nous servons pour les nôtres. Ainsi, comme nous disons general, plus general, le plus general, l'Anglois dit mot pour mot, general, more general, the most general ; vicieux, plus vicieux, le plus vicieux, vicious, more vicious, the most vicious ; rigide, plus rigide, le plus rigide, rigid, more rigid, the most rigid.

Il y a pourtant quelques uns de ces Adjectifs qui se peuvent comparer. Comme handsom, handsomer, handsomest ; able, abler, ablest ; forward, forwarder, forwardest, &c.

Remarquez, qu'on se sert aussi de la Particule Superlative most, aussi bien que de very, pour exprimer nos Particules Françaises, tres & fort. Comme, il est tres honnête homme, he is a most honest Man, autrement he is a very honest Man.

Au reste, il faut savoir que les Noms Adjectifs sont Invariables en Anglois, soit au regard du Nombre ou du Genre.

Des NOMS Propres.

Il y a une si grande Affinité des Noms Propres Anglois avec les nôtres, que j'ai cru inutile de les inserer dans le Corps du Dictionnaire. Mais, afin que rien ne manquât à ce grand Ouvrage, j'ai jugé à propos d'en faire voir ici le Rapport & la Différence ; celui là par une Regle generale, & celle-ci par ses Exceptions.

La Regle est, Que les Noms Propres sont tout de même en Anglois qu'en François.

J'en excepte, 1. Certains Noms, qui ne varient que dans la Terminaison, en quoi l'Anglois imite fort le Latin. Savoir

Æole Æolus.	Iscrate Iscrates.
Priape Priapus.	Demosthene Demosthenes.
Esculape Esculapius.	Valerien Valerian.

L'Usage, & la Construction des NOMS.

L'Anglois a ceci de particulier dans l'Usage de ses Noms, c'est qu'il transpose fort souvent les Substantifs, & qu'en ce Cas la Preposition of est omise. Temoins ces Exemples suivans,

Une douleur de tête, a Head-ache.	La Gazette de Londres, the London-Gazette.
Un Livre de poche, a Pocket-book.	Un Moulin à vent, a Wind-mill.
	Un Pot à beurre, a Butter-pot.

Ainsi, pour rendre en Anglois, la Maison de mon Pere ou le Bien de ma Mere, on ne dira guere mot pour mot, the House of my Father, ou the Estate of my Mother. Mais, pour faire que l'Expression soit coulante, on dira plutôt my Father's House, my Mother's Estate.

Remarquez, qu'ici on ajoute une Apostrophe & une s ; & c'est ce qu'il faut observer, lors que la chose exprime Possession, comme dans ces deux Exemples.

On se sert mêmes de cette s, avec l'Apostrophe, lors que le Nom finit en s au Singulier. Comme en ces Mots

S. James's Park , le Parc de S. Jaques.	S. Thomas's Hardness of Belief , l'Incredulité de S. Thomas.
--	---

Mais,

Mais, si le Nom est au Pluriel, on n'y met qu'une s. Ex. the two Souldiers Armes, les Armes des deux Soldats.

Quand trois Substantifs se rencontrent dans une Sentence, & que les deux premiers sont Possessifs, c'est le dernier de ces deux, qui emporte l's. Comme the King of England's Subjects, les Sujets du Roi d'Angleterre.

POUR la Construction des Substantifs avec les Adjectifs, il n'y a presque aucune Difficulté.

Premierement, on ne peut pas manquer d'accorder l'Adjectif avec son Substantif, puis qu'en Anglois les Adjectifs sont Invariables, & par conséquent de tout Genre & de tout Nombre.

En François, tantôt nous plaçons le Substantif après, tantôt devant l'Adjectif, qui est l'Ordre le plus naturel. En Anglois, on le place ordinairement après. Hormis dans ces Exemples, & autres semblables, James the Second, Jaques Second.

Lewis the Fourteenth, Louis Quatorzième.

POUR ce qui est des Articles, quoi qu'ils n'appartiennent proprement qu'aux Substantifs; cependant là où il y a un Adjectif & un Substantif ensemble, on ne laisse pas que de placer, comme en François, l'Article devant l'Adjectif.

Ainsi on dit

A learned Man, un savant Homme.
An honest Woman, une honnête Femme.

The good Prince, le bon Prince.
The greatest Wit, le plus grand Genie.

Excepté l'Article Indéfini, qui se met après such, & what.

Comme,

Is it such a trouble? est ce une si grande peine?
He is just such a Man, c'est un Homme justement fait comme lui.
Just such another, un autre lui même.

See what a Fog there is abroad, voyez quel Brouillard il fait.
What a strange Man you are! que vous êtes un étrange Homme!

Le même Article se met entre l'Adjectif & le Substantif, lors que l'Adjectif est précédé d'une de ces trois Particules, so, too, as.

Exemple,

So good a Prince he is, c'est un si bon Prince.
He is too honest a Man, il est trop honnête Homme.

He will be as great a Block-head as his Brother, il sera un aussi grand Sot que son Frere.

On dit aussi, par une façon de parler particulière,

Many a Man, plusieurs personnes.
Many Men, plusieurs Hommes.

Never a Man, pas un seul Homme.
No Man, pas un seul Homme.

Quand on nomme les Princes, avec les Nombres Ordinaux, on laisse l'Article en François, & on le retient en Anglois.

Comme,

Charles the Fifth, Charles Quint.

Francis the First, François premier.

Au contraire, quand on nomme un Prince ou une Princesse sans ces Nombres, on laisse l'Article en Anglois, & on le retient en François.

Comme,

King James, le Roi Jaques.

Queen Mary, la Reine Marie.

De même en est il, quand on parle indéfiniment d'une chose.

Comme

Man l'Homme.
Nature la Nature.
Bread le Pain.
Money l'Argent.
Eating le Manger.

Drinking le Boire.
Sleeping le Dormir.
Life la Vie.
Quiet le Repos.
Ease l'Aise.

Des Vertus, & des Vices. Comme

Justice la Justice.
Temperance la Temperance.

Injustice l'Injustice.
Intemperance l'Intemperance.

Des Arts, & des Sciences. Ex.

Grammar la Grammaire.
Rhetorick la Rhetorique.
Logick la Logique.

Philosophy la Philosophie.
Mathematicks les Mathématiques.
Divinity la Théologie.

De Pais. Comme,

France la France.
Spain l'Espagne.
Italy l'Italie.

Germany l'Allemagne.
Poland la Pologne.
Moscovy la Moscovie, &c.

A quoi ajoutez

Heaven le Ciel.

Hell l'Enfer.

Des Jeux. Comme,

To play at Bowls, jouer à la Boule.
At Tennis, à la Paume.

At Cards, aux Cartes.
At Nine-pins aux Quilles.
At Billiards, au Billeard.

De ces deux Déeses,

Fortune, la Fortune.

Fame, la Renommée.

JE conclus par le grand Usage que les Anglois font de leurs Noms Verbaux en ing. Dont les uns sont Adjectifs;

Comme

A knowing Man, un Homme entendu.

An understanding Man, un Homme intelligent.

Les autres Substantifs; & le Nombre de ceux ci est si grand, qu'à peine y a-t-il un Participe Présent dont on ne se puisse servir en Substantif, dans le Sens de nos Verbaux finissant en ment ou tion.

Exemple,

His Understanding is very much decay'd, son Entendement est fort dechu.

I don't like such Doings, je n'approuve point ces Actions là.

Mais, comme ces sortes de Verbaux dans notre Langue ne sont pas assez communs, il faut souvent leur donner un autre tour en François.

Temoin ces Exemples,

The drawing of Wine, l'action de tirer le Vin.
He paid dear for his going thither, il lui a coûté bon d'être allé là.

For contemning divine and humane Laws, pour avoir méprisé les Loix divines & humaines.

Ainsi on dit,

To burst himself with Eating, se crever de Manger.
Eating and Drinking, le Manger & le Boire.

Playing and Whoring, le Jeu & la Debauche des Femmes.

En fin, ces Verbaux en ing, étant suivis d'un autre Substantif immédiatement, servent quelquefois à exprimer l'Usage de la chose signifiée par ce Substantif.

Comme,

a Drinking-glass un Verre,
a Looking-glass un Miroir, a Warming-pan Bassinoire, au lieu de dire a Glass for drinking,

a Glass for looking,
a Pan for warming.

Du PRONOM.

LES Pronoms, dans toutes nos Langues, sont pleins de Difficulté. Cependant il est certain, qu'il y en a moins dans l'Anglois que dans le François.

Les uns ont deux Nombres, comme les Noms; & voici comment ils forment le Pluriel.

Sing.

Plur.

I, je, moi.
Thou, tu, toi.
He, il; lui; celui.
She, elle; celle.
It, ce; il, elle; le, la.

We, nous.
You, ou Ye, vous.
They, ils; eux; ceux.
They, elles; celles.
They, ils, elles.
Them, les.

This, ce, ou cet, cette; celui ci, celle ci; ceci.
That, ce, ou cet, cette; celui là, celle là; cela.

These, ces; ceux ci, celles ci.
Those, ces; ceux là, celles là.

TOUT ce qui reste de Pronoms dans la Langue Angloise est Invariable. Comme which, who, what, & that dans un Sens Relatif; my, thy, his, her, its, our, your, their; & ces Possessifs absolus, mine, thine, his, hers, ours, yours, & theirs.

Il n'y a que le Relatif Who, qui se change en Whom, quand il depend d'un Verbe, ou d'une Preposition.

Exemple,

The Person whom I love, la Personne que j'aime.
He is the Man whom I am most indebted to, c'est l'Homme du Monde à qui je suis le plus redevable.

Quelquefois aussi on dit Whose, & cela dans un Sens Possessif.

Comme,

Whose House is this? à qui est cette Maison?

I don't know whose it is, je ne sais à qui elle est.

Remarquez

POUR APPRENDRE L'ANGLAIS.

Remarquez ici en passant, que whose se dit pour who's au Génitif, qui répond au Cujus des Latins.

DE quatre Pronoms Relatifs qu'il y a, savoir That, Which, Who, & What, les trois derniers s'appellent aussi Interrogatifs, parce qu'on s'en sert fréquemment pour faire des Questions.

Exemple,

Which do you mean ? lequel entendez vous ?
Who's there ? qui est là ?
What Man is that ? quel Homme est ce là ?

APPRENEZ aussi, que Who & What admettent quelquefois ces deux Particules, ever, soever, qui s'incorporent avec eux.

Comme,

Whoever has done it shall suffer for it, quiconque (tout homme qui) l'a fait en portera la peine.
Whoever (whoever) be he, qui que ce soit.
Whatever it be, quoi que ce soit.
Whatever my Condition be, en quelque Etat que je sois.
Whatever you shall think fit, tout ce que vous jugerez à propos.

L'Usage veut quelquefois, qu'on separe ce Mot en deux, & que l'on mette le Substantif entre deux.

Exemple,

What Condition soever I be in, en quelque Etat que je me trouve.

SOUVENT on se sert de Very avec les Pronoms Demonstratifs, This & That, & de Own, avec les Pronoms Possessifs.

Exemple,

This very Man told me, cet Homme ci m'a dit.
This is my own, ceci est à moi.
That very Woman whom I spoke to, cette Femme là à qui j'ai parlé.
This is my own Book, c'est mon Livre, ce Livre est à moi.

Ainsi on dit

Sing.

Plur.

Thy own, ou
Thine own, à toi.
His own, à lui.
Her own, à elle.

Our own, à nous.
Your own, à vous.
Their own, à eux, à elles.

To take care of his own, prendre soin de son fait.
To mind his own Concerns, veiller à ses propres Affaires. Les every one have his own, que chacun ait ce qui lui appartient.

On dit aussi communément

Sing.

Plur.

My own self, moi-même ;
Thy own self, toi-même ;
His own self, lui-même ;
Our own selves, nous-mêmes.
Your own selves, vous-mêmes.
Their own selves, eux-mêmes, elles-mêmes.

IL y a une Chose à remarquer, entre les Pronoms Possessifs, savoir l'Usage différent de his, her, & its.

On se sert de his, quand la Chose dont on parle est attribuée à l'Homme ; de her, quand elle est attribuée à une Femme ; & de its, quand on parle des Choses Inanimées. Ainsi his signifie proprement de lui, her d'elle.

Exemple,

This is his House, voici sa Maison, c'est la Maison d'elle.
I do admire the Sun, and its Brightness, j'admire le Soleil, & sa Clarté.
This is her House, voici sa Maison, c'est la Maison de lui.

APRES les Verbes & les Prépositions, hormis le Verbe Impersonnel It is c'est, les Pronoms Personnels changent de face en Anglois, aussi bien qu'en François ; & voici comment ils se changent. Savoir

They, en
Us,
Them.

Exemple,

Follow me, suivez moi.
Come along with me, venez vous en avec moi.
I love thee, je t'aime.
I'll go any where with thee, je m'en irai par tout avec toi.
I fear him, je le crain.
I don't care at all for him, je ne me soucie aucunement de lui.
I married her, je l'ai épousée.
I ly with her, je couche avec elle.
He vexes us, il nous tourmente.
He is against us, il est contre nous, ou il nous est contraire.
We fought them, nous les avons combatus.
We went before them, nous allions devant eux.

IT est un Pronom, dont on se sert, par distinction, quand on parle des Choses Inanimées, & des Bêtes même dont la différence du Sexe nous est peu connue.

Exemple,

That's it I fear, c'est ce que je crain.
It is a strange Creature, c'est une étrange Creature.

Pour ses autres Significations, vous n'avez qu'à consulter le Dictionnaire.

AU reste, il faut remarquer, qu'en Anglois on se sert souvent des premiers Pronoms Possessifs, là où le François emploie les Personnels.

Comme,

Wash your Hands, lavez vous les Mains.
I will wash both my Hands, and Face, je me veux laver les Mains & le Visage.

On dit aussi

My self, moi-même ;
Thy self, toi-même ;
Her self, elle-même ;
Our selves, nous-mêmes.
Your selves, vous-mêmes.

Mais, pour dire lui-même, dites himself ; eux-mêmes, elles-mêmes, themselves.

Quand on veut bien marquer la Personne, on y ajoute les Pronoms Personnels, qui rendent l'Expression plus énergique.

Comme,

I my self, thou thy self, he himself, she her self, we our selves, you your selves, they themselves.

LES Anglois emploient aussi les derniers Possessifs, d'une façon assez singulière, avec la Préposition of.

Exemple,

A Friend of mine, un de mes Amis.
I am a Creature of his, je suis une de ses Creatures.

POUR Conclusion, il faut savoir, qu'en Anglois on dit souvent

Hereof	pour	of this
Thereof		of that
Whereof		of which
Hereby		by this
Thereby		by that
Whereby		by what
Hereupon		upon this
Thereupon		upon that
Whereupon		upon what
Hereabouts		about this Place
Thereabouts		about that Place
Herein		in this
Therein		in that
Herewith		with this
Therewith	with that

Du VERBE.

LES Verbes ont quatre Modes, ou Manières d'exprimer l'Etre ou l'Action ; savoir

L'INDICATIF, LE SUBJONCTIF, L'IMPERATIF, L'INFINITIF.

Le premier indique la Chose, le second la commande, le troisième en parle avec des Conjonctions, & le quatrième sans définir le Nombre ni la Personne.

Dans l'Ordre de la Nature, il n'y a que trois Temps ;

LE PASSE, LE PRESENT, L'AVENIR, que les Grammairiens appellent PRETERIT, PRESENT, FUTUR.

Mais, comme on envisage les Temps de plusieurs manières, de là vient cette Foule de Temps qu'il y a, & sur tout de Preterits, dans les Verbes François.

En Anglois la plupart des Temps sont composez de ces Auxiliaires, have, do, shall, will, may, can, & let. D'où sortent ces autres Signes des Temps, bad, did, should de have, do, shall, would, might, could de will, may, can.

Enfin, chaque Temps a deux Nombres, le Singulier, & le Plurier. Et chaque Nombre, hormis le Singulier du Mode Imperatif, a trois Personnes, qui se conjuguent par les Pronoms personnels.

II

METHODE ABBREGEE

Il y a ceci de commode dans les Verbes Anglois, c'est qu'ils ne varient pas dans leurs Personnes, comme font les nôtres, hormis la 2 & 3 personne au Singulier des Tems Simples.

Les Verbes François se reduisent, comme les Latins, à quatre Conjugaisons; qui se distinguent, par leurs différentes Terminaisons à l'Infinitif, en er, ir, oir, re.

Comme,
Parler, } to speak.
Punir, } to punish.
Recevoir, } to receive.
Vendre, } to sell.

Si bien que les Verbes François finissent tous en r, ou en e. Il n'en est pas de même en Anglois, dont les Verbes ont beaucoup plus de Variété, à cet égard. Car ils ont presque tout autant de Terminaisons qu'il y a de Lettres dans l'Alphabet; mais la plus commune de toutes est celle en e; comme, to love aimer. Et c'est sur ce Modèle que la plupart des Verbes Anglois se conjuguent.

Nous avons en François une Sorte de Verbes, que l'on appelle Reciproques, & qui se conjuguent avec ces Pronoms Personnels, me, te, se, &c.

Exemple,

Sing.	Plur.
Je me leve,	Nous nous levons,
Tu te leves,	Vous vous levez,
Il se leve,	Ils se levent.

L'Anglois n'est point embarrassé de cette Sorte de Verbes. Mais on les rend de François en Anglois par des Verbes Neutres;

Comme
Je me leve, I rise.
Je me promene, I walk.

Aimer, To Love.

MODE INDICATIF.

Tems Présent.

Sing.	Plur.
J'aime, I love.	Nous aimons, we love.
Tu aimes, thou lovest.	Vous aimez, you love.
Il aime, he loveth.	Ils aiment, they love.

Ici vous voyez bien, qu'il n'y a que la 2 & 3 Personne du Singulier qui varie dans le Verbe Anglois. Au lieu de la troisième Personne, he loveth, vous pouvez dire he loves. Car c'est assez commun aujourd'hui, parmi les Anglois, de changer ce th en s.

Il y a même plusieurs Verbes, où en ce Cas on retranche l'e. Ainsi du Verbe to find trouver, on dit fort bien he finds il trouve.

Pour dire elle aime, il faut dire she loves; elles aiment they love. Car they sert pour les deux Genres, & signifie ils & elles.

Ce Tems se conjugue aussi, avec do, de cette maniere.

Sing.	Plur.
I do	We do
Thou dost	You do
He doth	They do

En Anglois on se sert quelquefois de ce Tems, comme en François, au lieu du premier Preterit.

Comme,
L'ayant rencontré dans la Rue, in the Streets, he brings him to his House, and gives him very good Entertainment.
il l'emmena chez lui, & le traite à merveille, having met with him

Ce Tems est aussi employé quelquefois dans les deux Langues, au lieu du premier Futur.

Exemple,
What Day is to morrow? quel jour est il demain?
Où vous voyez bien, que is se dit pour shall be, il est pour il sera.

On s'en sert encore en Anglois, en certains Cas, au lieu du Futur en François.

Comme,
What you will, ce que vous voudrez.
As you please, comme il vous plaira.
As long as I live, tant que je vivrai.
As long as the World endures, tant que le Monde durera.

Les Anglois s'en servent encore quelquefois, là où nous employons le même Tems du Mode Subjonctif.

Exemple,

I am very glad that you are well, je suis ravi que vous vous portiez bien.
I am very sorry that he is ill, je suis fâché qu'il se porte mal.
I don't say that he is a Drunkard, je ne dis pas qu'il soit Ivrogne.
There is no body but knows it, il n'est personne qui ne le sache.
There's no Man so perfect but hath his failings, il n'y a Homme si parfait qui n'ait ses défauts.

L'usage de do dans ce Tems est, quand on veut dire quelque chose avec emphase. Comme, I do love her, je l'aime, ou je l'aime effectivement. A moins de cela, le Simple est plus en usage. Au reste, il y a une autre Maniere de conjuguer ce Tems, & ceux qui suivent; savoir avec le Verbe Auxiliaire to Be, & le Participe Présent du Verbe dont il s'agit. Mais je me réserve d'en parler, dans l'usage de ce Verbe.

Preterit Imparfait.

Sing.

Plur.

J'aimois, ou j'aimai, I loved.	Nous aimions, ou nous aimâmes, we loved.
Tu aimois, ou tu aimas, thou lovedst.	Vous aimiez, ou vous aimâtes, you loved.
Il aimoit, ou il aimait, he loved.	Ils aimoient, ou ils aimèrent, they loved.

Ce Preterit, & le Participe Preterit en Anglois sont presque toujours de même. Dans les Verbes qui se terminent en e à l'Infinitif, on ne fait qu'ajouter un d au Participe;

Comme,
To love, loved.
To amuse, amused.

L'Infinitif en y tourne l'y en i; ou s'il le retient, il ne prend après cette Lettre qu'une Apostrophe & un d;

Comme,
To hurry, hurried, ou hurry'd.
To marry, married, ou marry'd.

Quand l'Infinitif finit par une Consonne, il faut y ajouter ed;

Comme,
To esteem, esteemed.
To bang, banged.

Mais il y a des Verbes, où il faut redoubler la Consonne au Preterit.

Exemple,
To rob, robbed; } qui s'écrivait autrefois } to robb.
To wrap, rapped; } } to wrapp.

Il y en a de ceux qui finissent par une Voyelle & par une Consonne, qui abrègent leur Preterit, en changeant ed en t; & s'il y a deux Consonnes devant ed, on n'en retient qu'une.

Ainsi

mark	marked	mark't.
wrap	wrapped	wrap't.
oppress	oppressed	opprest.
cherish	cherished	cherisht.
embrace	embraced	embrac't.
force	forced	forc't.
burn	burned	burnt.
fix	fixed	fixt.
gird	girded	girt.
reach	reached	reacht.

En fin remarquez que, pour reduire deux Syllabes en une, souvent l'e se mange, & en sa place on met une apostrophe; comme lov'd, esteem'd, bang'd.

Comme ce Preterit sert de Modèle à d'autres, il ne suffit pas d'en avoir proposé un Régulier. Il faut donc voir maintenant les Irreguliers; & je commence par ceux qui ne varient aucunement du Verbe.

Les voici, to cast, cast, hit, sit, spit, set, shed, shod, burst, hurt, beat, read, & spread, qui s'écrivent & se prononcent de même dans tous les Tems; hormis read & spread, qui se prononcent red, spred aux Preterits.

Entre ceux qui varient Irregulièrement, je mets premierement les Verbes qui se terminent à l'Infinitif en eed, eep, ind, ing, & oir; & qui changent ces Terminaisons au Preterit en ed, ept, end, oind, ung, & ow.

Ainsi

POUR APPRENDRE L'ANGLAIS.

Ainsi

To	bleed sweep send find fling throw	fait	bled. swept. sent. found. flung. threw.
----	--	------	--

Il en faut excepter

To	mend mind bring mow	qui fait	mended. minded. brought. mowed.
----	------------------------------	----------	--

Il y en a d'autres qui finissent leur Preterit en ght. Comme,

To	catch teach fraught beseech buy fight seek think work	qui fait	caught. taught. fraught. besought. bought. fought. sought. thought. wrought.
----	---	----------	--

Vous en trouverez, dont le Preterit finit en e, précédé d'une Consonne, avec un a ou un o. Ainsi

To	come give make bear tear swear wear steal shine freeze chase drive weave thrive break speak rise ride write smite	fait	came. gave. made. bore. tore. swore. wore. stole. shone. froze. chase. drove. wove. throve. broke. spoke. rose. rode. wrote. smote.
----	--	------	--

Il y en a, dont le Preterit finit en ad, ed, id, od, ood. Savoir

To	bid have lead do chide hide slide stride seeb shoe tread stand	qui fait	bad. had. led. did. chid. hid. lid. bestrid. sed. shod. trod. stood.
----	---	----------	---

D'autres, qui le finissent en aw, ou ew. Ainsi

To	see fly slay draw	fait	saw. flew. slew. drew.
----	----------------------------	------	---------------------------------

Ajoutez à ceux là

To	sell tell take shake forsake stink drink stick strike bite leave cleave bereave feel deal	qui fait	sold. told. took. shook. forsook. stunk. drunk. stuck. struck. bit. left. clef. bereft. felt. smelt. dealt.
----	---	----------	--

To	spill sit shoot get mean go lose dare be hear hold fall ly lay say eat win spin hang swim	qui fait	spilt. sat. shot. got. meant. went. lost. durst. was. heard. held. fell. lay. laid. said. ate. won. spun. hung. swam & swum.
----	--	----------	---

Au reste, il y en a qui ont deux Preterits en Usage ; l'un Régulier, & l'autre Irregulier. Savoir

To	smite, shine, spin, hang, swim,	To	blow. crow. catch. work.
----	---	----	-----------------------------------

Il y en a d'autres, dont les deux Preterits sont Irreguliers.

Savoir,

To	run begin drink sing spring break speak eat rise ride write swear	qui fait	ran began drank sang sprang broke spoke eat rose rode wrote swore.
----	--	----------	---

Autrefois on disoit	stang, swang, wrang, flang, flang, stank, stank, span, faught, gat, chode, drave, strave, clave, bare, tare, ware.	Mais aujourd'hui l'Usage est pour	stung, swung, wrung, flung, flung, stunk, stunk, span, span, fetched, got, chid, drove, strove, clove, bore, tore, wore.
---------------------	--	-----------------------------------	---

Avant que d'aller plus loin, souvenez vous, que les Verbes Composez imitent toujours leurs Simples. Ainsi

To	beget forget forgive overdo withhold underfell	fait au Preterit	begot. forgot. forgave. overdid. withheld. underfold, &c.
----	---	------------------	--

Il faut maintenant remarquer deux differens Usages de ce Tems, à quoi repondent nos deux Preterits. Comme.

In these Days I loved dearly to travel, dans ce Tems là j'aimois fort à voyager.
Then I took great delight in it, alors j'y prenois grand plaisir.

I fell sick such a Day, je tombai malade un tel Jour.
Alexander hearing of Darius his Death wept for him, Alexandre ayant appris la Mort de Darius le pleura.

Par lesquels Exemples il paroît, que les Anglois n'ont pas cette Distinction précise des Tems, que nous avons dans nôtre Langue. Ils confondent mêmes fort souvent ce Tems avec le Preterit Parfait.

Comme, quand ils disent
I drunk your Health, pour I have drunk your Health, j'ai bu vôtre Santé.
He told me the same Thing,

il m'a dit la même Chose.
I was there more than once, j'y ai été plus d'une fois.

METHODE ABBREGEE

Tems se conjugue aussi de cette maniere, avec did, le Preterit du Verbe to do.

Sing.		Plur.
I did	} love.	We
Thou didst		You
He did		They
		} did love.

Remarquez, que ce did est emphatique, & qu'on s'en sert proprement de même que de do au Tems Present, lors qu'on veut bien assurer une chose.

Exemple,
I did write to him, je lui ecrivis, je lui ecrivis tout de bon.

Le Preterit Parfait.

Sing.		Plur.
I have	} aimé,	We
Thou hast		You
He hath		They
		} have loved.
Nous avons	} aimé,	We
Vous avez		You
Ils ont		They
		} have loved.

Au lieu de hath, vous pouvez dire has.

Il faut ici prendre garde, qu'il y a des Verbes Anglois qui ont des Preterits particuliers pour ce Tems & Celui qui suit.

Savoir

To	qui fait
blow	blown.
grow	grown.
know	known.
throw	thrown.
fly	flown.
draw	drawn.
bear	born.
shear	shorn.
swear	sworn.
tear	torn.
wear	worn.
steal	stolen.
go	gone.
do	done.
break	broken.
peak	spoken.
choose	chosen.
give	given.
beat	beaten.
eat	eaten.
see	seen.
smite	smitten.
write	written.
shake	shaken.
forfake	forsaken & forsook.
hide	hidden.
bite	bitten.
lay	lain.

L'Usage de ce Preterit est de marquer une chose qui vient d'être faite. Comme,

I have passed my Word for him, | I have done it, je l'ai fait.
j'ai répondu pour lui.

Il est vrai, comme nous l'avons déjà remarqué, qu'au lieu de ce Tems, les Anglois se servent frequemment du Preterit Imparfait.

Preterit Plusque Parfait.

Sing.		Plur.
I had	} aimé,	We
Thou hadst		You
He had		They
		} had loved.
Nous avions	} aimé,	We
Vous aviez		You
Ils avoient		They
		} had loved.

Ce Preterit, comme vous voyez, se forme du Precedent, en changeant have en had.

Ce Tems s'appelle Preterit Plusque Parfait, parce qu'il marque un Eloignement de Tems beaucoup au de là du Parfait. L'Anglois n'en a qu'un; mais le François en a deux, dont on se sert differemment.

Exemple,
I had dined when he came, j'a- | When I had dined, after I had vois dîné quand il vint. | dîné, après que j'en dîné.

Remarquez, que ce Preterit se rend aussi en François par le Preterit de l'Infinitif.

Comme,
After I had done it, après l'avoir fait.

I. Futur.

Sing.		Plur.
I shall	} love.	We
Thou shalt		You
He shall		They
		} shall love.
Nous aimerons,	} shall love.	We
Vous aimerez,		You
Ils aimeront,		They

Au lieu de shall, on se sert aussi de will. Comme,

I will	} love.	We
Thou wilt		You
He will		They
		} will love.

I will love, signifie proprement, Je veux aimer.

Pour bien entendre l'Usage de ce Tems, il en faut expliquer les Signes, Shall & Will.

Shall, dans les premieres Personnes, marque une Declaration; dans les secondes & troisiemes, un Commandement. Au lieu que Will marque par tout une Promesse, Intention, ou Resolution. C'est ce qu'il faut savoir bien distinguer, pour se servir comme il faut de l'un & de l'autre.

Remarquez cependant, que les Anglois, pour éviter la Repetition du Verbe, se contentent souvent du Signe.

Exemple,
You shall go thither, vous y irez. | Shall I, or no? le ferai je,
I shall not, je n'y irai point, | ou non?
ou je n'en ferai rien.

Quelquefois ce Tems se rend en François par le Present & Futur du Subjonctif. Exemple,

I mean that every one shall do his part, j'enten que chacun fasse sa part. | come, je ne doute point qu'il ne vienne.
I fear he will be angry, je | I don't believe that he will do it, je ne pense (ou je ne croi)
craign qu'il ne se fâche. | pas qu'il le fasse.
I question not but that he will

II. Futur.

Sing.		Plur.
I should	} love.	We
Thou shouldst		You
He should		They
		} should love.
Nous aimerions,	} should love.	We
Vous aimeriez,		You
Ils aimeroient,		They

Ce Tems se conjugue aussi avec Would, Might, & Could, ainsi;

I would	} love.	I might	} love.	I could	} love, &c.
Thou wouldst		Thou mightest		Thou couldst
He would		He might		He could

J'appelle ce Tems Futur, qui a passé jusqu'ici parmi tous les autres Grammairiens, je ne sai sur quel fondement, pour un des Preterits du Mode Optatif. En effet, de quelque côté que j'envisage ce Tems, je n'y trouve rien qui ait le moindre rapport au Tems passé.

POUR APPRENDRE L'ANGLAIS.

Si l'on considère d'ailleurs l'Analogie qu'il y a entre ce Tens & le premier Futur ; il est clair d'un côté, que j'aimerois se forme du Futur j'aimerai, comme de son Principe, & que de l'autre le Mot Should en Anglois se forme de Shall. Il faut donc conclure, que ce Tens est un Tens Futur ; & que, comme le premier paroit Absolu, celui ci semble être Conditionnel.

Les Signes de ce Tens en Anglois sont

Should,
Would,
Might,
Could, } qui vient de { Shall.
Will.
May.
Can.

Should marque une Nécessité conditionnelle de faire une chose, Would une Inclination conditionnelle, Might une Liberté conditionnelle, Could un Pouvoir conditionnel.

Ainsi

I { should
might could } love, signifie j'aimerois, ou je devrois, serois d'humeur à serois libre à pourrois bien } aimer.

MODE IMPERATIF.

Tens Present & Futur.

Sing.

Plur.

Aime, love, ou love thou.
Qu'il aime, let him love.
Aimons, let us love.
Aimez, love, ou love you.
Qu'ils aiment, let them love.

Ce Mode n'a proprement qu'un Tens, que l'on appelle Present & Futur, parce qu'il tient de l'un & de l'autre. Et ce Tens n'a point de première Personne au Singulier, parce qu'on ne se fait pas des Commandemens à soi même en particulier.

On se sert de Let, comme d'un Verbe Auxiliaire, à la 3 Personne du Singulier, à la 1. & 3. du Plurier. De sorte que

Let { him love,
us love,
them love, } signifie proprement { laissez le laissons nous laissez les } aimer.

Autrefois on disoit

Love { he,
we,
they, } pour { let him
let us
let them } love.

Mais aujourd'hui cela ne se dit presque plus.

Remarquez, que les Anglois se servent de ce Mode dans un autre Sens assez particulier. Comme,

Let me speak never so often, they will not obey, j'ai beau leur parler, ils ne veulent pas obéir.

MODE SUBJONCTIF.

Ce Mode s'appelle Subjonctif, ou Conjonctif, parce qu'on ne s'en sert guere qu'avec des Conjonctions, soit exprimées ou sous-entendues. On l'appelle Optatif, lors qu'on y fait des Souhaits. Les Anglois le nomment encore Potentiel, parce qu'ils s'y servent fort de May, Might, & Could, qui signifient liberté & pouvoir.

Tous les Tens Anglois de ce Mode sont des Tens Composés, & qui se réduisent presque tous à ceux de l'Indicatif.

Tens Present & Futur.

Sing.

Que { I love,
Tu aimes,
Il aime, } I may
Thou mayst
He may } love.

Plur.

Que { Nous aimions,
Vous aimiez,
Ils aiment, } We
You
They } may love.

Ce May dont on se sert ici signifie pouvoir, ou liberté d'agir, & son propre Usage est après la Conjonction That, dans un Sens Optatif.

Comme,

I do this, that you may love me, je le fais, afin que vous m'aimiez, ou que vous puissiez m'aimer.
God grant that he may come, Dieu veuille qu'il vienne.
I wish that may come to pass, je souhaite que cela arrive.

Il est vrai, qu'au lieu de May, on se sert souvent du Verbe Auxiliaire Do, avec son Emphase ordinaire. Comme, Provided I do love, pourveu que j'aime. Unless he do love me, à moins qu'il ne m'aime.

Il est à remarquer, qu'après certains Verbes, on ne se sert pas de ce Mode en Anglois, comme l'on fait en François, mais d'un Infinitif.

Exemple,

I would have you to know, je veux que vous sachiez. I must rise, il faut que je me leve.

Tens Aoriste.

Sing.

Afin que { I might
Tu aimasses,
Il aimât, } That { I might
Thou mightest
He might } love.

Plur.

Afin que { Nous aimassions,
Vous aimassiez,
Ils aimassent, } That { We
You
They } might love.

J'appelle ce Tens Aoriste, ad. Indéfini, parce qu'en effet il embrasse tous les Tens, le Passé, le Present, & l'Avenir. On peut dire, que le Might des Anglois les envisage tous aussi. Mais, quand on veut se déclarer proprement pour le Tens passé, on n'a qu'à se servir du premier Preterit de l'Indicatif.

Comme,

Though I loved him, ou though I did love him, quoi que je l'aimasse.

On se sert aussi de ce Tens, avec Would, & Should, par rapport à l'Avenir. Exemple,

I wish he would go away, je souhaiterois qu'il s'en allât. Lest he should fall, de peur qu'il ne tombât.

Il est vrai, qu'en ce Cas nous nous servons quelquefois du Tens Present & Futur. Comme,

God forbid that should come to pass, à Dieu ne plaise que cela se fasse. Are you willing that I should bear you company? voulez vous bien que je vous fasse compagnie?

Preterit Parfait.

Sing.

Quoi que { I had
Tu aies
Il ait } aimé, Though { I have Thou hast
He hath } loved.

Plur.

Quoi que { Nous ayons
Vous ayez
Ils aient } aimé, Though { We
You
They } have loved.

Ce Preterit, en Anglois, n'est proprement que le Preterit Parfait de l'Indicatif. On le considère comme du Mode Subjonctif, lors qu'on s'en sert après ces Conjonctions, though, although, unless, provided, &c.

I. Preterit Plusque Parfait.

Sing.

J'aurois { I could
Tu aurois
Il auroit } aimé, Thou couldst
He could } have loved.

Plur.

Plur.

Nous aurions } aimé, We }
 Vous auriez } You } could have loved.
 Ils auroient } They }

De tous ces Preterits, celui ci est le plus en Usage sans les Conjonctions. Ainsi on dit,

I could have loved him, je l'aurois aimé, c'est à dire j'aurois pu l'aimer.

Ce Tems se conjugue aussi en Anglois, avec Would, & Should.

Exemple,

I would have loved him, je l'aurois aimé, c'est à dire, j'aurois été d'humeur à l'aimer. I should have loved him, je l'aurois aimé, c'est à dire, j'aurois été obligé de l'aimer.

Autrement on se sert simplement du 3. Preterit Composé de l'Indicatif. Comme,

I had loved him, je l'aurois aimé.

Ce n'est pas qu'on n'emploie aussi ce Tems, après quelques Conjonctions. Exemple,

He charged me to come to him as soon as I had done, il me donna ordre de m'en aller chez lui aussi tôt que j'aurois fait. When I had told the Mony, quand j'aurois conté l'Argent.

II. Preterit Plusque Parfait.

Sing.

Si } J'eusse } aimé, If } I had }
 Tu eusses } Tu eusses } loved.
 Il eût } He had }

Plur.

Si } Nous eussions } aimé, If } We }
 Vous eussiez } Vous eussiez } bad loved.
 Ils eussent } They }

Ce Tems n'est en Usage qu'après des Conjonctions. Ex.

If I had spoke to him, si je lui eusse parlé. Would to God I had done it, plutôt à Dieu que je l'eusse fait.

Au reste, c'est une Elegance Angloise, que de transposer ici le Pronom Personnel après le Verbe Auxiliaire. Comme,

Had I spoke to him, si je lui eusse parlé.

Le Futur.

Sing.

Quand } J'aurai } aimé, When } I shall }
 Tu auras } Tu auras } have loved.
 Il aura } He shall }

Plur.

Quand } Nous aurons } aimé, When } We }
 Vous aurez } Vous aurez } shall have loved.
 Ils auront } They }

Ce Futur est en usage avec Conjonction, & sans Conjonction. Lors qu'il se trouve précédé d'une Conjonction, on laisse Shall ordinairement. Ainsi on réduit ce Tems à la forme du Preterit Parfait de l'Indicatif.

Comme,

When I have loved, quand j'aurai aimé.

Il est vrai qu'en fait d'Interrogation, on retient Shall.

Exemple.

When shall you have done ? quand aurez vous fait ?

Sans Conjonction, il faut toujours dire Shall. Exemple,

I shall have done by to morrow morning, j'aurai fait pour demain matin.

MODE INFINITIF.

Aimer, to love.

Avoir aimé, to have loved.

Ce Mode est presque toujours précédé de la Particule to, imitatrice du Grec $\tau\omicron$, qui n'est pas moins en usage pour les Verbes Grecs.

Comme,

To love, aimer.

To have loved, avoir aimé.

On la laisse pourtant après ces Verbes, dare, let, may, can, may, will, & must. Exemple,

I dare not go thither, je n'ose pas y aller.

I can (ou I may) do it, je puis bien le faire.

Let me do, laissez moi faire.

I will go a walking, je me veux aller promener.

I'll make you go, je vous ferai bien aller.

I must stay at home, il faut que je demeure au Logis.

Après le Verbe have, tantôt on la met, tantôt on ne la met pas.

Comme,

I would have you know, ou I would have you to know, je veux que vous sachiez.

Jeux que vous le fassiez. He would have me pass my word for him, il vouloit que je m'engageasse pour lui.

I will have you do it, je

Cette seule Particule (to) répond à nos trois Particules de l'Infinitif, A, de, pour. Comme,

Give me something to eat, donnez moi quelque chose à manger.

Suis obligé de vous aimer. I come to wait upon you, je vien pour avoir l'honneur de vous voir.

I am bound to love you, je

En ce dernier Sens, on peut dire quelquefois for to, lors qu'on veut bien exprimer le but d'une chose. Exemple.

He has done all he could for to ruin me, il a fait tout ce qu'il a pu pour me perdre.

Vous venez de voir, qu'après le Verbe have les Anglois se servent de l'Infinitif, lors que les François se servent du Subjonctif. Vous allez voir maintenant tout au contraire, qu'en certains Cas le François se sert de l'Infinitif, là où l'Anglois se sert d'un Verbal en ing.

En voici des Exemples.

Passer son tems à boire & à jouer, to spend his time in drinking and playing.

Il n'est jamais las de jouer, he is never weary of playing.

Prendre grand plaisir à chasser, to take great delight in hunting.

Sans faire semblant de rien, without taking any notice.

Il vient de boire, he comes from drinking.

Partirai je sans lui dire adieu ? shall I go away without taking my leave of him ?

La Maniere de conjuguer les Verbes avec la Negative, & avec Interrogation.

Quand on ne se sert pas d'aucun Verbe Auxiliaire, on met la Negative en Anglois après le Verbe.

Comme,

Je n'aime pas, I love not. Tu n'aimes pas, thou lovest not, &c.

En cas de Verbe Auxiliaire, elle se met entre les deux Verbes.

Exemple,

Sing. } Je n'aime } pas, I do }
 Tu n'aimes } Tu n'aimes } Thou dost } not love.
 Il n'aime } He do's }

Plur. } Nous n'aimons } pas, We }
 Vous n'aimez } Vous n'aimez } You } do not love.
 Ils n'aiment } They }

Il en est de même des autres Tems. Comme,

I did have } not loved, I had }

I shall } not love, I should }

A l'Imperatif, il faut dire,

Love not, ou do not love, n'aime pas.

Let him not love, qu'il n'aime pas.

Plur.

Plur. Let us not love, n'aimons pas. Let them not love, qu'ils n'aiment pas.
Do not you love, n'aimez pas.

A l'Infinitif, la Negative se met la premiere. Il faut donc dire
Not to love, n'aimer pas. Not to have loved, n'avoir pas aimé.

Avec Interrogation, on se sert toujours du Verbe Auxiliaire ; & voici comment il faut ranger les Mots.

Sing. { Aime je ?
Aimes tu ?
Aime-t-il ? } Do I love ?
Doest thou love ?
Doth he love ?

Plur. { Aimons nous ?
Aimez vous ?
Aiment ils ? } Do we love ?
Do you love ?
Do they love ?

Avec la Negative. Comme

Sing. { N'aime je ?
N'aimes tu ?
N'aime-t-il ? } Do not I love ?
Doest not thou love ?
Doth not he love ?

Plur. { N'aimons nous ?
N'aimez vous ?
N'aiment ils ? } Do not we love ?
Do not you love ?
Do not they love ?

Il en est de même des autres Temps. Comme,

Did I love ? Shall I love ?
Have I loved ? Should I love ?
Had I loved ? Should I love ?

Avec la Negative. Comme,

Did not I love ? Shall not I love ?
Have not I loved ? Should not I love ?
Had not I loved ? Should not I love ?

Des Verbes Irreguliers, & des Defectifs.

SI le Verbe Auxiliaire, to Have avoir, étoit Irregulier en Anglois, comme il l'est en François, vous le verriez ici conjugué dans toute son étendue. Mais il n'a rien de particulier ; & pourvu qu'on se souvienne de son Preterit had, il n'y a qu'à le former sur le Modèle.

Pour ce qui est du Verbe to Be être, voici comment il se conjugue.

Etre, to Be.

MODE INDICATIF.

Temps Présent.

Sing. { Je suis, I am.
Tu es, thou art.
Il est, he is. } Plur. { Nous sommes, we are.
Vous êtes, you are.
Ils sont, they are. }

Au lieu d'are, on dit quelquefois be, sur tout dans la dernière personne.

Preterit Imparfait.

Sing. { J'étois, I was.
Tu étois, thou wast.
Il étoit, he was. } Plur. { Nous étions, we were.
Vous étiez, you were.
Ils étoient, they were. }

Preterit Parfait.

Sing. { J'ai été, I have been.
Tu as été, thou hast been.
Il a été, he hath been. } Plur. { Nous avons été, we have been.
Vous avez été, you have been.
Ils ont été, they have been. }

Preterit Plusque Parfait.

Sing. { J'avois été, I had been.
Tu avois été, thou hadst been.
Il avoit été, he had been. } Plur. { Nous avions été, we had been.
Vous aviez été, you had been.
Ils avoient été, they had been. }

I. Futur.

Sing. { Je serai, I shall be.
Tu seras, thou shalt be.
Il sera, he shall be. } Plur. { Nous serons, we shall be.
Vous serez, you shall be.
Ils seront, they shall be. }

Au lieu de shall, on dit aussi will.

II. Futur.

Sing. { Je serois, I should be.
Tu serois, thou shouldst be.
Il seroit, he should be. } Plur. { Nous serions, we should be.
Vous seriez, you should be.
Ils seroient, they should be. }

Au lieu de should, on se sert aussi de might, could, & would.

On dit aussi, dans le même Sens,

Sing. { I were,
Thou wert,
He were. } Plur. { We were.
You were.
They were. }

MODE IMPERATIF.

Sing. { Sois, be thou.
Qu'il soit, let him be. } Plur. { Soyons, let us be.
Soyez, be you.
Qu'ils soient, let them be. }

MODE SUBJONCTIF.

Temps Présent & Futur.

Sing. { Je sois, I be.
Tu sois, thou beest.
Il soit, he be. } Plur. { Nous soyons, we be.
Vous soyez, you be.
Ils soient, they be. }

Ce Temps se conjugue aussi avec may. Comme,

That I may be, que je sois, afin que je sois.

Temps Aoriste.

Sing. { Je fusse, I were.
Tu fusses, thou wert.
Il fût, he were. } Plur. { Nous fussions, we were.
Vous fussiez, you were.
Ils fussent, they were. }

Le Preterit Parfait de ce Mode n'est autre que Celui de l'Indicatif ; & ses deux Preterits Plus que Parfaits se conjuguent aussi tout de même que ceux de l'Indicatif.

Comme,

Quoi que j'aie été, Though I have been.
J'aurais été, ou j'eusse été, I had been.

Pour ce qui est de notre Futur,

J'aurai été, tu auras été, il aura été, &c.

Il faut le rendre en Anglois par le Preterit Parfait de l'Indicatif.

Comme,

Quand j'aurai été là, when I have been there.

MODE INFINITIF.

Etre, to be.

Avoir été, to have been.

Il y a ici une Remarque importante à faire, sur l'usage de ce Verbe. C'est que l'Anglois s'en sert souvent dans ce Sens, avec le Participe Présent d'un autre Verbe.

Comme,

I. Futr.

POUR APPRENDRE L'ANGLAIS.

I. Futur.

Il pleuvra, it will rain, it shall rain.

II. Futur.

Il pleuvroit, it would (ou it should) rain.

MODE IMPERATIF.

Qu'il pleuve, let it rain.

MODE SUBJONCTIF.

Tems Présent & Futur.

Afin qu'il pleuve, that it may rain.

Tems Aoriste.

Quoi qu'il plût, though it might rain.

Pret. Parfait.

Quoi qu'il ait plu, though it has rained.

I. Pret. Plusque Parfait.

Quand il anroit plu, though it had rained.

II. Pret. Plusque Parfait.

S'il eut plu, if it had rained.

Tems Futur.

Quand il aura plu, when it has rained.

A ce Verbe Impersonnel j'ajouterai en abrégé, C'est, it is; Qui fait, dans ses autres Tems, C'étoit, ou ce fut, it was.

C'a été, it has been.

C'avoit été, it had been.

Ce sera, it will be.

Ce seroit, it would be, ou it were.

Que ce soit, that it may be.

Quoi que ce fût, though it might be.

Quoi que ç'ait été, though it has been.

Quand ç'anroit été, though it had been.

Si c'eût été, if it had been.

La Construction des VERBES.

A l'égard des Noms, voici en quoi l'Anglois diffère du Genie de la Langue Française.

Après un Nom Collectif, ed. qui comprend plusieurs Individus, on met souvent le Verbe au Pluriel, quoi que le Nom soit au Singulier.

Exemple,

The greatest part of Mankind follow their Affections without consulting Reason, la plus grande part des Hommes suivent leurs Passions sans consulter la Raison.

The Committee have made their Report to the House, les Commissaires ont fait leur Rapport à la Chambre.

Quéquefois on place le Verbe devant le Substantif dont il depend.

Comme,

Then followed the Heralds at Arms, &c. les Herauts d'Armes suivoient ceux là, &c.

En Cas d'Interrogation, le Verbe va toujours devant le Substantif. En voici des Exemples.

Is Master at home? Monsieur est il au Logis?

Are my Men come back? mes Valets sont ils de retour?

Et, comme on met le Pronom entre l'Auxiliaire & le Verbe, de même en prend il du Nom. Exemple.

Doth the King speak? le Roi parle-t il?

Is the Boy gone out? le Garçon est il sorti?

A l'égard des Verbes & des Pronoms, l'Anglois suit la Construction qui est la plus naturelle, & place toujours le Verbe devant le Pronom qui en depend.

Comme,

I love you, je vous aime.

I don't love him, je ne l'aime pas.

Et, quand deux Pronoms se rencontrent, l'un Relatif & l'autre Personnel, le Relatif se met devant le Personnel. Comme,

I give it you, je vous le donne. Give it him, donnez le lui.

On dit { So be it, } ainsi soit il. { Say's he, } dit il. { Said he, } dit il.
pour { So let it be, } pour { He say's, } pour { He said, }

Ce dernier dit il est du Preterit Imparfait.

On transpose aussi le Verbe devant le Pronom dans ces Exemples suivans.

She loves him, and so do I, elle l'aime, aussi fais je.

She does not love him, neither do I, elle ne l'aime point, & je ne l'aime pas non plus.

Had I been there, si j'y avois été.

Were I a prodigal Man, si j'étois un Prodigue.

Des

PARTICIPES, } CONJONCTIONS, ADVERBES, } PREPOSITIONS.

JE met tous ces Chefs ensemble, parce que j'ai peu de Choses à dire sur chacun d'eux.

A l'égard des PARTICIPES, nous avons déjà remarqué au Commencement, qu'en Anglois le Participe Présent se termine toujours en ing; & le Preterit, le plus souvent en ed.

Tous deux se forment de l'Infinitif, en y ajoutant ing pour le Présent, & ed pour le Preterit. Ainsi

To follow, suivre, fait following suivant, & followed suivi.

Il est vrai que, pour faire un Participe Présent ou Preterit d'un Verbe qui finit en e à l'Infinitif, on retranche l'e de l'Infinitif.

Ainsi

To { love, } fait { loving, } & { loved. } praise, } fait { praising, } & { praised. }

Pour ce qui est des Participes Preterits, il y en a quelques uns d'Irreguliers. Mais, comme ils ne different pas des Preterits Simples du Mode Indicatif, vous n'avez qu'à former ces Participes sur le Modèle de ces Preterits.

Souvenez vous, au reste, de deux Usages differens, que l'on fait du Participe Présent. L'un, lors que ce Participe revêt la Nature d'un Nom Adjectif; & l'autre, lors qu'on s'en sert, par maniere de Conjugaison, avec le Verbe Auxiliaire to Be. C'est ce qui vous a déjà été remarqué ci dessus.

A ces deux Usages particuliers ajoutons, qu'on se sert quéquefois de ces Participes dans le Sens du Gerondif en do des Latins.

Comme,

En badinant, playing.

En se promenant, walking.

Quant aux ADVERBES, il y a quatre Choses principalement dignes de votre Remarque. L'une, qu'il y a des Adverbes, qui comparent à la maniere des Noms Adjectifs.

Les uns Regulierement; comme,

Soon, sooner, soonest. Early, earlier, earliest. Often, oftener, ofteneft.

Les autres Irregulierement; comme,

Well, better, best. Ill, worse, worst.

Ma seconde Remarque est, que l'Adverbe Anglois se place elegantement devant le Verbe. Exemple,

I humbly beg that favour of you, je vous demande tres humblement cette grace.

He cunningly went to work, il s'y prit tres adroitement.

La troisieme est, que l'Article the se met quéquefois devant certains Adverbes. Comme,

The more I converse with him, the more I love his Company, plus je le frequente, plus je me trouve charmé de sa Compagnie.

The less I see him the better, moins je le voi, & mieux je m'en trouve.

Cccc

Ma

Ma dernière Remarque est sur l'Usage de ces Adverbes
Hither, Thither, Whither.

C'est qu'on s'en sert au lieu de Here, There, Where, quand il s'agit d'un Mouvement d'un Lieu à un autre.

Ainsi il faut dire,

Come hither, (non pas come here) venez ici. lieu de must I go there? faut il que j'aille là?
Whither should I go? (plutôt que where should I go?) où irois je?

Ces Façons de parler sont des Delicesses de la Langue Angloise, conformes à la Latine.

A l'égard des CONJONCTIONS, comme Though, If, & autres semblables, l'Usage ne veut pas qu'on les repete en ce Cas.

Comme,

Though he grows old, and his strength begins to fail him (& non pas, and though his strength begins to fail him,) quoi qu'il vieillisse, & que les forces commencent à lui manquer.
If he goes thither, and I know of it, s'il y va, & que je le sache.

Pour ce qui est des PREPOSITIONS, voici les Remarques que j'ai à faire là dessus.

La première sera touchant l'Usage de At, To, & Into. Vous ferez donc, que les deux premières sont en Usage, là où il n'y a pas de Mouvement local.

Exemple,

He is at School, il est à l'Ecole. He is in his Chamber, il est dans sa Chambre.

Au lieu qu'en Cas de Mouvement local on se sert de To, & Into.

Comme,

He is gone to School, il est allé à l'Ecole. He went into his Chamber, il s'en alla dans sa Chambre.

Ma seconde Remarque sera touchant le bel Usage de ces deux Prepositions Out & Into, lors qu'avec une Emphase admirable, & particulière à l'Anglois, elles portent notre Esprit à la meditation d'un Changement à faire, ou qui s'est fait.

Comme,

To work a Child out of his roguish Tricks, faire quitter à un Enfant ses mechantes habitudes. To whip him into better manners, le reformer à force de Fouet.

A la verité ces Expressions Angloises sont d'une force, qui ne fauroit bien s'exprimer dans notre Langue.

Quoi que les Prepositions soient ainsi appelées, parce que d'ordinaire elles vont devant les Noms, cependant l'Anglois les range quelquefois à la fin de la Sentence, sur tout après ces Pronoms Who, & What.

Exemple,

Who did you dine with? d'où venez vous? de quel endroit venez vous?
What d'ye trouble your self for? de quoi vous mettez vous en peine?

Là vous voyez with dans la première Phrase, from dans la seconde, & for dans la troisième, à la fin; au lieu que, suivant la Construction naturelle, elles devoient être toutes trois au commencement.

Ainsi la Preposition devient, s'il m'est permis de le dire, une Postposition. Le Discours en est plus coulant, je l'avoue; & c'est à l'imitation de l'Ore tenu des Latins.

Vous devez savoir d'ailleurs, que les Prepositions ont un Usage particulier dans la Langue Angloise. C'est de communiquer leurs Significations à beaucoup de Mots, sans toutefois s'y incorporer.

Comme,

To look after, chercher. To put out, éteindre, effacer.
upon, regarder. forward, avancer.

Dans ces Exemples vous voyez, que la Preposition subsiste par elle même, & qu'elle demeure detachée du Verbe.

En fin, il faut remarquer, qu'il y a des Prepositions dont on se sert en Adverbes, en Anglois comme en François. Savoir, Before, After, Above, Below, Over, Under, Within, Without, &c.

De l'Usage de la PONCTUATION.

Avant que de finir, il ne sera pas peut être mal à propos de dire ici quelque Chose de la PONCTUATION, sans laquelle on ne fauroit écrire correctement. Cependant il y a tres peu de gens qui y soient exacts.

Chacun sait, que l'Ecriture est l'Image de la Parole. Et, comme on ne parle point sans faire quelques Pauses, les unes plus longues, les autres moins; il faut de même en écrivant, marquer le Discours des Caracteres qui sont établis, pour faire observer ces Choses par le Lecteur. En effet, (comme dit fort bien un Auteur anonyme) sans l'Usage de ces Distinctions, un Discours par écrit fait de la peine, & ce n'est pas sans difficulté que l'on en prend le Sens.

Ces Caracteres sont	{	Le Point,	}	dont voici la forme	{	.
		Les deux Points,				:
		Le Point & Virgule,				;
		La Virgule,				,
		La Parenthese,				()
		Le Point Interrogant,				?
		Le Point Admiratif,	!

Les Anglois se servent à peu près comme nous de toutes ces Distinctions. Les Esprits nets principalement, & ceux qui savent bien écrire, distinguent leurs Discours par Perodes, d'une longueur raisonnable. Il est vrai, que cette Netteté n'est pas tout à fait si universelle en Angleterre, qu'en France.

Comme le Discours est un Enchaînement de Perodes, les Perodes ont en elles un autre Enchaînement qui lie leurs Parties, qui toutes ensemble rendent un Sens parfait.

Ce Sens particulier & parfait dans le Discours se marque d'un Point seul à la fin. S'il y a dans la Perode quelque Interrogation, on y met un Point Interrogant; & si elle renferme quelque Admiration, il faut y mettre un Point Admiratif.

Les deux Points marquent un Sens moins achevé que le Point, & une moindre pause en lisant. Le Point & Virgule marquent un Sens moins achevé que les deux Points. Et la Virgule seule fait la moindre pause de toutes.

La Parenthese renferme un Discours séparé du Sens de la Perode. Pour la distinguer en parlant ou en lisant haut, elle se doit prononcer d'un ton différent. Mais, comme les Parentheses dans un Discours lié, & sur tout celles qui sont longues, ne servent qu'à embarrasser le Discours, & à confondre le Lecteur, l'Usage en est presque aboli parmi les François. Autrefois les Anglois s'en servoient excessivement, jusqu'à entasser Parenthese sur Parenthese. Depuis quelque tems ils s'en sont aussi défait; & à dire le vrai, il ne faut qu'avoir l'esprit net, pour s'en passer.

NOUS avons encore en François d'autres Caracteres, mais qui ne regardent que les Lettres, ou les Syllabes.

Ce sont	{	L'Apostrophe,	}	dont voici la forme	{	'
		La Division,				/
		Le Trema,				¨

Les deux premiers sont en Usage parmi les Anglois, mais le troisième ne l'est pas.

L'Apostrophe est une Marque en forme de Virgule, qui se met au haut d'une Consonne, pour faire voir qu'il y a en cet endroit une Voyelle retranchée. C'est ainsi qu'on écrit l'ame en François, pour la ame; & th en Anglois, pour the.

La Division sert à separer deux Syllabes. Comme lors qu'à la fin d'une Ligne on ne peut mettre un Mot entier, & qu'on est obligé d'en transporter une partie au commencement de la suivante; la fin de la Ligne, où le Mot a été coupé, est marquée de cette Division. Elle sert aussi à diviser de certains Mots Composés de deux. Comme en François mal-a-droit, mal-seant; & en Anglois, Belt-maker, Water-mill, Plump-faced.

A cet egard la Division est bien d'un plus grand Usage en Anglois qu'en François; parce que l'Anglois abonde en ces sortes de Composés.

J'appelle Trema, en Termes d'Imprimerie, ce qu'on appelle en Anglois Diaeresis; savoir les deux Points que l'on met quelquefois à côté l'un de l'autre sur ces Voyelles, e, i, u. Ce qui se fait, pour distinguer les Syllabes. Mais cette Distinction n'est affectée en François qu'à certains Mots, & n'est point du tout en usage parmi les Anglois.

Je conclus par une Remarque sur la maniere d'imprimer en Angleterre. C'est qu' (hormis pour la Bible) on s'y sert fort de la Lettre Italique, non seulement pour les Quotations, & pour les Changemens de Langue; mais aussi pour les Noms propres, & quelquefois pour des Mots qui ont la moindre Emphase. Ailleurs on n'affecte point tant ce Melange. Aussi l'Impression en paroît bien plus belle, plus degagée, & plus uniforme. J'avoue que, pour les Quotations & les Changemens de Langue, il est nécessaire qu'il y ait quelque Distinction. Mais aussi on m'avouera, qu'il ne faut pas être grand Clerc, pour savoir discerner les Noms Propres, & les Termes Emphatiques, d'avec ceux qui ne le sont pas. Ainsi je m'imagine, qu'avec le Tems on se passera de ces Distinctions en Angleterre, comme ailleurs.

A A A B

THE GREAT FRENCH DICTIONARY.

The ENGLISH before the FRENCH.

A.

A. Cette Lettre étoit autrefois une Marque de Pardon & d'Absolution, comme C en étoit une de Condamnation.

C'est la Lettre la plus ouverte, & la plus aisée de toutes à prononcer. C'est une Voyelle, qui dans toutes les Langues précède les autres Lettres, & tient le premier rang dans l'Alphabet. Aussi c'est par elle que les Enfants commencent à former des Sons. Mais la Prononciation n'en est pas la même par tout.

Dans la Langue Angloise, cette Voyelle s'appelle & se prononce ai.

Lors qu'elle est jointe avec d'autres Lettres, elle retient ce même Son dans la plupart des Mots; mais il se prononce tantôt long, tantôt bref.

L'a se prononce en ai long généralement, lors qu'il est suivi immédiatement d'une Consonne & d'un e final. Exemple fare, tare, care, grace, fable, qui se prononcent ainsi, faire, taire, caire, grace, faible.

Il en faut excepter, 1. ces quatre Terminaisons able, acle, age, & ate, des Mots qui ont plusieurs Syllabes; où l'e final, étant presque conté pour rien, fait que l'a se prononce bref. Exemple affable, damnable; miracle, spectacle; courage, viintage; private, to prostitute.

[Il y en a pourtant quelques uns de ces derniers, qui suivent la Règle; comme debate, sedate, relate, create, procreate, recreate, & quelques autres.]

2. Ces Mots, humane, female, pallace, preface, surface, & quelques autres, où l'Accent se met à la première Syllabe.

D'ailleurs, a se prononce en ai bref, ou en e ouvert, lors qu'il se trouve entre deux Consonnes, au milieu des Monosyllabes; comme hat, cap, mad.

Mais il approche du Son de notre a, à la fin des Noms en al, ar, & ard, qui ont plus d'une Syllabe. Exemple, general, special, animal; Grammar, altar, singular, particular; mustard, cuitard, bastard, vizard, & autres semblables.

Excepté regard, qui se prononce regard; a-ward & reward, où il sonne comme en François.

Voyons maintenant où cette Voyelle en Anglois se prononce de notre manière.

A se prononce comme un a François un peu long, dans les Mots qui finissent en ld, lk, ll, & lt. Exemple, bald, talk, all, falt, & tous leurs Derivatifs; comme du Mot all entr'autres, also, almost, already, almighty.

[Il en faut excepter shall, où l'a se prononce bref ordinairement; & Mall, un Jeu de Paume, qui se prononce Mell.]

2. Il se prononce en a long dans ces Mots, altar, bable, balsom, false, halter, qualm, quart, quarter, tassels, thraldom, War, Wardeu, warm, Warren, warn, water, wrath.

Ceux ci ont bien le même Son, mais ils se prononcent court. Savoir a, as, was, wash, watch, watle, that, what.

De même en est il de plusieurs Mots qui commencent par un a. Ex. appear, apply, approve, arrest, arrive, aspire, assist, assume, attain, attend, & quantité d'autres.

Dans le Mot de Jane, l'a se prononce en e masculin, Dgène.

A, dans la Langue Angloise, est erigé en Mot, aussi bien que dans la Française. En ce Sens son plus grand Usage consiste dans sa fonction d'Article. Car les Anglois ont, comme nous, deux Articles, the & a, qui répondent aux nôtres, le, un. Mais il y a cette Difference, qu'au lieu que les nôtres varient au regard du Genre & du Nombre, les Anglois sont Invariables à l'un & à l'autre egard.

Ainsi l'Article a signifie un, & une; & au lieu qu'au Plurier un & une se tournent en des, les Anglois en ce cas ne mettent point d'Article au Plurier.

Exemple, a man un homme, a woman une femme; a good man un bon homme, a good woman une bonne femme.

Mais au Plurier on dit simplement, men des hommes, women des femmes; good men de bons hommes, good women de bonnes femmes.

Remarquez que cet Article, devant un Mot qui commence par une Voyelle ou par une h muette, reçoit une n, pour éviter la Cacophonie. Exemple, an eagle un aigle, an hour une heure.

A quelque; le, la.

As, to do a thing, faire quelque chose. I was there a while, j'y fus quelque tems.

To wear a sword, porter l'épée. Twice a day, deux fois le jour. Once a year, une fois l'année.

A, dans le Sens d'every.

Exemple, So much a Week, that is every Week, tant par Semaine. So much a man, that is every man, tant par tête.

On se sert aussi tres souvent de cette Particule, entre un Verbe & un Participe du Temps Présent.

Comme, to go a hunting, aller à la chasse. To go a begging, aller mendiant, mendier.

I am a coming, je m'en vien. I was a going, je m'en allois. It is a doing, on y travaille.

He is a doing of it, il le fait, il y travaille.

Cette Particule entre encore dans quelques façons de parler, sans qu'elle y ait aucune Signification. Il est vrai qu'elle sert à rendre l'Expression plus cadencée & douce à l'oreille, & qu'en un mot elle donne quelque grace à l'Expression.

Exemple, 'tis one a clock il est une heure, two a clock deux heures, three a clock trois heures, &c.

Ainsi l'on dira fort bien, What a man are you? quel homme (qui) êtes vous? Comme l'on dit many a man, au lieu de many men, plusieurs personnes.

Vous verrez aussi quelquefois cette Particule tenir lieu de Preposition, devant un Substantif, & cela avec une Division entre la Particule & le Nom, pour la distinguer de l'Article.

Exemple, to be a bed, (pour to be in the bed) être au lit. To go a-foot (pour to go on foot) aller à pié.

Autrement on la joint avec le Substantif; comme a-bed, a-foot, a-breast, a-thrift.

Mais il y a plusieurs autres Mots qui en sont composés, sans qu'elle change aucunement le Sens de ces Mots.

Comme afar off, to abate; qui signifient la même chose que leurs simples, far off loin, to bate rabatre.

Anabaptism, the Religion (or Sect) of the Anabaptists, la Religion (ou la Secte) des Anabaptistes.

Anabaptist, Anabaptiste.

The Anabaptists (says Mr. Blount) are a sort of Hereticks, whose chief erroneous Tenets are, 1. That Christ took not Flesh from the Virgin Mary, but that he passed through her, as the Sun-beams through Glass, or Rain through a Spout. 2. That there is no Original Sin. 3. That Children ought not to be baptized. 4. That such as have been baptized in their Infancy ought to be re-baptized, when they come to Years of Discretion. And 'tis from this Tenet that they are called Anabaptists; which, according to the Greek Original, signifies as much as Rebaptizers. 5. That Lay-people may preach and administer the Sacraments. 6. That Absolution and the Church-peace ought to be denied to such as are fallen unto any grievous Sin; yea, though they repent of it. 7. That Luther and the Pope are false Prophets, but of the two Luther the worst.

In Matters of State, they hold, 1. That the People may depose their Magistrates and chief Rulers. 2. That a Christian with a good Conscience may not take upon him to bear the Office of a Magistrate, or keep any Court of Justice. 3. That none may administer an Oath to another. 4. That no Malefactor ought to be put to Death.

In Family-Government, they hold, 1. That no man hath a Property in his Goods, but that all Things ought to be held in common. 2. That it is lawfull to have more Wives than one at once. 3. That a Man may put away his Wife, if she differ from him in point of Religion, or be not of their Sect.

Now there are divers sorts of Anabaptists, whereof some hold but part of these Opinions, some all, and others more than these.

Melancthon says, that one Nicholas Stork first broached Anabaptism, and that in Germany, about the Year 1521. The Sect holds out still, and propagates it self in many Parts of Christendom.

An ancient Custom, Law, Friendship, une ancienne Coutume, Loi, Amitié.

To grow ancient, vieillir, devenir (se faire) vieux.

Ancient Demesne, or Demayne. 'Tis a certain Tenure, whereby all the Mannors belonging to the Crown in the Days of St. Edward, or William the Conquerour, were held. The Numbers and Names of which Mannors, as of all others belonging to common Persons, after a Survey made of them, William the Conquerour caused to be written in a Book, now remaining in the Exchequer, and called Doomday.

And those which by that Book appear to have at that time belonged to the Crown, and are contained under the Title, Terra Regii, are called Ancient Demesne. Now of these Tenants some held their Land frankly by Charter, others by Copy of Court-roll, or by the Verge at the Will of the Lord, according to the Custom of the Mannor. The Benefit of this Tenure consists in these points. 1. The Tenants holding by Charter cannot be impleaded out of their Mannor; or, if they be, they may abate the Writ, by pleading their Tenure. 2. They are free of Toll, for all Things concerning their Livelyhood and Husbandry. 3. They may not be impannelled upon any Inquest. These Tenants, it seems, held originally by ploughing the King's Lands, plashing his Hedges, or such like, towards the Maintenance of his Household; for which Cause they had such Liberties granted. No Lands ought to be esteemed Ancient Demesne, but such as are held in Socage.

The Ancients, (Subst.) les Anciens, l'Antiquité, les vieux Auteurs Grecs & Latins.

In the Middle-Temple they call Ancients such as are past their Reading, and never read. In Grays-Inn the Society consists of Benchers, Ancients, Barresters, and Students under the Bar; and here the Ancients are of the more ancient Barresters. The Inns of Chancery consist of Ancients, and Students, or Clerks; and, among the Ancients cients, one is yearly the Principal, or Treasurer.

Anciently, anciennement.
Anciently there was a greater freedom amongst Men, anciennement on vivoit dans le Monde avec plus de franchise.

Anconie, a kind of Sore, Froncle, Tumeur impure qui naît aux parties charnues par fluxion d'un Sang grossier.

And, &c.
As, God's Justice and Mercy, la Justice & la Misericorde de Dieu.
Il est bon de vous faire ici remarquer, que cette Conjonction est d'un Usage bien plus étendu en Anglois, que nôtre & en François; & l'on peut dire, qu'entre les Conjonctions Angloises celle ci est la Favorite. Outre ses Usages qui répondent à ceux de nôtre &, elle en a d'autres tout particuliers, comme il paroît par les Exemples suivants.

A Toft and ale, une Rotie trempée dans l'Ale. A Toft and butter, une Rotie au beurre.

I'll go and see, je veux aller voir. How can we go out, and not be seen? le moyen de sortir sans être vu. Let us go and drink, allons boire. This is pure and clean, ceci est fort net. A little more and he had been killed, peu s'en falut qu'il ne fût tué.

To grow better and better, devenir toujours meilleur. To grow worse and worse, devenir toujours pire. To sink deeper and deeper, s'affaiblir toujours davantage, s'enfoncer de plus en plus.

And therefore, pour cet effet, c'est pourquoi, c'est pour cela que. And yet, néanmoins. By and by, tout à l'heure, maintenant.

Now and then, de tems en tems. By little and little, peu à peu. And so forth, &c.

And, que. And if that be true, que si cela est vrai. And if you do that, que si vous faites cela.

†And, for if, si. As, I'll out to see and I can make them friends, je veux aller voir si je pourrai faire la paix. And God will, (for, if God will) s'il plaît à Dieu. And you please, s'il vous plaît.

En fin on s'en sert, comme d'un Substantif, en cette Expression. Without Ifs or Ands, sans barguigner.

Andiron, Chenet.
A bright Andiron, un Chenet bien poli.

The Word is supposed to come from the French Aneantir.

to Annihilate, or turn to nothing, aneantir, détruire.
As to Create is to make Something of Nothing, or to produce an Effect without the help of some precedent Materials; so to Annihilate is utterly to destroy a Thing, or to reduce it to its old Nothing. And, as to Create is an Action proper only to God himself; so, in like manner, to Annihilate is only proper to him. Whereas other kinds of Productions and Corruptions are the ordinary Effects of second and subaltern Causes.

Annihilated, aneanti, détruit.

Annihilating, or Annihilation, aneantissement.

Anniversary, which returns yearly at one Time, qui revient tous les Ans.
An anniversary Feast, Fête qui revient tous les Ans.

Anniversary Days. They were in former Times solemn Days appointed in Commemoration of the Deaths or Martyrdoms of Saints, and once every Year celebrated. Also Days whereon, at the return of every Year, Men were wont to pray for the Souls of their deceased Friends, according to the continued Custom of the Roman Catholics.

Anno Domini, l'An de Grace.
The Christians generally beginning their Era from the Birth of our Saviour, the English do usually date their publick Writings with this Latine Expression Anno Domini, which signifies in the Year of our Lord, and that with an Addition of the Year of the King's Reign. So that the Day of the Month, the Year of our Lord, and the Year of the King's Reign, are the usual Dates of Deeds.

Law, is, when any Body corporate, or private Person, has the Right, and converts the Profit of an Ecclesiastical Living to his or their own Use, only maintaining a Vicar to serve the Cure. To make an Appropriation, a Licence must be obtained of the King in Chancery; and the Consent of the Diocesan, Patron, and Incumbent are necessary, if the Church be full. But, if the Church be void, the Diocesan and the Patron, upon the King's Licence, may conclude it. To dissolve an Appropriation, it is enough to present a Clerk to the Bishop. For, that once done, the Benefice returns to the former nature.

Arianism, the pestilent Heresy of Arius, and his Sectaries, who from him were called Arians, l'Arianisme, ou l'Herésie des Ariens.

¶ The Heresy of the Arians was, That they denied the Son of God to be Consubstantial (or of the same Substance) with God the Father, and asserted him a Creature made by God, capable of Vice, &c. This Heresy began about the Year of Christ 315, in the Time of Constantine the Great; for which Arius, and his deceived Complices, upon the first broaching their Tenets, were excommunicated by their own Bishop Alexander. Yet notwithstanding it increased to that degree, that, to beat it down, the first Council of Nice was called, the Nicene Creed made, and the Clause [of one Substance with the Father] proved to be consentaneous to the Word of God. To subscribe the Decrees of this Council, Arius was sent for by the Emperour Constantine, to whom he went, having written his own heretical Tenets, which he hid in his Bosom. And, reading before the Emperour the Decrees of the Council; he wrote a Recantation of his Heresy, swearing that he meant as he had written. Which Words, the Emperour referred to the Recantation; and Arius, to the Paper of his own Tenets in his bosom. Who, when he had taken this Oath, went in Triumph through the Streets of the City; till, a Necessity of Nature inforcing him, he withdrew aside to a Convenient House, where he voided out his Guts, and sent his Soul as a Harbinger to the Devil, to provide room for his Body. But, notwithstanding this sudden and infamous Death of Arius, the Heresy died not with him. On the contrary it spread it self very much afterwards throughout Christendom; but more in the East than the Western Churches. Nor is it to this day quite extinct, divers still adhering to it, especially in Transylvania, and the bordering Countries. Arius was a Lybian born, and a Priest of Alexandria.

Je conclu par un Usage particulier de ce Mot, dont on se sert fort souvent par une Elegance Angloise dans ce Sens.

Exemple, As Man is sensible, of one side, of his mortal Condition; so, on the other, he apprehends God's Greatness & Eternity, l'Homme sent d'un côté sa Mortalité, & de l'autre la Grandeur & l'Eternité de Dieu.

As these things are very unprofitable, so they are very base, ces Choses sont également inutiles & basses.

As you tender your own Safety, do not suffer your self to be prevailed upon by such Councils, si vous prenez (tant que vous prendrez) à cœur votre préservation, gardez vous de tels Conseils.

As far	} See	Far.
As good		Good.
As if		If.
As long		Long.
As much		Much.
As soon		Soon.
As though		Though.
As well		Aswell.

What remains is to give here a List of the Similies that are most in use in the English Tongue, viz.

As clear as crystal, clair comme du crystal.

As warm as wool, chaud comme laine. As cold as Ice, froid comme Glace.

As soft as Silk, doux comme de la Soie.

As strong as Mustard, fort comme de la Moutarde. As sweet as Honey, doux comme Miel.

Ascendent, or Influence, ascendant, influence.

I gained this ascendent upon him, j'en eus cet ascendant sur lui.

Ascension, Ascension.

As, the Ascension of our Lord and Saviour, l'Ascension de notre Seigneur.

The Ascension-Day, le Jour de l'Ascension.

Ascend, Elevation, Montée.

An Ascend of three steps, une Elevation de trois marches.

A hard (or difficult) Ascend, une Montée rude.

to Ascertain, or assure, confirmer, assurer.

Ascertain, confirmé, assuré.

Ascertainer, qui confirme, qui assure.

Ascertain, confirmation, l'action de confirmer, ou d'assurer.

to Ascribe, give, or attribute, attribuer, rendre.

To ascribe all Glory to God, attribuer toute Gloire à Dieu.

Ascribed, attribué, rendu.

Ascribing, l'action d'attribuer, de rendre.

Ash, or Ash-tree, Frêne, sorte d'Arbre.

The Ash-tree delights in moist Places, le Frêne se plaît aux Lieux humides.

Ashamed, qui a honte, confus.

I am ashamed to say it, j'ai honte de le dire. You should be ashamed of it, vous devriez en avoir honte.

I am ashamed of him, il me fait honte.

He is ashamed that he hath put you to so much trouble, il est confus de vous avoir donné tant de peine.

He makes me ashamed, il me rend confus, il me fait honte, il me donne de la confusion.

Or thus. I wonder you are not ashamed to look me in the face, je m'étonne que vous ayez l'impudence de me regarder en face.

In point of Confession, never be ashamed to say what thou was not ashamed to do, en fait de Confession, ne fais aucun scrupule d'avouer les Crimes que tu n'as pas fait difficulté de commettre.

They were both naked, the Man and his Wife, and were not ashamed, (Gen.2.25.)

Ils étoient tous deux nus, savoir Adam & sa Femme, & ne le prenoient point à honte.

Ashen, (from Ash) de frêne, fait de bois de frêne.

Ashes, Cendres.

To burn to ashes, reduire en cendres.

To ly in ashes, être enseveli sous ses cendres.

Ash-colour, cendré, couleur de cendre.

Or thus. As, to ask a question, faire une question.

To ask people in the Church, publier les bans (ou annonces) de Mariage.

To ask for one, or after one, demandeur quelqu'un, pour lui parler. If any body ask for me, si quelqu'un me demande, si quelqu'un veut me parler.

Au reste, remarquez cette Distinction des Verbes Anglois, qui signifient demander. To beg veut dire demander avec soumission; to desire, avec modestie; to demand, avec justice, ou autorité; & to ask se dit dans tous ces Sens. Quand le Roi demande des Subsidies à son Parlement, il se sert de ce dernier Verbe, & dit par exemple, I ask your Assistance.

Asked, demandé, Ec. according to the Verb.

Asper, a Turkish Coin, un Aspre (qui vaut environ six Sous.)

An aspect, or distance of Planets and Constellations, aspect de Planètes & de Constellations.

The Astronomers reckon four such Aspects.

Aspects, which they call Trine, Quartile, Sextile, and Opposite Aspect.

The Trine Aspect is so called, because it divides the Heavens into three even Parts; it being the Distance of four Signs from each other. So Aries beholds Leo and Sagittarius with a Trine Aspect, because these are distant four Signs; the one before, the other after Aries.

The second, called a Quartile, is the Distance of three Signs. Accordingly Aries beholds Cancer and Capricorn with a Quartile Aspect, because they are distant three Signs from him.

The third, called a Sextile Aspect, is the Distance of two Signs. So Aries beholds Gemini and Aquarius with this Sextile Aspect, being but two Signs distant from them.

The fourth, called an Opposite Aspect, is the farthest Distance that can be, namely a Distance of six Signs asunder. Accordingly Aries beholds Libra with this opposite Aspect, and Libra beholds Aries with the same.

The like is of all the other Signs, or Planets placed in them. So Taurus beholds Cancer and Pisces with a Sextile; Leo and Aquarius, with a Quartile; Virgo and Capricorn, with a Trine; and Scorpio, with an opposite Aspect.

Note, that the Distance of one or five Signs is not called an Aspect.

Assault, or Onset, un Assaut, une Attaque.

A general Assault, un Assaut general.

To take a Town by assault, prendre une Ville d'assaut.

Assault, in the Sense of the Law, signifies a violent kind of Injury offered to a Man's person, and of a higher nature than Battery. For it may be committed by offering of a Blow, or by a threatening Speech. And that Assault does not always imply a Blow, or Striking, appears in that in Trespass for Assault and Battery, a Man may be found guilty of the Assault, and excused of the Battery. In short, to threaten a Collector with harsh Words, so that he dare not for fear execute his Office, has been reckoned an Assault. Also, to strike a Man, though he be neither hurt nor hit, has been adjudged the like.

To hold the Assizes, tenir les Assises.

The general Assizes, les Assises generales, cd. qui se tiennent par tout le Royaume.

To understand well the Nature of these Assizes, you must know, that all the Counties of England are divided into six Circuits, and two learned Men are assigned by the King's Commission to every Circuit to ride twice a Year through the Shires allotted to that Circuit. These we call Justices, or Judges of Assize, who have five several Commissions by which they sit.

The first is a Commission of Oyer and Terminer, directed to them and many others of the best account in their Circuits. But in this Commission the Judges of Assize are of the Quorum, so as without them there can be no Proceeding. This Commission gives them power to deal with Treasons, Murders, and all manner of Felonies and Misdemeanours whatsoever, which is their largest Commission.

The second is a Commission of Gaol-Delivery, that is only to the Judges themselves, and the Clerk of the Assize associate. By which Commission they are to deal with every Prisoner in the Gaol, for what Offence soever he be there.

The third Commission is directed to themselves only, and the Clerk of Assize, to take Assizes, by which they are called Justices of Assize. And the Office of these Justices is to do Right upon Writs called Assize, brought before them by such as are wrongfully thrust out of their Lands.

The fourth Commission is to take Nisi prius, directed to none but to the Judges themselves, and their Clerks of Assize, by which they are called Justices of Nisi prius.

The fifth is a Commission of the Peace in every County of their Circuit. And all the Justices of the Peace, having no lawful Impediment, are bound to be present at the Assizes, to attend the Judges, as Occasion shall fall out. If any make default, the Judges may fine them at their discretions. The Sheriff of every Shire is also to attend in person, or by a sufficient Deputy allowed by the Judges; who may fine him, if he fail.

Audience of Leave, Audience de Congé, la dernière Audience.

A great Audience, or Assembly hearkening to something spoken, un grand Auditoire.

☞ Audience-Court. This is a Court belonging to the Archbishop of Canterbury, of equal Authority with the Arches-Court, though inferior both in Dignity and Antiquity.

Audit, an Audit of Accounts in a Chapter, Chapitre, ou Assemblée de Chanoines sur les Revenus d'un Chapitre.

Auditor, or Hearer, Auditeur, celui qui écoute.

As, I was one of your Auditors, j'étois un de vos Auditeurs.

An Auditor of the Exchequer, un Auditeur des Contes.

☞ Auditor, in the sense of the Law, is an Officer of the King, or some great Personage; which yearly, by examining the Accounts of all Under-Officers accounts, makes up a general Book, whereby appears the Difference between their Receipts and Charge, and which shews their Allowances.

Auditor of the Receipts. 'Tis an Officer of the Exchequer, that files the Tellers Bills, makes an Entry of them, and gives the Lord Treasurer a Certificate of the Money received the Week before. He makes also Debenturs to every Teller, before they pay any Money, and takes their Accounts. He keeps the black Book of the Receipts, and the Treasurer's Key of the Treasury, and sees every Tellers Money lockt up in the New Treasury.

Auditors of the Prefts or Imprests. These are Officers in the Exchequer, who take and make up the great Accounts of Ireland, Berwick, the Mint, and of any Money imprested to any Man for the King's Service.

Augmentation, or Increase, accroissement, augmentation.

☞ In the Reign of King Henry VIII. there was a Court erected by this Name, That the King might be justly dealt with, touching the Profit of such Religious Houses, and their Lands, as were given to him by Act of Parliament. For the Dissolving of which Court, Authority was given to Queen Mary, by the Parliament held the first Year of her Reign, which she afterward put in execution by her Letters Patent.

The Name of the Court sprung from hence, That the Revenues of the Crown were augmented so much by the Suppression of the said Houses, as the King reserved unto the Crown, and neither gave nor sold away to others. But the Office of Augmentation remains to this Day, wherein there are many Records of great Use and Importance.

Augmented, augmenté.

Augmenter, qui augmente.

Augmenting, l'action d'accroître, ou d'augmenter.

Augre. See Auger.

Augur, or Soothsayer, Augure, Celui qui jugeoit de l'Avenir par le Vol des Oiseaux.

☞ It is observable, that the Augures were in such esteem amongst the Romans, that there was a Colledge of them in the City. Neither would the Romans undertake any publick Matter of Importance, without asking their Assent. But the Vanity thereof was well derided (as Josephus writes) by a wife Jew, named Mossolamus. For an Augur in the Wars once requiring, that the Army then upon the march might stand still a while, till he took Observation of a Bird, thereby to foreknow the Success of this Expedition; this Jew, whilst the Augur was busy in his Art, shot at the Bird with an Arrow, and by chance killed her. Whereat the Augur and others being highly offended, Are you so foolish (says the Jew) to imagine this poor Bird can tell what will happen to us, that could not foresee her own Death so near at hand. They were called Augures, ab Avium Garritu, from the Chirping and Chattering of Birds. 'Tis said the Egyptians were the first Inventors of this Superstition.

There are at this day in England several sorts of Barons, 1. the Barons, that are Peers of the Realm, and accordingly sit in the House of Peers. 2. The Barons (or Judges) of the Exchequer. 3. The Barons of the Cinque-Ports, that have Places in the House of Commons.

The first are Barons by Writ, or by Letters Patent, or by Tenures. The Barons by Writ are those that to the Title of Lord have their own Surnames annexed. The Barons by Letters Patent are named by their Baronies. And the Barons by Tenures are the Bishops, who by virtue of Baronies annexed to their Bishopricks, have always had place in the House of Lords, and are called Lords Spiritual. The Barons by Writ and by Letters Patent, have their Honour and Privileges settled on them and their Heirs Male. But the Barons which were first made by Writ, may now justly be called Barons by Prescription, for that they have continued Barons by themselves and their Ancestors beyond the Memory of Man.

The Barons of the Exchequer are so called, because Barons of the Realm were wont to be employ'd in that Office. Whereas of late they have been Men learned in the Common Laws of the Realm. There are four of these Barons, of which the principal is called Lord Chief Baron, being the chief Judge of the Court, and the three other are his Assistants. Their Office is to look to the King's Accounts, for which purpose they have Auditors under them; as also to decide all Causes appertaining to the King's Profits, coming into the Exchequer by any means.

The Barons of the Cinque-Ports are two of every one of these seven Towns of Hastings, Winchelsey, Rye, Rumney, Hithe, Dover, and Sandwich. See Cinque-Ports.

'Tis observable, that the chief Magistrates of London were also called Barons before they had a Lord Mayor. And, in all Law-books written in French, the Word Baron is used for the Husband in relation to his Wife.

Baroness, a Baron's Lady, Baronne, Femme de Baron.

Baronet, Knight Baronet, Chevalier Baronet (premier Degré d'honneur en Angleterre, après celui de Baron.)
